Mrs. Meir sets talks with Nixon

TEL AVIV (AP) — Premier Golda Meir said as she left for the United States today that she thought the downing of a Libyan airliner last week by Israeli fighters would have no effect on her talks with President Nixon.

The 74-year-old premier looked drawn and admitted to newsmen she was "very tired." But she dodged other questions, saying: "I will tell you everything when I get back."

Foreign Minister Abba Eban told newsmen that Mrs. Meir would give top priority in Washington to the possibility of "proximity" peace talks with the Arabs. Under this formula, the Israelis and Arabs would meet separately and alternately with a neutral negotiator who would act as a go-between. The procedure was tried by Gunnar Jarring, the U.N. mediator for the Middle East, but was not successful.

On Sunday, the Israeli government reported that the French captain of the Libyan jetliner was not licensed to fly that type of plane. The government said it had found Capt. Jacques Bourges' flying permit and that it did not list the trijet Boeing 727, the plane downed last Wednesday on the Israeli side of the Suez Canal. Bourges was licensed only as a copilot for the French Caravelle jetliner and several propeller planes, the Israelis said.

Air France, the French government airline, disputed the Israeli statement. It said Bourges had completed the training course for 727 pilots on Nov. 6, 1971, and this had been entered on his license five days later.

The government also announced that it was ready to make payments to the families of the 106 persons killed in the crash, including Bourges, and to the other seven aboard the plane, who were injured. But it refused to use the word "compensation" because that would imply guilt for the downing of the plane.

Instead, a cabinet communique announcing the offer used the term "ex gratia," meaning "out of kindness."

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has said the Israelis misinterpreted the situation but errors by the pilot and the Cairo air control center also were to blame in the downing of the airliner.

Officials hopeful of last-minute change

North Viets delay prisoner release

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese spokesman said today that no American prisoners of war will be released on Tuesday, but U.S. officials were hopeful of last-minute word from Hanoi announcing about 140 more POWs would be handed over.

"There will definitely not be any POW releases Tuesday, "the chief North Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon, Bui Tin, told newsmen. He added that the list of the next prisoners to be turned over also would not be delivered today. He said word was expected soon from Hanoi, but he did not know when it would come.

Tin said the senior members of the Joint Military Commission would take up the POW issue at their next regular meeting Wednesday, indicating he expected no transfer of POWs before Thursday.

But a U.S. official told newsmen there was still a "distinct possibility" of about 140 Americans being released on Tuesday, "the last day of the second increment."

"That's what happened the first time," he said. "We're ready to go into action within short notice as soon as we get the specifics of when and where."

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong handed over 143 American prisoners on Feb. 12, 15 days after the signing of the cease-fire agreement in Paris, and the United States expected the release of another group of the same size on Tuesday, 15 days after the first transfer. Twenty more U.S. POWs were handed over in Hanoi on Feb. 18, but this was billed as a gesture of appreciation for the visit of U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The Communists still hold 407 servicemen and 15 civilians in North and South Vietnam and Laos, according to Hanoi.

Tin tied the release of the Americans to the issue of Vietnamese civilians held by the Saigon government, saying, "we would like very much to see the U.S. POWs return to their families, but there are also 100,000 Vietnamese families who do not know about their missing members."

The United States maintains that the cease-fire agreement spells out that the repatriation of American prisoners is contingent on only one thing, the rate of the American troop withdrawal from Vietnam. The U.S. Command announced today that the withdrawal is slightly more than 50 per cent complete. U.S. officials pointed out that only 28 per cent of the American prisoners had been released.

Meanwhile, South Vietnam charged that the North Vietnamese had established three surface-to-air missile sites just below the demilitarized zone in violation of the cease-fire, and informed sources said the sites had been photographed by U.S. reconnaissance planes.

This was the first word that American reconnaissance flights are continuing over South Vietnam. U.S. sources said that while the cease-fire agreement specifically prohibits such flights over North Vietnam, there is no ban on such activity in South Vietnam.

Canada complains to peace meet

PARIS (AP) — Canada told the nations involved in war and peace in Vietnam today that it will quit the international commission supervising the ceasefire by April 30 unless an international authority is set up to deal with violations of the peace agreement.

Foreign Minister Mitchell Sharp told the opening session of an international conference on Vietnam that Canada cannot accept a peacekeeping role where violations can only be reported back to those accused of committing them.

Sharp proposed that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who is attending the conference, be empowered to receive reports of cease-fire violations and reconvene the conference if he thought this necessary.

He stressed that the individual members of the International Commission of Control and Supervision—Indonesia, Poland and Hungary are the others—should be allowed to report violations, and not just the commission as a whole, where unanimity would be required.

Sharp added that Canada may pull out of the commission if it is unable to function effectively.

"My government is well aware of the problems that a vacancy in the commission could create, and would, in practice, do whatever it could to avoid that situation arising," Sharp told the other 11 foreign ministers and Waldheim.

"But we should not be asked to watch in silence a resumption of hostilities, nor to accept direct responsibility for all the consequences that could ensue if we felt duty-bound to report to the world that the agreement had been seriously breached."

Despite Sharp's efforts to put teeth in the agreement signed in Paris Jan. 27, the conference was expected to settle for a big power pledge to let the Vietnamese people settle their problems without outside interference.

The Viet Cong foreign minister, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Bing, apparently spoke for the Communist delegations Friday when she said the conference should merely take note of the agreement, pledge its participants to observe it and call on other countries to help keep the peace.

British officials said some such formula may be the best the conference can hope to achieve because the tasks assigned to it under Article 19 of the cease-fire agreement are practically impossible to fulfill.

Article 19 says the conference should "acknowledge the signed agreements; to guarantee the ending of the war, the maintenance of peace in Vietnam, the respect of the Vietnamese people's fundamental national rights and the South Vietnamese people's right to self-determination; and to contribute to and guarantee peace in Indochina."

One high ranking British source said the conference would take a "poetic view" of these instructions and settle for a declaration of broad principle.

Party leaders push rights amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — With approval of 10 more states needed, President Nixon and the chairmen of the two major political parties have called for ratification of the equal rights amendment to elevate the status of women.

Nixon's appeal was made last week in an economic message to Congress. Democratic Chairman Robert Strauss and his Republican counterpart, George Bush, have been writing state legislators to urge approval.

Backers of the constitutional amendment had hoped it might win ratification before Aug. 26, the 50th anniversary of women's suffrage. But in the past month the amendment has run into opposition from some conservatives, and there are predictions it might take another year or more to push it through.

Twenty-eight of the necessary 38 states have ratified the amendment, which would bar the abridgement of civil rights on the basis of sex.

Opponents contend ratification of the amendment would play havoc with the nation's laws, destroy the family system and require that women register for the military draft.

Bush intervened unsuccessfully when the amendment was up for a vote in the North Dakota House of Representatives last Thursday. The House killed the proposal for the year. The GOP chairman also sent telegrams to Republican officials in Maine, whose legislature votes on the amendment Tuesday.

Anne Armstrong, former co-chairman of the Republican National Committee and now a counselor to Nixon, has written letters and occasionally spoken on behalf of the amendment since it cleared Congress nearly a year ago.

Strauss last week wrote Democratic governors and legislators in each of the 32 states that have not ratified the amendment, saying "it would be a dangerous move to step away from our commitment to the women of America at this point in our party's and our nation's history."

IN FOCUS — Five-month-old Michael Schumacher of Biloxi does not seem to like wearing his new glasses. The youngest child to be fitted with corrective lenses at Ochsner Hospital in New Orleans, Michael must wear his glasses for three months until he is old enough to undergo surgery to correct a muscle problem. He is held by his mother, Mrs. Susan Schumacher.

Fair weather covers wide area of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gale warnings were posted on the north and central Pacific coast early today as wind velocity reached more than 40 miles per hour at places.

The Northwest girded itself for another onslaught of wet weather as a new frontal system approached.

Fair weather prevailed in southern California and from the Rockies and Plateau to the lower Mississippi Valley generally.

Dense fog covered south central Nebraska and light fog reduced visibility in Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri. Light snow whitened Grand Island, Neb.

A light snow dusted the Lower Great Lakes region. One inch was added today to the nine dumped on Flint, Mich., Sunday.

Scattered showers and thundershowers touched the upper Ohio Valley, the south Atlantic coastal states and West Palm Beach, Fla.

Temperatures ranged from 5 at Marquette, Mich., to 72 at Miami, Fla.

Six persons injured in weekend crashes

Five persons were injured, two seriously, when a car and pickup truck collided at the intersection of U.S. 22 and Ohio 753 Saturday night.

The crash was one of eight investigated locally by police and sheriff's deputies over the weekend which resulted in six injuries and moderate property damage. Four drivers were cited for traffic law violations as the result of accidents.

Reported in fair condition at Children's Hospital, Columbus, is Vivian Young, 9, of Coalton. She was a passenger in a pickup truck driven by her father, Warren Young, 49. Young and his wife, Ruth, were both treated at Memorial Hospital for bumps and bruises and released.

Donald L. Frazier, 30, Lancaster, driver of the car, and Tammy J. Frazier, 22, a passenger, were also injured. Tammy Frazier was later admitted to Memorial Hospital with rib injuries.

Investigating officers said the Frazier car was westbound on U.S. 22 when the Young truck pulled from a stop sign on Ohio 753 into Frazier's path.

Young was cited for failure to yield the right of way in the 7:25 p.m. collision.

Both vehicles were heavily damaged.

ONE WOMAN was injured and damage was listed as heavy in a two-car crash at the Fayette - Elm Street intersection at 4:10 p.m. Sunday.

Betty L. Fine, Lorain, a passenger in a car driven by Bernice E. Johnson, 64, Amherst, was treated in the emergency room for a leg injury and released. Mrs. Johnson also complained of minor injuries but was not treated at the time.

City police said the Johnson car was southbound on Fayette Street and apparently ran a red light, crashing into the side of a westbound car driven by Jess W. Matson, 17, of 511 E. Temple St. Matson was driving from Elm Street into an alley at the time, officers said.

Mrs. Johnson was cited for a traffic light violation.

Other accidents investigated were:

Cronkite blasts antipress policy

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Television newscaster Walter Cronkite says the Nixon administration is trying to raise its credibility "by dragging down that of the press."

The administration is manipulating public opinion in a way that "to stand up and defend freedom of speech and press is to appear anti-Nixon," he said, adding that the Supreme Court had stripped the press of "the privilege to protect its sources, and without such protection, a free press cannot survive."

The longtime anchorman for CBS' evening news made the charges in a speech Sunday night before the 105th annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators here.

Youth treated at hospital after setting fire in jail

An 18-year-old escapee from the Zanesville Youth Camp was treated at Memorial Hospital for smoke inhalation after he set fire to his jacket and a blanket while incarcerated in the city jail Saturday night.

Police said Ricardo Ribas, of Toledo, later said he "wanted to burn down the building."

Ribas, along with Charles E. Dillon, 18, Cincinnati, and Michael D. Oakes, 19, of Dayton, all runaways from the Zanesville camp, were apprehended by Patrolman Larry Walker Saturday afternoon at the intersection of Dayton and Van Deman avenues. The trio were brought to police headquarters where a computer check showed that they were runaways.

Officers initially placed all three in the downstairs cell but later moved Ribas to the upstairs cell where he set the fire.

Officers said he had overturned the metal bunk in the cell and put it against the door then braced himself against the wall and the bunk so the door could not be opened.

Capt. Charles Foster discovered the blaze about 7:45 p.m., when he checked the cells after smelling smoke. Foster and patrolman William Cales were unable to force the door and called for assistance from firemen.

Ribas finally passed out from the heavy smoke in the cell and firemen finally were able to force open the door and extinquish the blaze, burning beside the commode.

Ribas was taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation and later returned to the city lockup. The three were returned to the Zanesville camp Sunday.

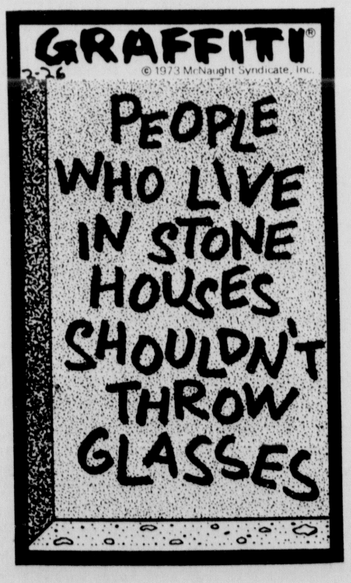

Police said toilet fixtures and the wall in the cell were moderately damaged by the flames.

Nude females 'integrate' pool

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Six young women, at least three of them nude, briefly integrated a pool Sunday at the University of Wisconsin which has traditionally been reserved for male—only nude swimming.

University police said that by the time they got to the scene, the women were already out of the water and toweling themselves dry. The women were asked to leave and did.

The reaction of the 50 men in the water wasn't recorded.

Weather

Partly cloudy and colder tonight. Lows in the 20s. Tuesday partly cloudy. Highs in mid to upper 30s.

Kissinger says North Viets will probe MIA mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger says North Vietnam has promised "a full investigation" into the fates of some 1,300 Americans who are still unaccounted for in Vietnam.

"Now, I must say that I cannot really believe that the North Vietnamese would hide prisoners on us," Kissinger said in an interview broadcast Sunday night by the National Broadcasting Co.

Kissinger said that while he was in Hanoi, he presented a U.S. analysis of the missing in action, "particularly where we had some evidence that a flier had parachuted ... or where we had collateral evidence that a person might have been taken prisoner.

Kissinger, President Nixon's chief adviser on national security, told NBC correspondent Barbara Walters, "North Vietnam will never relinquish its desire to take over South Vietnam." But that is not the issue, he added.

"The issue is will they want to unify Vietnam by force or are they willing to rely on an evolutionary process," Kissinger said. He said he thought the North Vietnamese were considering a "peaceful revolution ... for the first time in their history and in their lives."

He said the United States was not opposed to unification through peaceful, political means. "If the performance on one part or the other is so clearly superior to that of the other that it tends to achieve moral superiority over the other, that is not an American concern," he said.

The wide ranging interview also touched on Kissinger's working relationship with the President. First, he said reports of a strain in their relationship during the last stages of the peace negotiations were unfounded. Then he provided a glimpse of how he and Nixon work together.

"The President, before I go out on a diplomatic mission, doesn't write down specific points that I am supposed to achieve ... What the President does is to write down for himself, on a yellow sheet, four or five or six major issues, and the pros and cons of each issue.

"Then he will call me in, go over them and over them and if I have any ideas I will present them to him. But he talks much more in general terms of where we want to go, so that I clearly understand what he has in mind."

Ohio Assembly takes up Gilligan's budget

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House Finance Committee begins its scrutiny of Gov. John Gilligan's proposed $9.7 billion biennial budget this week.

The Gilligan administration's election reform package is also expected to be introduced during the week, according to Rep. Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89, New Boston, House speaker pro tem.

Review of the proposed budget will begin Tuesday morning. Finance Committee Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, said his committee will be divided into subcommittees to review the budget.

The budget covers state spending for the two years beginning July 1.

Acting Finance Director Robert Baker has been scheduled to explain education appropriation requests.

A hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday evening to hear spending requests from the state architect's office, Ohio Exposition Commission, Interstate Cooperation Committee and the Ohio Water Development Authority.

Both legislative houses convene at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday for what is expected to be a light week of floor action. Fifty-eight committee hearings have been scheduled, however, 21 in the Senate and 37 in the House.

The election reform package is expected to be introduced in parts by several legislators, according to Riffe.

The package calls for longer voting hours, an extended period for filing absentee ballots and door-to-door voter registration.

The administration reportedly may also present the legislature a bill providing an estimated $36 million in pay hikes for state employes over the next two years. The raises are expected to average 4.5 per cent for the state's payroll of 50,000.

Funds for the pay hike are included in the governor's budget request.

This week, too, the House will consider Senate amendments to a House-passed, $300 million Vietnam veterans' bonus.

The issue will not be on the May primary ballot because Democrats and Republicans disagreed over methods of financing.

GOP members wanted the bonus paid for from the general revenue fund while Democrats generally supported an increase in the property tax.

Legislative leaders hope to work out a compromise in time for the proposal to be put on the November ballot.

The state would pay an Ohioan who served during the Vietnam conflict a maximum of $500 and survivors of the 2,996 Ohioans who died in the fighting $1,000 if the measure is approved.

Seymour Stevens

CLARKSBURG — Services for Seymour Stevens, 64, of Rt. 1, Clarksburg, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland.

Mr. Stevens, a lifelong resident of the Clarksburg community and a retired farmer, was dead on arrival at Chillicothe Hospital at 9 a.m. Saturday, half an hour after suffering a heart attack at his home. He had been ill the past year.

He is survived by his wife, the former Alice Sowers; two sons, Russell, of Hartford, Ill., and Robert, at home; two daughters, Miss Virginia Stevens, of Chillicothe, and Mrs. William (Evelyn) Mahorney, of New Holland; seven grandchildren and a brother, Ira, of Clarksburg.

The Rev. Aldon Jones will conduct the services, and burial will be in Brown's Chapel Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p.m. Monday.

Donald G. Woodruff

Donald G. Woodruff, 52, of Tulsa, Okla., died Feb. 17. Burial was made Feb. 22 in Duschore, Pa., according to word received here.

A native of Fayette County, he is survived by his wife, Helen; two daughters, Miss Barbara Woodruff, Pontiac, Mich., and Beverly, Michael and Patrick, all at home; his mother, Mrs. Nellie Woodruff, of Washington C. H.; four brothers, Elza, of Washington C. H., Dean, San Antonio, Tex., David, of Columbus, and Clair, Kokomo, Ind., and two sisters, Mrs. Rachel Rockwell, Lima, and Mrs. Phyllis Charles, Troy.

MRS. HELEN FARRIS — Services for Mrs. Helen M. Farris, of 640 S. Champion Ave., Columbus, were held at 3 p.m. Saturday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home, with the Rev. Ray Troute, of Columbus, officiating. Mrs. Farris, a native of Washington C.H., died Thursday.

The choir of the Columbus Apostolic Church sang two hymns and Mrs. Joel Bailey read the obituary. Pallbearers for the burial in Washington Cemetery were Garry Scott, Paul McCoy, Danny Willis, Joel Bailey, Leonard Johnson and Jeff Willis.

EARL C. WELCH — Services for Earl C. Welch, 48, of 419 Peddicord Ave., were held at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Gerstner - Kinzer Funeral Home, with the Rev. Robert Barker, of the Apostolic Church, Hickory Lane, officiating. Mr. Welch, a World War II Army veteran, died Wednesday of a heart attack suffered at the Apostolic Church.

Mrs. Gladys Short and Mrs. Carole Aills sang two hymns, and the falg that draped the casket was folded by C.P. Hackett and Vora Brown Jr., of Paul H. Hughey Post, American Legion, and was presented to a brother, Walter Welch. Pallbearers for the burial in Washington Cemetery were Oliver Flowers, Charles McKnight, Harry Brown, Russell Hawkins Jr., Kenneth Riley and Charles Humphrey.

Wage curbs to become flexible

WASHINGTON (AP) — A flexible standard for wage increases in new labor contracts will replace the government's 5.5-per-cent guideline left over from Phase 2 controls, sources say.

The move to a flexible standard, described as "very carefully worded," was expected to be confirmed by the White House today.

It is seen as a Nixon administration concession to labor since several major labor contracts will be negotiated this year.

AFL-CIO President George Meany has said he favors a new wage-increase standard of about 7.5 per cent, or even as high as 8 per cent. The flexible standard will not aim for fixed increases.

However, sources said the 5.5-per-cent guideline is not being forgotten altogether and indicated it could be restored later if conditions permit.

A major factor behind the change now is the big rise in food prices in recent months.

A high administration source said Sunday the new flexibility for wage increases will make it possible for workers to regain the purchasing power lost because of the increase in food costs.

The 5.5-per-cent wage standard has been in effect since November 1971 when it was adopted as part of the Phase 2 wage-price-control program. An additional 0.7-per-cent increase was allowable annually for fringe benefits.

Court to review CIA money suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government, attempting to block a judicial examination of secrecy surrounding money spent by the Central Intelligence Agency, today was granted a hearing in the Supreme Court.

The high court agreed without comment or dissent to hear the government's plea that William B. Richardson of Greensburg, Pa., has no standing to sue in federal courts for exposure of CIA's appropriations.

The U.S. Circuit Court at Philadelphia ruled against the government last year, holding that Richardson could sue to determine if the 1949 law which exempts the CIA from disclosure violated the constitutional provision calling for publication of "expenditures of all public money..."

Wilmington area girl dies in auto crackup

WILMINGTON — A Wilmington area girl was killed in a single-car accident which left the driver in serious condition here early Sunday.

Sandra Williamson, 18, Rt. 5, Wilmington, was thrown from a car driven by Roth C. Hieatt, 17, Rt. 4, Wilmington. According to Wilmington police officers, Hieatt was apparently driving at a high rate of speed on East Main Street and failed to negotiate a curve, hitting a pole owned by the Dayton Power and Light Co. at the Grant Street intersection.

Hiett, who suffered head and lower back injuries, was listed in serious condition at Clinton Memorial Hospital.

Miss Williamson, who made her home with her mother, Mrs. Anna Louise Morrison, at Sligo, west of Wilmington, was pronounced dead on arrival at Clinton Memorial Hospital at 3:30 a.m. Sunday.

A native of Sabina, she was a senior at Clinton Massie High School and was employed under the school's OWE program at the Litt Department Store in Wilmington.

Besides her mother, she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Linda Hill and Mrs. Janet Florea, both of Wilmington, and Mrs. Donna Bogan, of New Vienna; a grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Hargett, of Hamilton; and a grandfather, Noel Cummings, of Oklahoma.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Sulcer Funeral Home, Wilmington, with the Rev. Cecil Fox, pastor of the Church of God, officiating. Burial will be in Sugar Grove Cemetery.

Friends may call from 5 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the funeral home.

State Patrol officer dies in accident

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — A 21-year-old Ohio Highway patrolman, who had been on the force only eight months, was killed in an auto accident Sunday while chasing a speeder.

David L. Sterner, a native of Beach City, was pursuing a suspect on Ohio 15, southeast of Findlay. When he came to the intersection of Ohio 37 a car came out in front of him, according to a patrol spokesman.

Sterner swerved attempting to avoid the car, driven by a 75-year-old woman, but was not successful.

His patrol car slammed into the front of the other vehicle, hit two concrete culverts, turned over and went up in flames.

The speeder escaped. Hannah Feller, driver of the other car, of Mt. Blanchard, was taken to Blanchard Valley Hospital and treated for shock and fractured ribs and released.

The patrol is still seeking the speeder and investigating the accident. No summons has been issued.

Sterner graduated in the 95th class of the Patrol Academy on July 23 and was assigned to the Findlay Patrol Post.

He lived with his wife, the former Linda L. Parnacott, in Findlay. He also leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sterner of Beach City.

Cambodian leaders shrug off corruption charges

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)— Opposition leader In Tam reports that President Lon Nol laughed off American concern with corruption in the Cambodian army and abuse of aid funds, saying U.S. officials even encourage it.

The issue was raised in December by Information Minister Kheam Reth, who told a news conference the army had been paying senior officers as much as $2 million a month for 100,000 soldiers who existed only on paper.

U.S. congressmen have been demanding an investigation.

In Tam, 50, resigned Saturday as Lon Nol's special counselor for national reunification after 16 days on the job, saying he had not been given enough authority.

He said in an interview that he approached the president and demanded he do something about corruption within the civilian administration and military establishment. Lon Nol laughed and said there was nothing to worry about, In Tam continued.

"He told me the Americans weren't going to do anything about it. He said even the U.S. senators who visited Cambodia recently said the corruption was no more unusual than anywhere else and that they said the Americans were even encouraging it."

The four senators came Feb. 16 as an investigative panel of the Senate Appropriations Committee. They stayed less than 24 hours and met only with government and U.S. Embassy officials.

Before leaving, the leader of the team, Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, told reporters: "We Americans have a tendency to look too much for corruption in foreign countries when we should look into our own backyard. Much of it they probably learned from us."

Pornography in trash

DETROIT (AP) — Tightened security precautions at Detroit Metropolitan Airport seem to be making the airport's garbage sexier.

Authorities say indulging passengers are apparently discarding their pornography rather than face the inquisitive glances of antiskyjack officials.

"I suppose people don't want the security guards to discover they have dirty books or magazines," an airport spokesman said.

The Federal Aviation Administration would have no reason to detain anyone carrying pornography, a spokesman said.

"We're looking for weapons or other law violations." he said. "Pornography is petty stuff."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nicholas Kent, 18, of Columbus was stabbed to death Sunday at an east Columbus residence during what police said was an argument with another man over money.

Police are holding Alfonso Meadows, 19, of Columbus on a second-degree murder charge in connection with the stabbing.

Industrial commission chief under fire by newspaper

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Chairman M. Holland Krise of the Industrial Commission of Ohio has served 10 years on the commission despite complaints that his policies have helped industry at the expense of the working-man by allowing poor safety standards in Ohio, The Plain Dealer said today.

Krise, a Republican, denies the charges.

The newspaper said in a dispatch from Columbus that Krise's personal dealings also have come under attack.

It said the commission keeps no public minutes of its meetings and that commission orders for payment on Workmen's Compensation claims are often unsigned.

The commission under Krise's direction approves expenditures of about $40,000 a year for safety campaigns around Ohio, The Plain Dealer said. It added that according to records the commission has paid for many unitemized bills with public funds.

The newspaper said Krise has accepted executive discounts from General Motors Corp. on the purchase of appliances and cars. General Motors is the largest private employer in Ohio and the commission rules on hundreds of Workmen's Compensation cases involving GM, it continued.

Krise, who worked for General Motors until he was appointed to the commission in 1963, denies any wrongdoing in using the executive discounts. He noted he receives a GM pension and said he provides no special treatment to GM.

Among Krise's severest critics is Gov. John J. Gilligan, who recently ordered an investigation into possible influence peddling in the administration of the state's Workmen's Compensation law, The Plain Dealer said.

Man leaves law practice to be Vinton prosecutor

By H.J. CZERNIEJEWSKI
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The former chief of the Division of Criminal Activities in Ohio is leaving a successful law practice here to become prosecutor of the county with the smallest population in the state.

David Kessler has become the Vinton County prosecutor. He does not consider this a step down because it will give him a chance to do what he has always wanted—to practice law on his own.

"I think to practice law by yourself is going to be virtually impossible in the near future," Kessler said. An attorney in a large city has too many commitments and is forced into having law partners or associates," he said.

So he is slowly phasing out his law practice here and setting one up in McArthur. "I'll keep some of my clients here," he said.

Kessler is also drawn to the job in Vinton County because he likes the area. Camping trips and business have taken him there many times.

"I'm not unfamiliar with the area. I have clients there, too," he said.

Kessler first acted as attorney in Vinton County two years ago when he defended Oliver Mills, who was convicted of killing a sheriff. It was one of the most publicized trials in the county's history.

But most of Kessler's reputation is that of a prosecutor. While head of the criminal activities division under then Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, Kessler struck a heavy blow against organized crime in Ohio.

He served as an assistant prosecutor for Columbus and Franklin County before his post in the attorney general's office.

Kessler is not sure when he will move to Vinton County. He has been commuting there several days each week to work on the job.

His family is not unhappy with his eventual plans to move out of Columbus, he said.

"I wouldn't be doing it if they didn't want me to."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

A weak cold front, moving south past Ohio today will bring cool weather to the state through mid week.

Cloudy skies will accompany the cooler weather, bringing occasional light snow to the north and light snow mixed with rain briefly in the south. Highs this afternoon were forecast to range from the upper 20s to low 40s.

A weak high will move east through the Buckeye State Tuesday, bringing fair to partly-cloudy skies.

Temperatures Tuesday morning are forecast to dip to the upper teens and 20s. Highs in the afternoon will range from 30 to 40. Readings Wednesday afternoon will range from 35 to 45, near normal for late February.

Fair Wednesday. A chance of rain and warmer Thursday and Friday. Highs Wednesday from the mid 30s to mid 40s, warming to upper 40s and 50s Friday. Overnight lows 15 to 25 early Wednesday, moderating.

Small boy killed by land mine; IRA is blamed

BELFAST (AP) — Guerrillas ambushed a British army patrol in Belfast early today and wounded two soldiers. But an attempted ambush with a land mine in Londonderry killed a 10-year-old Roman Catholic boy instead.

The child, Gordon Gallagher, was the 732nd confirmed death in 3½ years of Ulster's communal warfare. The mine went off while he was playing with friends near his home and blew off both the child's legs.

Neighbors said the child either stepped on the mine or tripped a trigger wire leading to it. An Army spokesman said the device was intended for a military patrol.

The Irish Republican Army admitted planting the mine in the garden of the child's home but claimed its men were scared off before they activated it. The IRA said the British army was believed to have activated the mine. The army denied this, saying: "The terrorists cannot shift the blame."

Mainly About People

Mrs. Phillip Frye, Culpepper Trace, entered Riverside Hospital, Columbus, Saturday as a medical patient. Her room number is 8009.

Dan Garringer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas E. Garringer, Jenks Rd., near Jamestown, has been named to the dean's list with a 3.47 average for the fall semester at Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Tex. He is a senior Bible major and a 1970 graduate of Miami Trace High School.

Youths harass Cincy firemen

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police were called to assist firemen Sunday night when a crowd of youths began cursing and throwing rocks at firemen answering a call in suburban Avondale.

Fire Chief BertLugannani said the call was one of about 10 false alarms turned in during the night in the Avondale area.

He said no arrests were made during the incident. One fireman was struck by a rock but not seriously injured, he said.

Stock prices open lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices opened lower today as investors worried about rising interest rates and the prospect of a credit crunch.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down almost a point and declining issues took a broad lead over declines in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said Wall Street was concerned about the implications of the Federal Reserve's approval of a hike in the bank discount rate and boost in the bank prime rate over the weekend.

The government moves are viewed as attempts to combat inflation. But brokers said investors fear higher interest rates may lead to a tight money situation that could dampen the present business expansion.

On Friday, the Dow plunged 11.89 to 959.89, its lowest level since last Oct. 31, and declining issues on the Big Board outnumbered advances by more than 3-to-1.

Analysts attributed the decline to the battering the dollar took in foreign exchange markets as well as persistent investor uncertainty over domestic economic developments.

Active issues on the NYSE today included Digital Equipment, off 1 to 92, AT&T, up ⅛ to 51, and American General Insurance, up ⅛ to 17⅝.

Slate price hikes for Volkswagens

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. (AP) — Devaluation of the U.S. dollar is prompting a $140 increase in the price of Volkswagen Beetles sold in the United States, Volkswagen of America has announced.

The list price for a Beetle, which had been $2,059, will go up to $2,199, the firm said Sunday. Price increases throughout the VW line will average 7.2 per cent, it said. All models in the company's Porsche and Audi lines also will be affected, the announcement said.

The increase will apply to vehicles unloaded at U.S. ports beginning Sunday, with those currently in stock remaining at the old list price.

Howard Hughes house hunting?

ST. HELIER, Jersey, Channel Islands (AP) — Howard Hughes, the American billionaire recluse, was reported today to be looking for a hideaway home on the British island tax haven of Jersey.

Hughes has been holed up in seclusion on the ninth floor of the Inn on the Park Hotel in London.

Irish election set Wednesday

DUBLIN (AP) — If Jack Lynch, a mild-mannered and retiring lawyer, loses Wednesday's general election, his job as prime minister of the Irish Republic will go to Liam Cosgrave, another mild-mannered and retiring lawyer.

Flamboyance counts for nothing in modern Irish politics. The Irish these days like to see themselves as sober, industrious and sensible people. And sobriety, industry and sensibility are the qualities they look for in their political leaders.

Cosgrave is 52 and the leader of Fine Gael, which literally means Tribe of Gaels and generally is translated as Irish Party. His party first took power after the partition of Ireland in 1922. But in the past 40 years it has held office for only six years, and then only at the head of coalition governments.

Cosgrave now is bidding for power again in coalition with Laborites led by Brendan Corish. Irish elections are hard to predict, but the professionals give the coalition a real chance of ousting Lynch's Fianna Fail, or Soldiers of Destiny.

Cosgrave, the son of a former prime minister, has all the right credentials for an Irish political leader.

His biggest personal interest, and that of his wife, is horses. They live at Naas in County Kildare, the heartland of the Irish bloodstock industry. They met on the rails at the races and are most often pictured at the hunt.

1st Skylab booster readied

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Saturn 1B rocket, which will orbit the first Skylab astronauts, was transported toward the launch pad today for lengthy tests leading to a May liftoff.

The 224-foot booster rode slowly to the pad upright on a large-tracked transporter called a crawler. The trip of 3½ miles from the assembly building was expected to take about six hours.

Perched atop the rocket is a modified Apollo spacecraft which is to carry astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Paul J. Weitz, and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin into space to link up with the huge Skylab, American's first space station.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans to launch the unmanned Skylab on May 14 and the astronauts on the following day. However, officials said these dates might change after results of a flight readiness test are known in late March.

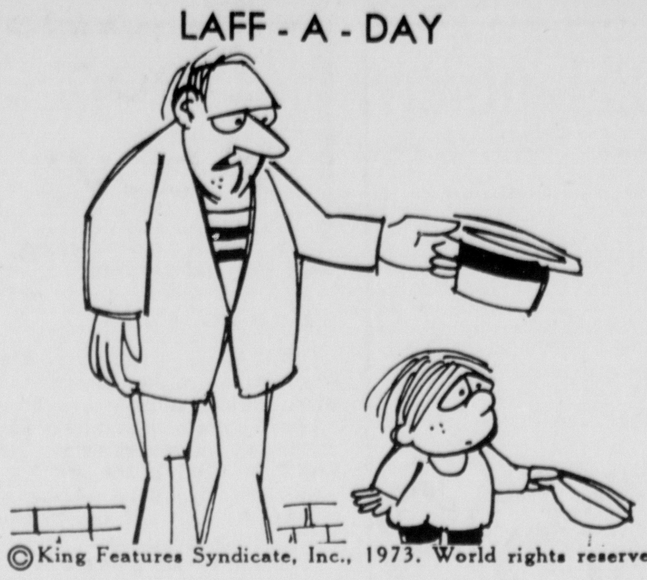

NASA plans to move the Skylab and its Saturn 5 rocket to a launch pad in April.

Conrad, Weitz and Kerwin are to remain in the orbiting lab for 28 days to conduct medical, scientific, earth resources and engineering experiments. Later in the year, two more three-man crews are to rocket up to the same Skylab. Each will remain aboard 56 days.

15 persons become victims of Ohio highway crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 21-year-old Ohio Highway Patrolman was among the 15 traffic deaths reported by the Highway Patrol during the weekend just ended.

Patrolman David L. Sterner was killed Sunday while pursuing a speeder on Ohio 15 southeast of Findlay. The speeder escaped.

The 15 deaths were more than have died on Ohio highways any weekend in the past month. A week ago 10 died.

The toll this weekend also included two double-death accidents, one near Millersburg Saturday and one near Sandusky Sunday.

The dead:

SATURDAY

HILLSBORO — Charles Waits, 26, rural Lynchburg, when his car ran off Ohio 134 in southwestern Highland County.

COLUMBUS — David L. Smith, 20, Columbus, when his car went out of control at a downtown intersection.

EVENDALE — Count B. Renders, 32, Evendale, in Hamilton County, when a truck in which he was a passenger failed to make a turn in the Cincinnati suburb.

MILLERSBURG — Mrs. Homer Bitikofer, 75, and Della Conkle, 4, both of Sugar Creek, in a car-truck accident at a Holmes County intersection south of Walnut Creek.

CINCINNATI — Daniel R. Hatfield, 17, when he lost control of his car and it turned over on Hamilton Avenue in suburban Hamilton County.

CLEVELAND — Joel Hendricks, 51, of Cleveland, hit by a car on Wade Park Avenue on the city's east side.

SUNDAY

SANDUSKY — David Kuhn, 24, of Tiffin, and James Wagstaff, 22, Sandusky, when their car ran off Ohio 4 and hit a tree near Sandusky.

CINCINNATI — John Nortman, 22, Cincinnati, in an accident in which three persons were injured when their car crashed in Cincinnati.

WILMINGTON — Sandra Williamson, 18, of rural Wilmington, when her car missed a curve in Wilmington and hit a utility pole.

BELLEFONTAINE — Julia Fry, 17, of Belle Center, when the car she was driving was struck by a train at a crossing on Ohio 274 northwest of Bellefontaine.

FINDLAY — Patrolman David L. Sterner, 21, of Beach City assigned at the Findlay Post of the Ohio Highway Patrol, in a two-car collision while in pursuit of another vehicle.

MOUNT VERNON—John Arnold, 25, of Danville, when his car crashed north of U. S. 36 on a Knox County road.

DAYTON — Gary F. Dorsten, 21, of Dayton, when the car in which he was riding and two others collided at a rural intersection in Montgomery County.

Cycle crash fatal

Man and wife slain in Union County

RICHWOOD, Ohio (AP) — Richwood police are continuing their investigation into the deaths of Donavon Laird, 68, and his wife, Sabra, 65, who were found stabbed to death in their home Saturday.

The Union County sheriff's office said the couple was killed sometime Thursday night or early Friday morning.

The Cuban possibility

Only a double-dyed optimist would extrapolate a resumption of normal U.S.-Cuban relations from the anti-hijacking agreement just reached by the two countries. Only a pessimist would assume that this agreement has done nothing to move Washington and Havana a bit closer together.

The salient factor at work here is that governments for the most part do not maintain relations with one another out of mutual love, or even on the basis of common ideological grounds. Diplomatic relations are a practical matter rooted in mutual interest.

The outstanding example of this in modern times is the relationship between the United States and the Soviet Union. This relationship has persisted since the 1930s despite the most profound ideological differences between the two governments, differences much exacerbated by the Cold War following World War II. Moscow and Washington have found it to be in their separate national interests to maintain ties of a sort through thick and thin.

It also is significant that our government is clearly bent on working out improved relations with Peking. There seems little doubt that in due time this dialogue will result in formal diplomatic representation.

In some ways Cuba is a special case. For one thing, it is a close neighbor, and Havana's efforts to infect other Latin American countries with its brand of revolution make it particularly offensive to Washington. One might argue, however, that both its nearness and its revolutionary tendencies are reasons not for remaining aloof but for developing relations. That would help us to keep a closer eye on events in Cuba.

Cuba cannot expect the entire initiative to come from the United States, but must show some inclination to change its attitudes. There is some reason to think the anti-hijacking pact may be a first move in that direction.

Kennedy mystique is no more

The most notable Washington phenomenon of the moment is a negative: Sen. Teddy Kennedy isn't offering to lead the congressional group that is trying to pin the label of dictator on President Nixon. His friend Sen. John Tunney has been far more voluble about the White House usurpation of power over spending.

Nor is Teddy Kennedy reacting in a churlish manner to the Vietnamese peace which, however shaky it may prove to be, is at least bringing the prisoners of war home at a faster clip than George McGovern promised. It is even a good bet that, out of deference to the anti-inflationists, Teddy will not try in this session of Congress to force the passage of his very expensive "total" health insurance scheme.

Whatever may be said about such controversial matters as Chappolitical savvy. He knows that the legend of Camlot has come upon dark days. Books praising his martyred brother John F. Kennedy ("Johnny, We Hardly Knew Ye") still make the best-seller lists, by they have been encountering criticism even from liberal reviewers and columnists. (When a chronic Nixon-hater such as Garry Wills can turn up as a non-idolator of JFK it is quite a switch.)

AS FOR the newest Kennedy books, they are utterly disrespectful of the Kennedy image. A Bristish Washington journalist, Henry Fairlie, in a book bearing the two-edged title of "The Kennedy Promise," has criticized JFK for bringing wind without rain. Walt Rostow, who served John F. Kennedy loyally enough, has (see his "The Diffusion of Power") publicly questioned the Kennedy handling of the Laos "peace" negotiations in 1961, the implication being that it was stupidity about Laos that led to 45,000 U.S. casualties in Vietnam. And Nancy Gager Clinch, who has her own feminist bias, has had a thousnad tongues wagging over her "The Kennedy Neurosis," which portrays the Kennedy family (on the male side, at least) as power-driven to the point of obsession.

So the Kennedy mystique dies, or at least loses its potency for the moment. Teddy would have to be blind and deaf not to know it. The pendulum has swung way over, and there isn't much to do except to wait for it to swing back. To be available for 1976, Teddy must make a reputation in the Senate on his own, and this means that he can't afford to take the leadership of rapidly fading causes.

As for the new anti-Kennedy books, they make telling points in the middle of all their exaggerations. But they are not as "pioneering" as their authors obviously think. Timing is everything with books of this type.

If you really want to praise a man for pioneering the view that John F. Kennedy was more glitter than substance as a President, why not go back to Malcolm Smith Jr., whose eye-opening "Kennedy's 13 Great Mistakes in the White House" came out in 1968 and sank without a trace.

MR. SMITH, a one-time chairman of the Mutual Broadcasting System, said nothing mean about Jack Kennedy's personality, which he regarded as fresh, vigorous, charming, and witty. But, without indulging in personal criticism, Mr. Smith made it plain that such things as our complicity in the Diem ousting in Vietnam, the vacillation at the Bay of Pigs, the failure to stop the building of the Berlin Wall, the bogging down of the Alliance for Progress, the inability to keep de Gaulle from undermining NATO, and the slow-freight response to the mounting fury over civil rights, could hardly be regarded as constituting a great record of presidential achievement.

Poor Mr. Smith. I don't recall that his book got a single review. Today Henry Fairlie, Ms. (that's the way she wants it) Nancy Gager Clinch, and yes, David Halberstam (whose reporting from Vietnam played its own part in the Diem fiasco), are getting great kudos for devaluing the legend of "the best and the brightest" who dwelt in Camelot's towers.

The new iconoclasts have not really said anything new, so let me bring some belated justice to Malcolm Smith, who had the nerve to say things when it was not popular to say them.

Reagan's fabulous domain

SACRAMENTO — Sitting pretty describes the posture of the governor of this most-populous state in the Union. Ronald Reagan's evolution from those "B" pictures of long ago to a position in the Republican hierarchy at least third or fourth from the top is as miraculous as the evolution of Richard Nixon from the California loser of 1962 to his landslide re-election to the presidency.

Reagan takes a lordly view of his future. He will not run for re-election to a third term next year, although if conditions remain roughly as they are today he could almost certainly count on winning. The option of a challenge to Sen. Alan Cranston is open, but he is unlikely to take it.

Ronnie, as one of his friends puts it, doesn't think much of living in Washington as just another senator. A true Californian, the sun, the beaches, the relaxed life — they are the attractions along with all the "perks" of the governor's office and the largesse of his very rich friends.

LIVING in the White House in Washington, however, would be a different matter. And the option for 1976 is far from closed. After 1974, with imposing ambassador-at-large assignments from Nixon and speaking engagements around the country as the biggest draw at fund-raising dinners, he will have no difficulty keeping in the public eye.

Reagan currently is traveling around the state propagandizing a tax-reduction plan that will supposedly return a state surplus of $850 million. One of the governor's proposals is for a 10 per cent cut in state income tax. To forestall any opposition in the state legislature Reagan would incorporate the tax cut in the state's constitution, leading an initiative drive to put it on the ballot at the next election.

Needless to say, this glitters like gold for hard-pressed taxpayers. It reflects the tone of the Nixon Administration, with the President's slashing economies and his promise of no new taxes.

But those economies are already beginning to put a strain on the cities. With the cuts in health, welfare, child care, the whole gamut of social services, the cry is that the state and the localities must make up the deficit. With the Reagan economy drive that is obviously impossible.

THERE IS a kind of whiplash effect between Washington and Sacramento. A report circulates here that all the state mental hospitals would be closed and eventually over a period of years all the institutions for severely retarded children. Although the report may not reflect present official intention, it indicates the direction in which the state is moving.

The reason the mental hospitals can be closed not only here but around the country is the creation of community health centers with the aid of federal matching grants. They have provided care that permits the patient to live a more or less normal life outside an overcrowded and understaffed institution. This has meant that the snake pits of the past have been largely eliminated.

Now, however, if the community hospitals are to lose federal help at the same time that mental hospitals are all shut down, the result can be widespread human suffering and a severe strain on other local services. Matching federal and state economies can undermine a structure that has worked beneficially to ease the burdens of mental illness.

POLITICAL appeals tailored for the haves with the glitter of tax reduction may work in the short run. The haves and not merely the upper haves but the middle and even lower-middle haves are in revolt against the turn of the tax screw at the local, state and federal levels. The promise of relief, with the consequences conveniently obscured, has an undeniable appeal.

But what of the have-nots? The one-fourth to one-third who live near or below the poverty line? Are they to be condemned for the limitless future to live in an America with little or no relation to the affluence of sleek motorcars, luxury resorts, the charms of mountain and shore with which this state abounds?

The answers are not to be found either here or in Washington. With inflation the gap between the poor and the affluent is widening. What this may mean in social stability — in the curse of crime and violence — only a bold prophet would predict.

Why is it February seems 27 days longer than it ought to be? In a popularity rating of the year's months, it would come limping in last on most people's lists. What month would be first? On mine—October.

Whatever happened to hatcheck girls? I haven't heard of one in years who became an overnight celebrity by eloping with a multimillionaire. Actually most hatcheck girls are more likely to marry a musician — and usually it's the one in the band who finds it hardest to hold his liquor.

The quickest way to make people stop envying you is to put on more weight.

Most secretaries don't want to be married to their bosses — except on paydays.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

His friend wants spirits-ual send-off

DEAR ABBY: Is there a law against what you can put in a person's casket when you bury him?

I have a good friend who made me promise that if he died before I did, I would get a fifth of the best bourbon money can buy, take a real big swig, replace the cap, and put the bottle beside him in the casket.

I told him I would gladly do this, but I need to know if there is a law against it in Michigan.

DETROIT NEEDS READER

DEAR READER: Any undertaker can tell you. And so can a Michigan lawyer. (I wonder what your friend has in mind? Spirits for the spirts, maybe?)

DEAR ABBY: Please do the country a big service by saying something about women who invite their friends to their homes and then try to sell them everything from jewelry to kitchenware to clothing. I attended four such parties in the last two weeks, all of which I tried to decline, but, my friends would not take no for an answer. They all said, "You don't have to BUY anything. Just come!" Once there, I am bombarded with the worst kind of high-pressure salesmanship, and I always end up buying something so as to not look cheap.

I hate to say I will come and then not show up. Will you please tell women how some of their friends feel about being taken advantage of in this manner?

ALL PARTIED OUT

DEAR PARTIED: Your problem is your inability to say NO. Some women appreciate being introduced to new products, this way, and they enjoy, the parties, too. If you don't, simply decline.

DEAR ABBY: Two girls I consider my closest friends have steady boy friends. (I don't have anyone special right now.)

Both of these girls have told me that they have had dreams about me in which I am the central character. They also say their boy friends are in these dreams, but they won't tell me how the dreams come out. I have asked them whether I am the hero or the villain, and they both reply, "It depends on how you look at it."

Do you think they consider me a friend or an enemy?

DREAMED ABOUT

DEAR DREAMED: That depends on how the dreams came out. You can be certain of one thing. They consider you a threat!

DEAR ABBY: I am so tired of hearing husbands and wives complain that their marriages fell apart because one or the other got fat. How ridiculous can some people get?

Louie and I have been married 13 years. I went from 110 to 186, and Louie went from 165 to 230, and it didn't harm our love life one bit. In fact, it's better than ever. One thing it did was to get rid of all the jealousy. Our marriege will last forever. Who'd want either one of us?

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Feb. 26, the 57th day of 1973. There are 308 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1561, an earthquake in Portugal killed tens of thousands of people and flattened much of Lisbon and other cities.

On this date:

In 1521, the Spanish governor of Puerto Rico, Ponce de Leon, sailed from San Juan on his second expedition to Florida.

In 1623, the Dutch massacred a group of English colonists in what is now Indonesia.

In 1802, one of the great figures in French literature, Victor Hugo, was born.

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte escaped from the island of Elba, his first place of exile.

In 1918, in World War I, German planes bombed Venice, Italy.

In 1952, it was announced that Britain had produced its own atomic bomb.

Ten years ago: U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche was assigned the task of trying to end fighting in the Middle Eastern country of Yemen.

Five years ago: North Vietnamese troops mauled a U.S. patrol outside the Khe Sanh base in South Vietnam.

One year ago: At least 116 persons were killed in a flood when a dam made of coal slag burst in West Virginia's Buffalo Creek Hollow after three days of heavy rain.

Today's birthdays: Entertainer Jackie Gleason is 57. Ohio Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr., is 56.

Thought for today: Let us never negotiate out of fear, but let us never fear to negotiate — President John F. Kennedy.

World Day of Prayer planned for Friday

Fayette County Church Women United will observe World Day of Prayer at 1:30 p.m. Friday in First Baptist Church.

The World Day of Prayer is considered the most important ecumenical occasion during the year. Women in 168 countries will offer prayers on theme "Alert in our Times."

Mrs. Elmer Burrall is general chairman and Mrs. Charles Hurtt is president of CWU. Miss Jerri Bomgarner, pastor of the Church of God, will be guest speaker for the afternoon.

A double trio of Cecilians will sing "When Children Sing" and "I Heard a Forest Praying." Members of the group are Mrs. Lloyd Fenning, Mrs. Edwin Thompson, Mrs. Maurice Hopkins, Mrs. Gerald Wheat, Mrs. Milbourne Flee and Miss Verna Williams. Mrs. Don Schwaigert will be the accompanist.

Baptist women will be the ushers. All women of Fayette County, Washington C.H. and area churches are cordially invited to attend the service.

The theme of the 1973 prayer observance "Alert in Our Time" expresses the intention of women to be aware of the crucial needs in the world and to be agents of God's reconciling love in those areas. The CWU in the United States will translate the prayers into action through three areas of concern: health services, seeking ways of cooperating with professionals to deliver adequate health care to all persons; creating new life lines for inter-action with the rapidly growing community of Asian Americans in this country; and becoming alert to world trade problems.

Class committees named for dinner

A dinner honoring members of the Golden Rule and Good Cheer classes was planned at the meeting of the Young Adult Class of the New Holland United Methodist Church. The dinner will be served at 5 p.m. March 29 in the church basement.

Committees appointed for the event by Mrs. Rodney Miller, president, are Mrs. Gary Kirkpatrick, invitations and reservations; Mrs. Don Conrad, Mrs. Herbert Coil, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Richard Sommers and Mrs. Harold Thompson, kitchen; Mrs. Larry Elliott, Mrs. Robert Bishop and Mrs. Eddie Conrad, dining room; Harold Thompson, Miller and Elliott, entertainment. The dishwashing committee chairman is Coil and Somers heads the transportation.

A report of the weekend retreat at the Lancaster campground by class members noted that much knowledge was gained from Mrs. Arlene Crumbley and Carl Pyle, guest speakers.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Don Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Coil, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. Somers.

The class voted to continue paying $20 per month for church utilities and to purchase a new table for the nursery classroom. The class is also investigating what repair is needed on the stained glass windows of the church.

Following a potluck supper, Larry Russell, respiratory therapist at Fayette Memorial Hospital, discussed the respiratory diseases and told what may be done by early detection and proper treatment.

The committee for the affair was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Frantz and Mr. and Mrs. Errol Black.

The March committee will include Mrs. Walter Helsel, nursery and Mr. and Mrs. Don Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Elliott, program.

Mrs. Miller read the poem "Something to Think About" and the meeting was closed by all forming the Friendship Circle and singing "Blest Be the Tie."

Amaryllis show planned in Mansfield

The Kingwood Center greenhouses, at Mansfield, Ohio, will be featuring the finest display of amaryllis in the midwest during the next few weeks. Amaryllis breeding is an important part of the research work currently in progress at Kingwood. The work has greatly improved the plant over the varieties commonly imported from Holland, inasmuch as the special objectives have been to develop better colors, especially in the pink and white range. A number of improved red and orange varieties have also been developed. Other improvements include a better proportioned flower stalk and more attractive foliage.

The amaryllis, a native of South Africa, has been popular for many years with experienced gardeners as a flowering houseplant. The huge, exotic, lily-like flowers, borne on 24-inch stalks, in shades of pink, salmon, red, orange, and white, are an excellent example of dedicated work by plant breeders in various parts of the world.

In addition to the amaryllis, there are fine displays of many interesting and beautiful plant materials in the Kingwood greenhouses. While at Kingwood, the visitor should take the opportunity to see the Indoor Light Garden, which demonstrates methods and materials used for growing plants indoors, entirely under artificial light. In recent years, Indoor Light Gardening has become the fastest growing phase of the garden hobby in America.

The Kingwood Greenhouses and Indoor Light Garden are open from 8 a.m. to sunset. Kingwood is located in the western part of the city of Mansfield, Ohio. It is easily reached by I-71, U.S. 30, and Ohio Route 13.

BETH CROSBY

BRAD KING

Seniors of week

By ROBIN BRIGGS

Our first featured senior this week is Beth Crosby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crosby, 8 Hali Drive. She has a brother, Brad.

Beth's subjects include American Government, home economics for non-majors, art, English composition and English 12. She is a member of AFS, Senior Y-Teens and the Sunburst staff. She also serves as treasurer of Future Teachers of America and is a track statistician.

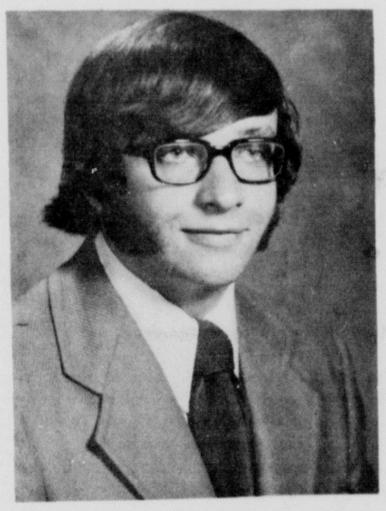

Some of Beth's hobbies are swimming, horseback riding, riding around and sports.

HER COMMENT on being a senior is, "I've enjoyed my years at WSHS, but I'm anxiously awaiting graduation."

Brad King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertrem King, 1013 Golfview Drive, is the second featured senior this week.

This year Brad is taking American Government, English 12, Typing I, ROTC III, English Composition, Geometry and physical education. His hobbies include reading and having a good time.

His comment on being a senior was, "I've had some real weird and wild times. I think that I will miss high school a little, but I'm sure I'll get into something in the near future."

JOHN MORRIS

DE student of week

By ROBIN BRIGGS

The featured Distributive Education student this week is John Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morris, 718 McArthur Way. John has a sister, Janet.

In school, John is taking American Government, Business Law and DE. He works at Ohio Bell Telephone Co. under the DE program.

John's activities include Hi-Y, DECA II, AFS and Student Council. In his spare time, John likes to mess around and work with cars.

His comment on WSHS was, "My years at WSHS have really been great. I've enjoyed it and I'm going to hate to go, but I would like to wish the best of luck to the underclassmen."

Opinion poll

How do you feel about the end of the war and the return of the POWs?

Tonda Harperree — "I don't like it because I wanted to fight, but I guess it's for the best."

Doug Rudduck — "It won't work."

Jill Williams — "It's about time and I just hope it works."

Jeff Willis — "I'm glad it's over with and I think it should have been over a long time ago and the POWs should have had an immediate return instead of a delay."

David Ellis — "I'm glad the POW's are coming back. I think the cease-fire could have been more complete."

Jim Vess — "It's about time."

Jim Yahn — "I think it's great and I hope they all get back."

An editorial

By ROBIN BRIGGS

Recently I had the pleasure along with other editors from Logan Elm, Teays Valley and Circleville high schools to attend the press conference of Rear Admiral Emeett H. Tidd at the Center for Tomorrow on the Ohio State University campus.

Admiral Tidd is commander of the U.S. Navy Recruiting Command. We were escorted by Dave Glaser, the area recruiter.

At the conference, Admiral Tidd talked about the recent signing of Vietnam peace treaty and how it affected the Navy. He also stressed "Zero Draft" or an all-volunteer force that the Navy is now operating on. This gives many more career opportunities. After his speech, questions were asked by those in attendance.

SOME QUESTIONS were about the problem of racial flareups. He said there was no great problem. Of the 600,000 enlisted in the Navy, less than 200 have had racial problems and the causes are always corrected.

When asked how the Navy would stay in Vietnam, he commented that the 7th Fleet would be stationed near the coast.

Admiral Tidd said is no major problem with drugs in the Navy and what problem exists is now being corrected and officials are pleased with the declining rate.

He also stressed the opportunity for women in the Navy. There are only 5,000 recruits and 31,000 jobs to offer women.

Some people do fine without the Payroll Savings Plan.

It depends on your dreams. If all they need to come true is a dime here and a quarter there, you'll do fine with a sturdy piggy bank.

But if you've got some bigger plans, like a vacation, college tuition for the kids, or a new car, you need something more.

You need a savings program that delivers steady growth and healthy interest.

You need the Payroll Savings Plan. Just sign up for it at work. Then an amount you specify is automatically set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

You can use your take-home pay for daily expenses. And at the same time you'll be building funds for the future.

U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. For people with big dreams.

Mastics plans bill against big utility rate boosts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. George E. Mastics, R-3 Cleveland planned to introduce a bill this week that would make it more difficult for the state's public utilities to get approval of rate increases.

Mastics contended that the bill would save Ohioans millions of dollars a year on phone, gas and electric bills, if it is passed.

According to Mastics the measure would do away with the Public Utilities Commission's so-called RCN (reconstruction cost new) formula. That formula would be replaced with a rate base calculated on the original cost of a utility's property.

Under the RCN formula, a utility is permitted to base its cost of doing business in part on the amount it would cost today to replace its capital plant.

The RCN formula always gives a much higher replacement figure, because it would cost a lot more to build a new plant today than when it was constructed, according to Mastics.

He said practically every state has shifted to the original cost rate base formula. So have the Federal Communications and Federal Power commissions.

Mastics has been involved as an opponent in recent rate cases of Ohio Bell Telephone Co., Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., and East Ohio Gas Co. He claimed to have been successful in eliminating $40 million from their demands in the PUCO, but said fighting the utilities is a tough business.

"The most powerful lobby in Columbus is the utility lobby, and they will undoubtedly use all of their resources to defeat my bill," he said. "However, because of the recent rate applications by many utilities throughout Ohio, I have been assured of help from political leaders throughout the state."

The Cleveland Republican also expressed concern over what he called "recent public statements" by Henry W. Eckhart, chairman of the PUCO.

Mastic said those statements indicated Eckhart's "apparent concern over the welfare of the utilities and little regard for the interest of the consuming public."

He quoted Eckhart as having said in a speech Nov. 9 in New York that Ohio utilities "have enjoyed considerable financial success in the past, and I assure you that you that I share your concern that they continue to enjoy this success in the future."

3 children are drowned in icy lake

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — An 11-year-old girl was rescued, but three of her companions, aged 6 to 10, drowned at Schoonover Lake in northeast Lima Sunday afternoon.

The girl, Donna Hill, was pulled from the lake by firemen as she held on to ice. She was treated at a local hospital for shock.

The dead children were identified as the girl's brother, Christopher, 6, Kathereen Williams, 10, and Timothy Monroe, 6.

Donna told police later that she and the other children were hiking in the woods on the east side of the lake and decided to take a short cut across the lake.

She said that they came within 20 feet of the opposite bank when Timothy fell through the ice. Christopher tried to help the boy but fell through also, she said.

The girl said she and Kathereen fell through the ice when they tried to go to the aid of the two boys.

A witness to the incident, Mrs. Delpha McDonald, said she was standing on a nearby bridge when the children fell. She said she could not find a stick long enough to help them, so she ran for help.

She succeeded in finding a man who called for help. A policeman, who arrived on the scene first, said he threw a rope to Donna but it was not long enough.

Firemen arrived and threw a rope to the girl, then one fireman went out on a ladder to rescue her.

The bodies of the three death children were located in about eight feet of water a short time later.

Fewer wildcat strikes seen in nation's coal industry

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The new rank-and-file administration of the United Mine Workers union is working toward a stabilization of the coal industry's labor climate that could give both industry and union an economic boost.

The industry, during the troubled UMW administration of W. A. "Tony" Boyle, was plagued with wildcat strikes that cut productivity and sent costs soaring. In 1969, for instance, wildcat strikes cut production by an estimated 20 million tons.

Miners walked out in defiance of their union over local grievances supposedly covered in contract grievance procedures. The strikers often complained more about the lack of backing from their union in grievances than they did about the grievance itself.

Now, union president Arnold Miller is urging his men to stay on the job and work out their differences.

"I want to state that the International union is going to do everything in its power to back you up on grievances," Miller says in a statement in the Feb. 15 UMW Journal. "In the past, district and International officers clearly did not back men up on some occasions."

"Some of the wildcat strikes could be prevented if we know about the problem before action is taken."

Industry officials and stock market analysts earlier this year were cautiously hinting that Miller could stabilize the industry and improve the industry's economic picture.

"If Miller turns out to be a strong union leader," one market analyst said, "it will probably mean a rise in productivity if for no other reason than that there will be less factions in the union and less scattered walkouts."

An end to the sporadic shutdowns would also benefit the union. The UMW Welfare and Retirement Fund is bankrolled with royalties paid by the coal companies for each ton of coal mined; when no coal is mined there is no money going into the fund.

Widen recall of packed mushrooms

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Canning Corp. has expanded the recall of its canned mushrooms because a botulism toxin was found in one lot.

The Food and Drug Administration Sunday said the recall now includes all large institutional-size cans—which are not ordinarily sold for home use—produced by the company at its East Palestine, Ohio, plant since Sept. 4, 1972.

Botulism is a food poisoning. The toxin involved is relatively low in potency and identified easily by a strong smell, the FDA said. The products involved in the recall have not been implicated in any known injury to consumers, the agency said.

Two previous recalls were announced after a Type B botulism toxin was found in two lots. The products

Street, road crews schedule projects

Street patching, crack-sealing and brush cutting are on the agenda this week for street, road and highway crews in Fayette County.

Gene Fitzpatric, Fayette County superintendent of the Ohio Department of Highways, said crews will be sealing cracks on U.S. 35-N and on Ohio 729.

State crews also will be cutting trees throughout the county. Other work includes picking up trash in parks, chipping stumps and brush, and repairing the berm on Ohio 734.

Fitzpatric said a patching crew will be working today on the Creek Road bridge.

County Engineer Charles P. Wagner said county crews will be working on drainage projects on the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road and on the Eyman Road. Tree-cutting is planned in Paint and Jefferson townships, and berms are to be cleaned throughout the county. Machinery repair at the county garage is also on this week's schedule.

City street crews, under Acting Superintendent Bill Duncan, will be cleaning and sweeping the streets and patching streets and alleys.

Polygamists stress 'heavenly marriages'

By WAYNE SALTER
Associated Press Writer

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The unconventional religious sects of rural Appalachia include a loosly-knit band of Christian polygamists who praise Jesus and decry the corruptive nature of man-made law on the spirit of marriage.

The practice, involving only a small number of the region's Holiness church people, is rooted in the belief that God's law and man's law are immutably separate.

"There was marriage when God made man and woman," said one believer who lives with a Holiness family which includes himself and at least two "wives."

"They were there to love one another, but then came man's corruption. Man set up laws that you can't be decent without a license. He set it all up for the almighty dollar.

"It's nothing more than a bondage law to keep you under bondage, but God arrived to set me free."

Unlike the "carnal minded" who take sexual partners outside the church, holy polygamists see themselves involved in a highly spiritual activity.

They view blood tests and marriage licenses as secular infringements by businessmen who "covet the greenback dollar." Blackrobed judges can oversee traffic violations and robbery cases, they say, but only God can make the rules of marriage.

"Moses questioned God about marriages," a polygamist explained. "God said in the beginning it was not so and in the kingdom it is not so...and in the coming of the Son of Man there will be no more marriages and given in marriages."

One researcher was told by an ex-polygamist of one form in which members make "much of the distinction between marriages made in the world and marriages made in heaven. If a married man talks to a married woman who is not his wife, and both feel the power of the Holy Ghost, they will leave their spouses and start a new 'marriage' which they believe has been made in heaven.

"After the heavenly bliss has worn off, they will return to their spouses to resume what they call their 'marriages made in the world'."

Because there may be no more than two or three dozen widely scattered polygamous bands of Holiness people within West Virginia, they attend workship services in the living rooms or church buildings of more conventional Christians.

Polygamy among poor Appalachian Holiness people is a curious twist in the area of religious hedonism.

The wildly uninhibited ceremonies of the Holiness church give members an arm-slinging afternoon which is a release from problems and frustrations.

It is a form that originated in Europe religious dissent and developed in the great Kentucky Revival of 1800 to 1803 as a way of briefly escaping the problems of illness and death, economic insecurity and loss of pride.

Just as snake handlers have added a death-defying element to their worship, polygamists use religion to assuage guilt and sanctify a previously forbidden act of reckless hedonism, sociologists explain.

Participants say they enter into their relationship with a "spiritual" and not a "carnal" mind. This way of thinking, which produces "babies made in heaven" rather than babies made on earth, is all important to the sect.

A particularly zealous believer, often the "father" of a polygamous family, may extoll the virtues of he practice to others in a church congregation and urge them to break the chains of "man's corruptible laws."

"I know this may sound strange," said the believer, glancing at his wives, "but lots of things have been made for man's use and benefit and he's been taught it's not Christian to use them. Well, I know how. God's showed me how."

Carcass show Wednesday at Producers

The Fayette County Pork Producers Association will sponsor the winter carcass show Wednesday, according to Ron Rockhold, show chairman.

The on-foot evaluation will take place at Producers Livestock Yards at 7 p.m.

The show is open to any Fayette County pork producer 10 years of age or older. Entries are restricted to one barrow per exhibitor. All barrows must weigh between 200 and 230 pounds.

Rockhold said that all barrows will be slaughtered at Eckert Packing Co., Troy. Final placings will be based on percentage of ham, loin and should weight of chilled carcass.

The directors, meeting recently in the Chamber of Commerce office, discussed the membership drive for the Ohio Pork Producer's Council. It was decided that directors in each township will make a concentrated effort to sign up pork producers who did not join in 1972.

The 1973 standing committees were appointed. Committee chairmen are : Buckeye Barrow Show, Clark Coe; pork promotion, Wayne Hidy; research and education, Bob Taylor; Legislation, Mell Wickensimer; health, Dr. R.D. Little; youth promotion, Roger Donohoe and Ron Warner; County Market Hog Show, Charles Wehner and Jerry Hoppes; banquet, Hugh Wilson; pork concession stand, Richard Wood and Martin Smith; Winter Carcass Show, David Owens, and tour, Marvin Waddle and Harry Craig.

John Gruber, county Extension agent, agriculture, asked the directors to give ideas for future swine educational meetings.

The next meeting will be held after the pork carcass results dinner at the Terrace Lounge on March 7.

While billions of auto trips are made every year, surveys indicate that 54 per cent are less than five miles and nearly three-quarters are less than 10 miles.

Move to halt immigration to Oregon fails; laws eyed

By ED GROSSWILER
Associated Press Writer

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Gov. Tom McCall admits his efforts to halt immigration into Oregon have failed. That being so, the governor is now trying to make sure the inevitable population growth is controlled.

His weapons: laws dealing with land use, and appeals to would-be visitors to skip Oregon for other places.

"Growth is inevitable," McCall said. "We must make sure it is responsible growth."

Oregon now has 2.2 million people, a gain of 92,000 since the 1970 census. Almost two-thirds of the growth in this decade came in the form of immigration from other states.

"It's just a matter of time before we're swamped," the governor said, pointing to the rate of 125 new residents per day.

That doesn't match the 1,000 residents per day that went to California in the 1960s, but California's population is almost 10 times that of Oregon.

"Oregon's leadership in fighting pollution with the emphasis on livability has made the state an appealing place to settle," McCall said.

"The better job we do the more people want to come — that's the irony of it."

The governor says a comprehensive land-use planning bill is one of his top legislative priorities this year.

"We're trying to change the pattern of growth to ease the burden on the central coast, the Willamette Valley and the metropolitan Portland area," McCall said.

The proposed legislation has had several public hearings and is meeting stiff resistance from persons opposed to state planning and zoning guidelines.

McCall has been the leading official spokesman in recent years for principles of the James G. Blaine Society, a largely mythical organization devoted to keeping Oregon for Oregonians.

The governor attracted national attention with his standard welcome for out-of-state visitors to Oregon:

"Please come and visit us in Oregon again and again, but for heaven's sake don't come to live here."

'Diet steaks' developed by Aussies

BOSTON (AP) — People on low fat, low cholesterol diets may be putting juicy steaks, butter and whole milk products back onto their plates now that Australian researchers have figured out how to lower the saturated fat content of these foods.

Researchers at Australian National University say they have shown that the fat and cholesterol levels in the blood of humans can be lowered by feeding them meat and dairy products from specially fed cattle and sheep.

Reporting in this week's New England Journal of Medicine, the researchers said they can prevent the transformation of the polyunsaturated vegetable fats of seed oil into animal fats by coating the feed grain with formaldehyde-treated casein, a milk and cheese protein.

Eating the special feed increases the ratio of polyunsaturated to saturated fat in the animals ten times over that of cattle fed regular, untreated grass and oats, they said.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Your career, ambitions and standing with business associates are highlighted now, and your feeling of optimism will be justified by events.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

A day in which to get your house in order. Check your files, correspondence, agreements. Keep your ultimate aims and goals in mind, and refuse to be rushed by anyone.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Mixed influences. Avoid overoptimism. Too rosy an outlook could cause you to overlook small but vital details. The p.m. brings news from afar.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Let certain situations ride now. Forcing issues will do more harm than good. By demonstration, you can let others know that your ideas are practical.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Ups and downs in mood now. You'll be pessimistic about getting certain information; delighted when you do . . . low in spirit over unexpected changes; happy when their ultimate benefits are revealed.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Creative interests stimulated. Your ideas are not only inspirational but highly feasible. Also favored: Romance and family concerns.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You may be concerned about the "whys and wherefores" of certain events. Insights ARE available, but you'll need the help and knowledge of a close associate to attain them.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

A brand new financial start indicated — accompanied by high hopes, which CAN be realized. You MUST take the initiative, however — and confidently.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Follow up a potentially good tip you once brushed aside — but not impulsively or unprepared. For best results, you MUST have a definite plan.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

You may be attracted to an individual who seems aloof, indifferent. Making a gesture of friendship could prove to be an important move in changing the situation.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Permit others to "be themselves." The Piscean rarely tries to dominate, but such inclinations prevail now. Be especially receptive to ideas from your mate or business associates.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a high order of intelligence and a great love of beauty. You make friends easily, and usually keep them for life. You are extremely versatile but this very fact could make you vacillate when it comes to choosing a career. Once having found your niche, however, and properly training for it, there is no plateau of attainment which you cannot reach — especially in the fields of music, writing, the theater or education. Like many other Pisceans, you may be attracted to the law and politics but it would be well to eschew these fields since you are too emotional and have too many prejudices. Traits to curb: Self-indulgence and too great a craving for luxuries.

Hobart Co. reports record sales, earnings

TROY, Ohio (AP) — Record sales and earnings for 1972 were reported by the Hobart Manufacturing Co. Friday.

The company said it had net sales of $267 million, an 11 per cent increase over 1971, and net earnings of $17.9 million, or $1.59 a share, compared with 1971 figures of $14.6 million and $1.30 per share.

Ohio Perspective

PUCO chief losing energy battle

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — His 62-year-old mother sets the thermostat on her gas furnace too high, and his wife and children don't turn off lights in their home.

For Henry W. Eckhart, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, his family points up the problem of convincing consumers that an energy crisis exists in Ohio.

"My mother sets the thermostat at 78 degrees," says Eckhart, whose agency oversees the operation of gas and electricity utility companies in the state. "It's not good for her health, and it's a waste of natural resources.

"My family sees me on television telling people to save energy by turning out lights, and they sit at home watching with practically every light on in the house."

The commission chairman lamented, "I can't even educate my mother and my family."

He added, "Some people say nobody is going to understand this energy crisis until we have a blackout. But I hope that it doesn't have to happen."

Marvin E. White, vice president for Columbia Gas Co. in Columbus is one of those people. He said it may take a "minor crisis" to get the message of an energy shortage to the consumer.

"In the so-called land of plenty," White said, "the consumer won't try to conserve energy.

"It's difficult to get the average consumer interested in saving gas. It may take a minor disaster to get him interested."

As an example of a minor crisis, White said, "A very severe cutback in natural gas to industrial users could cause unemployment. When that time comes, the employe out of work might go home and start patching up his home against the cold.

Lions, MT gain sectional finals

DOMENICO SCORES — Washington C. H. forward Mike Domenico (55) muscles his way inside to score a bucket in fourth quarter action of the Washington C. H.-Marysville game in the Class AA sectional tournament Saturday at Westland. The 6-foot-1 senior came off the bench in the fourth quarter and scored four points in less than a minute and a half to insure the 57-53 win.

Highly-touted Ready next on WCH's chart

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Ohio's fifth-ranked Class AA basketball power now appears on Washington C.H.'s sectional tournament worksheet.

The rascally Blue Lions earned a shot at Columbus Bishop Ready, ranked fifth in the final Associated Press high school basketball poll by ushering Marysville to the sidelines with a 57-53 win Saturday afternoon in the Central District Class AA sectional basketball tournament at Westland High School.

Head coach Gary Shaffer's Lions will struggle with Ready (16-3) at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Westland gym with the survivor winning a ticket to the district tournament which will be held at the Fairgrounds Coliseum. Ready, the defending Class AA state champion, topped Grandview 62-54 Friday.

WASHINGTON C.H., suffering a chilly shooting hand, erased a five-point third period deficit by outscoring Marysville 18-9 in the final frame to grab the slender victory margin. It was Marysville's ninth loss on the road.

The Lions, who pumped their all-games record to 10-8 and snapped a two-game nosedive, were caught flat-footed in the third quarter when Marysville surged back from a 31-26 halftime deficit, but Washington C.H. turned in some late heroics to notch the win.

Coach John Haschak's Monarchs, who completed the season with a 10-9 record, scored four straight buckets in the opening minutes of the third period to capture their first lead of the game 32-31 with 5:13 left.

Marysville held the upper hand and the game was close until junior pivotman Jeff Wallace hit a short jump shot for Washington C.H. to make the score 49-48 with 2:15 left to play.

Then some late fireworks by husky senior Mike Domenico foiled Marysville's win bid. The 6-foot-1 forward came off the bench to score four points in less than a minute and a half as the Lions spurted to a pair of three-point margins. Smooth-shooting senior Chuck Bath added a pair of free throws with three seconds left to ice the win as the Lions withstood a spirited Monarch surge.

ACTUALLY IT was Washington C.H.'s free throw shooting which provided the victory margin as Marysville held the upper hand in the field goal ledgers, 22-21. The Lions canned 15 of 23 charity attempts, while Marysville connected on nine of 15.

Otherwise, the statistics were nearly even. Washington C.H. hit 33 per cent from the field on 21 of 64 shots while the Monarchs made good on only 21 of 78 chances from the floor. The Union Countians held a slight rebounding edge (43-42), while the Lions turned the ball over nine times, once more than their foes.

Kenny Knisley, a 6-foot-3 junior who fit nicely into Shaffer's scheme of things lately, popped in 14 points to spark Washington C.H.'s scoring punch and Wallace contributed 13 points. Versatile Dick Witherspoon, an effective outside gunman, was the only other Lion in double digits with 10 points.

Allen Whiteside, a hard-working 6-foot-3 senior pivotman, hooped 23 points for Marysville and forward Calvin Low added 14.

Marysville opened with a man-to-man defense, but after Wallace had canned most of his seven first quarter points, Haschak switched to a zone. Wallace and Witherspoon combined for 11 points as the Lions grabbed a 15-11 first period lead.

The Lions sprinted to a 10-point cushion early in the second quarter and were never really threatened as Bath dropped in four free throws and Knisley hit a pair of goals and two foul shots to guide the Fayette Countians to a 31-26 lead at half.

Suddenly the lead evaporated as the Monarchs bucketed eight straight points while the Lions even misfired on five consecutive chances at the free throw stripe. Washington C.H.'s initial bucket of the third period came after more than four minutes had elapsed when Knisley canned a short jumper. Knisley scored six of the Lions' eight third period points and Marysville grabbed a 44-39 lead to set the stage for the fourth quarter thrills.

Jones sparks Panther victory

By ED SUMMERS
Record-Herald Staff Writer

A 26-point performance by Pete Jones led Miami Trace to a hard-fought 53-46 sectional tournament victory over Athens at Rio Grande College Saturday night.

The Panthers parlayed a fine 1-2-2 zone defense with a 20-point fourth quarter outburst to post their eighth consecutive win and earn the righ to face Meigs Friday for a trip to the district tourney.

A fine crowd of Panther fans who made the long journey to spacious Lyne Center squirmed and fretted through the first three quarters of play as the Panthers, apparently suffering from the tournament jitters, were unable to get their offense in gear. However, the Fayette Countians came to life in the fourth quarter and finally opened a six-point bulge midway through the last period, led by a hustling effort from junior guard Dave Steinhauser.

A FINE individual effort by Pete Jones kept Miami Trace in the thick of things during the first half. Pete tossed in 17 of the Panthers' 23 points in the half and also turned in a fine defensive performance.

Forward Mark Mace led the well-balanced Athens' attack with 13 markers, most coming on shots from either corner, followed by high-jumping Ted Essex and Steve Inbody both with nine points.

Coach Charlie McAfee's Bulldogs jumped to a quick 6-0 lead in the opening quarter before Pete Jones finally connected on a driving layup for the initial Panther score. Athens, boxing out well under the boards, allowed Miami Trace only one shot at the basket and its pressuring man-to-man defense forced the Panther offense outside.

Miami Trace opened the game in a man-to-man defense, but switched to the zone midway through the quarter. The Panthers closed the Bulldog lead to two points, 8-6, with 2:51 remaining but were four points short, 14-10 at the buzzer.

A TIPIN by Dave Persinger and two buckets by Pete Jones gave the Panthers their first lead of the game, 16-14 with three minutes gone in the second quarter. However, the Bulldogs, disciplined offense took advantage of three Miami Trace turnovers and outscored the Panthers 10-4 to take a 26-20 lead with 51 seconds showing. A three-point play by Jones with 40 seconds remaining closed the gap to three points, 26-23 at the half.

Neither team looked impressive in the third quarter, both throwing away numerous opportunities to open a big lead. The Panthers held a shortlived one point margin, 31-30, with 3:21 remaining but allowed the Bulldogs five points in the last two minutes and were down 35-33 as the final quarter got underway.

With Athens leading 39-37 and 4:36 left in the contest, Miami Trace finally became untracked and outscored the Bulldogs 10-2 in the next three minutes to open a six point 47-41 lead. Two baskets within 10 seconds by Steinhauser, one a driving layup, the other a result of a stolen Athens pass, opened a quick four-point lead for the Panthers at 43-39, from which they were never headed.

A half-court press by Athens in the last three minutes failed to disconcert Panther ballhandlers as they opened a 50-45 lead with 10 seconds remaining. Pete Jones sank the first shot of a bonus situation with one second left and Rick Cottrill tipped in the missed second shot to give the Panthers a 53-45 wing.

Junior center Dave Persinger came off the bench in the second quarter and turned in a fine performance, pumping in 10 points and grabbing seven rebounds for Miami Trace. Muff Jones, off his normal scoring pace, led the Panthers in rebounds with eight and also hit for eight points.

Pete Jones, in addition to his 26 points, stole the ball five times from Bulldog ballhandlers. The quick-handed Panthers had a total of 13 steals in the contest.

Free throws again played an important part in the Panther victory as they hit on 11 of 15 charity tosses. They also hit on 21 of 62 shots from the field for a 34 per cent clip.

The Panthers defense limited Athens to only 43 shots in the game, however the sharp-shooting Bulldogs made 20 of the fielders for 47 per cent. Their average at the free throw line suffered as they could connect on only five of 15 tosses.

The Jan Stauffer-coached Panthers committed only six turnovers in the contest while Athens made 24 miscues, many forced by the Panther zone.

Hillsboro sidelines McClain in tourney

Hillsboro got a 21-point scoring performance from Don Jewett and turned back a late comeback to continue its mastery over Highland County arch-rival Greenfield McClain 64-58 in the Waverly Class AA sectional basketball tournament Saturday night.

It was Hillsboro's third straight win over Greenfield this season and the second straight year the Indians have beaten McClain in first round of tourney play.

Jewett, the All-South Central Ohio League ace, popped in 10 field goals and a free throw, but got plenty of help from Mark Coffman who canned 16 points and Dave Larimer who contributed 12 markers as Hillsboro registered its fourth consecutive victory of the season.

IT WAS Greenfield's seventh straight loss of the campaign and sidelines head coach Sam Snyder's defending SCOL champs with a 4-15 all-games record.

Head coach Robert Ream's Indians, now 11-8 on the year, advance to the finals of the Waverly sectional. Hillsboro will meet the winner of the Albany Alexander (16-2) vs. Oak Hill (3-16) game at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Albany Alexander and Oak Hill will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

In the Groveport Class AA sectional tourney, Teays Valley earned a shot at Pickaway County rival Circleville by whacking a weak Hamilton Township team 85-53 Saturday. Teays Valley, now 13-6 will clash with Circleville, 15-4, at 8 p.m. Saturday.

In the Class AAA sectional at Rio Grande College Saturday night, Portsmouth posted a 66-59 win over Marietta to gain a berth in the lower bracket finals. Portsmouth, 12-7, will meet the winner of the Chillicothe-Jackson game which will be played Wednesday night.

Trevino wins Gleason tilt as Forrest Fezler falters

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Lee Trevino had a word of warning for Forrest Fezler, the heart-broken young man whose collapse let Trevino take the title and the $52,000 first prize in the Jackie Gleason Inverrary-National Airlines Golf Classic.

"He'll be nervous again," a sober and subdued Trevino said.

"I know. I've been there a lot more times than he has.

"There was a tremendous amount of pressure on him," Trevino continued. "But there was a lot of pressure on me, too.

"You know, you go for a while and you don't win—you're supposed to be one of the best players out here and you haven't won for a while and everybody starts wondering 'what's wrong with him?' Well, that puts pressure on you, too."

Trevino, the current British Open champion but a non-winner since last September, benefitted from Fezler's shakey putting on the last two holes Sunday and won the tournament while in the clubhouse.

"It's the first time I've ever won like that," Trevino said.

WCH 7th graders falter in title bid

Circleville wins MT frosh cage tourney

Miami Trace's freshman basketball dropped a 44-34 decision to Circleville in the finals of the annual Miami Trace South Central Ohio League tournament Saturday.

The Panther frosh, who finished as tourney runnerups, got a 12-point scoring performance from Rodney Garringer.

Coach Terry Richard's Miami Trace bunch completed the season with a 7-10 all-games record.

IN OTHER tournament action Saturday, Washington C.H.'s seventh graders dropped a 34-29 decision to Wilmington in the finals of the Washington C.H. seventh grade tourney at the junior high gym.

John Denen and Doug Stewart scored 12 and 11 points respectively, but Jeff Elliott turned in a fine floor game for Coach Carl Anders' Lion Cubs who finished the season with a 9-4 record. The Lions had defeated Wilmington twice in the regular season.

300 persons attend annual awards banquet

McKinley Kirk honored by county horsemen

COUNTY AWARD WINNERS — These persons captured awards at the annual Fayette County Harness Horsemen's Association banquet held Saturday night at the Mahan Building. Owners of outstanding local horses and the top county driver were presented awards at the banquet.

McKinley Kirk, a prominent businessman, bank director, horseman and farmer in the Washington C. H. and New Holland areas for the past 40 years who has owned, bred, trained and driven harness horses with outstanding success, was honored at the annual Fayette County Harness Horseman's Association banquet Saturday night at the Mahan Building. Three-hundred persons attended the banquet.

During the meeting, awards were presented to owners of outstanding local horses and the top Fayette County driver during the past year.

Kirk, widely-known in the nation's harness racing circles, has won countless awards and trophies. His red and white colors are on display at the Harness Racing Hall of Fame, Goshen, N. Y. He is the nation's leading amateur driver with 12 two-minute drives.

HE HAS bred, raised, trained and raced four world champions and has also trained and raced four horses which have been named Ohio Horse of the Year. Kirk has been a director of the United States Trotting Association for over 23 years and was recently re-elected to that position by an overwhelming majority. He is also a director of the Little Brown Jug Society.

Dudley Moon, 904 Leesburg Ave., was named the top Fayette County driver for the second year in a row. Moon posted a .417 winning percentage. In 68 starts he had 13 firsts, 21 seconds and 11 thirds. Ronnie Noel was second and Francis Rowe was third.

Awards were donated to Ima Jerry Way and Speeding Tara by Jack's Harness Equipment Co. and M&M Turf Supply Co.

THREE NEW Fayette County Harness Horsemen's Association directors were elected at the banquet. They were Dr. James A. McCoy, Ronnie Cornwell and Rick Kelley.

Films of the Hambletonian and Little Brown Jug racing classics were shown and the guest speaker was Paul Walker, head basketball coach at Middletown High School. Walker, the winningest high school coach in Ohio, is also a member of the Ohio State Racing Commission.

Music was provided by Jack Bartley and his Four Kings, of Circleville, and a smorgasbord type dinner was served.

NAIA tournament playoffs scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tournament playoffs for Ohio colleges is set to begin on March 5.

Paul Dowler all-events pin champ

Paul Dowler captured the all-events segment of the 23rd annual Washington C. H. Bowling Association's city tournament Sunday afternoon at Bowland Lanes.

Dowler, a low handicap bowler who is a member of Bell's Shell team in the Tuesday Night Commercial League, topped a 102-man field to win the all-events championship, but also turned in a fine performance in the doubles competition.

He combined with Ron Dowler to notch fourth place in the doubles action which attracted 63 teams and was won by Rick Kelley and Mike Wilson.

A TOTAL of 126 keglers participated in the singles competition and John Ackley Jr. nabbed the singles crown with a 707 three-game series with handicap.

Sunday's action completed the 1973 city bowling tournament. Brownie's Sohio, of the Monday Night Fraternal League, topped a 33-team field a week ago to win the team events title.

Tom Vrettos, secretary of the Washington C. H. Bowling Association, said the association's annual banquet will be held March 17 at Washington Country Club.

Here are the results. All are handicap totals:

DOUBLES

Rick Kelley and Mike Wilson 1286; Ed Helt and Mike Gaylord and Joe Jordan and Lester Jordan 1270; Joe McFarland and Jim Polk 1263; Ron Dowler and Paul Dowler 1257; Randy Fitzpatrick and Bob Bishop 1256; and Harley Evans and Jim Greene 1252.

SINGLES

John Ackley Jr. 707; Ron Dean and Ed Helt 683; Phil Nace 669; Roger Shepard 667; Bob Chaney 664; Tony Hicks 662; Bob Steele 659; Joe Henry 656; Bob Case 655; Bill Hargrave 650, and Don Williamson, Mike Wilson and Dennis Ulrich 645.

ALL-EVENTS

Paul Dowler 1981; Mike Wilson 1954; Bob Chaney 1942; Bill Souther 1938; Ed Helt 1925; Joe Henry 1922; Lester Jordan 1919; Bob Case 1917; John Ackley Jr. 1897, and Bob Van Dyke 1867.

Miami grabs MAC cage title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It was "esprit de corps," said Miami Coach Darrell Hedric, that enabled his Redskins to capture the Mid-American Conference basketball championship and a berth in the NCAA Mideast Regionals.

"I told the players this is what hard work and total dedication will do," Hedric said after Miami defeated Kent State 75-66 Saturday.

That victory, plus Bowling Green's 102-57 loss to Ohio University clinched the title for Miami with a 8-2 league record. Bowling Green fell to a game and a half back in the standings at 7-4 with one contest remaining.

Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley couldn't believe the beating his team took from Ohio University.

"I'm speechless for once in my life," the normally talkative Haley declared. "We played double bad today. . .I don't think it was Ohio pressure as much as the telling mistakes we made."

The Bobcats hit 53 per cent of their shots from the field. Bill Brown and Walter Luckett pumped in 23 and 20 points, respectively.

Ohio jumped off to a 24-6 lead and just kept widening the gap.

"We got a good jump and BG had a bad day," Ohio Coach Jim Snyder said. "Everything we did was good. Everything we put up went in."

In another conference game, Central Michigan edged Western Michigan 81-79 on a pair of free throws by Matt Means with 45 seconds left on the clock.

Meanwhile, Toledo, playing outside the league, surprised 16th-ranked Virginia Tech 89-74. The Rockets hit a hot 54 per cent of their shots and senior center Tom Kozelko chipped in 30 points.

"We just out-rebounded, outfree throwed, out-played 'em," Toledo Coach Bob Nichols said. "They're a good team," he added, "but you can't beat a buzz saw."

Cincinnati Swords top Rhode Island, 3-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The high road, the low road, any old road. It's all the same to the mighty Cincinnati Swords of the American Hockey League.

The Swords, running away with the Western Division title, set a league record of 21 road victories Sunday night in rallying for a 3-1 decision over the Rhode Island Reds.

In other games, Nova Scotia, the Eastern leader, whipped the Richmond Robins 5-2, Jacksonville blanked the Virginia Red Wings 3-0, the New Haven Nighthawks and the Baltimore Clippers tied 2-2, and the Rochester Red Wings defeated the Springfield Kings 5-3.

Fort Wayne, Dayton tied in standings

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)— Fort Wayne and Dayton are tied for the lead in the southern division of the International Hockey League.

The Komets moved into the tie with Sunday's 5-2 victory over the Toledo Hornets.

Agreement reached by owners, players

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball's training camps prepared today to sweep out the off-season cobwebs and finally make way for the bats ... and balls and players and, believe it or not, spring training.

The go-ahead to open shutdown camps from Florida to Arizona to California was given in New York Sunday following a three-year agreement reached at another in a series of meetings between representatives of the Major League Baseball Players Association and club owners.

Among those teams which announced plans to begin workouts today were the Chicago Cubs, New York Yankees, Kansas City Royals and Philadelphia Phillies.

In a joint statement, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, and John Gaherin, representing the 24 club owners, said they had "reached complete agreement for a three-year term subject to ratification by the clubs and players." However, ratification appeared to be a mere formality.

The settlement covers the so-called Basic Agreement, which governs active player-owner relations and the pension-benefit plan. It reportedly permits arbitration of salary disputes for players who have been in the major leagues for at least two consecutive seasons or a total of three years.

John Holland, vice president and general manager of the Cubs, termed the arbitration clause "a milestone in baseball." He called the accord "a very good settlement with give and take on both sides."

Holland said he didn't think the arbitration clause would lead to management problems. "Hockey has had arbitration for several years and it's worked very well for them," he said.

Chub Feeney, president of the National League, said players may "report to camp as soon as they can." He and his American League counterpart, Joe Cronin, then notified the 24 clubs that they could open their camps.

The owners had refused to open the training camps pending a settlement. They were fearful of a player strike similar to last year's two-week April walkout over the pension-benefit package which first delayed and then shortened the 1972 season.

The reaction from management and players alike was one of relief that they finally could get down to the business at hand ... namely, preparing for the 1973 pennant races. Both sides realized that fans were getting tired of talk and ready for runs, hits and errors.

"The publicity surrounding it (the negotiations) turns fans off, and judging by phone calls and letters I received during the negotiation period that very definitely happened this year," said Frank Cashen, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

"I think all the ballplayers, including myself, are very happy they have reached the settlement," said Jim Palmer, a Baltimore pitcher.

Students take chance in gambling classes

By WILLIAM G. WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

CHESTER, PA. (AP) — It's a sure bet that 40 students at little Widener College felt the odds were stacked against them in Jill Masterson's class.

But they were game for something different, and so was the petite Miss Masterson, a 32-year-old professor with a doctorate in psychology.

The course was entitled Gambling 729. What else?

Two crap tables and a roulette wheel built by a student, plus some card tables, were set up in a long, narrow, carpeted room in the basement of the campus library.

Dr. Masterson even had loaded dice and marked cards for one class session.

GAMBLING 729 was her idea for a one-month, one-credit course which the college features each year. But she didn't think she'd get approval of the program committee, which has final say on all courses.

"I thought there would be adverse reaction," she said. "But there was none. They just approved it and said they were happy to see something jazzy."

Widener has 1,500 fulltime day students, but there was room for only 40 in Gabling 729. Dozens were turned away.

"This was a fun and games type of course, a non-academic experience but one in which the student learns something," said Dr. Masterson. "There has never been a course this far out at Widener. It's a learning experience like a trip to an art museum, but something in which there is less testing and less anxiety.

"I devised the idea because I wanted to study gambling," she admits. "It's a research idea and I intend to publish the data that I gather by watching people bet."

SHE BEGAN by giving a questionnaire to those who were signed for the course and those who couldn't be accepted. This spring, she plans to test both groups again to see if her students picked up any compulsive gambling habits.

"The students just love it," said the Enterprise, Ore., native. "This type of course is becoming more popular because college experience should be relevant to the student's needs and desires, and more oriented to the contemporary problems of society.

"Psychologists are interested in people's conception of chance as a research problem, just to see how the human psyche functions.

"It would bother me very much if I see that I'm sending out a new generation of gamblers. Still, I think it's more honest to study gambling than to sweep it under the table."

She says she'll know more after the follow-up questionnaire results are tabulated on types of bets, odds at winning and the frequency of gambling.

The course is not a first on American campuses. Last year, a similar program was conducted at the University of Delaware by Dr. Michael Kuhlman, a psychologist also studying compulsive gambling.

Find children playing with high explosive

Hunt dynamite near Mt. Sterling

MOUNT STERLING — Air Force bombsquad divers were still searching a section of Mud Run Creek, near the Bragg Road bridge, today for more dynamite after 21 sticks were found in the water there Sunday.

Madison County sheriff's deputies said the search started Saturday when a passing motorist noticed several children playing with what appeared to be sticks of dynamite wrapped in bread wrappers. The motorist notified Mount Sterling police who began an investigation.

The area is about three miles west of Mount Sterling.

Officers said the dynamite was manufactured about 1970 and was very unstable in water.

Bomb experts, called from Lockbourne Air Force Base found part of the dynamite used by the children, their idenity still unknown, and a diver recovered 21 sticks in the water Sunday.

Sheriff's deputies said the youngsters were apparently fishing when their lines snagged the box. They said the dynamite appeared to have been placed in the creek for disposal and not for criminal purposes.

In the meantime the search for what is believed to be a half of a box of the high explosive is continuing.

Boys' Choir concert is well received

There were few seats left in the First Christian Church sanctuary Sunday evening when the Fayette County Boys' Choir presented its annual concert of sacred music.

The audience, which gave the 20-member choir a warm reception, also expressed its appreciation by contributions to the fund to help finance the choir's annual educational trip. The trip this year will take the 21 choir members and chaprones to historic Charlottesville, Va., the weekend after Easter Sunday.

The choir sang seven numbers. It was accompanied by John Huffman the regular pianist. Mrs. Mary Sue Spangler, the church organist, also accompanied several songs.

Mrs. Robert E. Willis, who organized the choir 17 years ago, directed the concert.

The program included a bass solo, "The Lord's Prayer, by Jeff Fannin. Tim Dunlap sang the solo part of the closing number, "Where in the World."

The message was given by the Rev. Don Baker, the church pastor. Don Eyre, of the choir, gave the invocation and Jeff Overly, also a choir member, read the Scripture.

Mrs. Willis said anyone interested in becoming a patron of the Choral group may send a contribution to her at her home, 11 Willis Court. The Rotary Club and Washington Savings Bank are the principal sponsors.

Thefts, vandalism incidents checked

Police and sheriff's deputies investigated a variety of thefts and vandalism incidents over the weekend, including the burglary of a local tax service officer.

Police said someone forced entry into the Fennig Tax Service, 324 W. Court St., sometime overnight Friday and made off with items and cash worth $139.

The burglar had pried a hasp lock of the cellar door on the north side of the building and entered the offices from the basement. Desk drawers in the office were ransacked, and $25 and cash was removed from one. Also taken was a man's coat, two transistor radios and 50 postage stamps.

Police said the burglar had used a screwdriver to pry open the lock.

Bert Free, New Holland, reported that someone had removed a box of tools, and other items from his truck, which was parked at his residence. Loss was set at $82.

An outhouse and an old refrigerator at the Raymond Rinehart residence in Milledgeville were overturned sometime Friday night. Rinehart said the refrigerator was stored in his back yard at the time.

Alfred Dixon, 112 W. Paint St., reported to police that vandals cut the coaxial cable to his radio antenna sometime Friday.

County to assist Jeffersonville in repairing street

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners has authorized the county engineer to assist Jeffersonville Village in repairing Railroad St. in the village.

The commissioners agreed to assist the village in hauling and grading stone. The material is to be furnished by the village.

Commissioner J. Herbert Perrill was authorized to attend the County Commissioners Association meeting Thursday and Friday in Columbus.

The dog warden reported 33 calls were made during the preceding week.

The commissioners accepted a bid of $2,665 for the purchase of a three-quarter ton truck from Ralph Hickman, Inc. A bid of $2,692.33 was submitted by Billie Wilson Chevrolet. Both bids were net bids and included the trade-in of an old truck. The Hickman bid was for a GMC truck and the Wilson bid was for a Chevrolet.

Author to appear on 'Today' program

PRINCETON, N. H. — Prof. William A. Owens of Columbia University, who is a member of a National Humanities Series program on the "American Frontier," will be featured as a guest on the NBC-TV network program "Today" Tuesday between 7 and 9 a.m. Owens' appearance is in conjunction with the publication by Scribner of "A Season of Weathering," the second volume of his autobiography.

The book tells the story of a Texas country boy striving for a livelihood and the education to make him a teacher. Owens, who grew up in Pin Hook, Tex., in the hard times of the Twenties, tells what it was like to be a boy in those times and in the process celebrates mankind.

A former dean of the Summer Session at Columbia University, Owens remains on the faculty as a professor of English and teacher of creative writing. He is an expert on folk music and folk materials and the author of eight previous books, novels and nonfiction.

CAB CHIEF? — Congressional sources in Washington said that Robert D. Timm, above, is to be named chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board. A Republican from Harrington, Wash., he has been on the CAB since December, 1970.

Courts

DIVORCES ASKED

Two new divorce suits have been filed in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Lula B. Penwell, 734 John St., has filed suit for a divorce against Robert E. Penwell Sr., 734 John St., on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married Apirl 11, 1955, in Washington C.H. and have five children, according to the petition. The plaintiff seeks custody of and support for the minor children and a restraining order.

Donald E. Palmer Sr., Rt. 2, Washington C.H., has filed suit for a divorce against Vera J. Palmer, Rt. 4, Washington C.H. on grounds of neglect. The couple were married Feb. 19, 1949, in Maysville, Ky., and have one child, according to the petition. The plaintiff seeks custody of the child.

TRAFFIC CASES

Three traffic cases involving speeding were heard Friday by Juvenile Court Judge Rollo M. Marchant. All three youths were found to be juvenile traffic offenders.

Richard E. Moore, 17, son of Mrs. John Mick, Rt. 5, Washington C.H. appeared on an Ohio Highway Patrol charge. His operator's license was conditionally suspended for 30 days. He was arrested Jan. 22 in Clinton County and the case was certified to the Fayette County court.

The operator's license of Gregory M. Detty, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Detty, Jeffersonville, was suspended for 30 days on a charge filed by the Ohio Highway Patrol. He was arrested Feb. 10.

The court also conditionally suspended the operator's license of Stephen E. Rioh, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Rich, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., for 30 days. He was arrested Feb. 11 by the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Huntington Shares announces dividend

COLUMBUS — Huntington Bancshares Inc. has announced a dividend of 44 cents per share payable April 2 to shareholders of record March 9.

The corporation reported total assets in excess of $1.23 billion as of Dec. 31, 1972, an increase of 11.8 per cent from a year ago. Also reported were consolidated net operating earnings before securities gains of $4.02 per share, an increase of 5.9 per cent over the preceding year. Fourth quarter 1972 net operating earnings were $1.15 per share, an increase of 18.2 per cent over the same quarter last year.

Huntington Bancshares is a registered bank holding company based in Columbus, Ohio. During 1972 The First National Bank of Wadsworth and The First National Bank of Kenton became affiliated with the corporation, bringing the total to 12 affiliated banks operating 74 banking offices. The Washington Savings Bank is an affiliate.

Retired Teachers to hear Dr. Rhoad

Dr. C. Elton Rhoad, a retired teacher, who spent several years as a government representative in India, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Fayette County Retired Teachers Association following luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Thursday in the Terrace Lounge.

Association President Kenneth Craig said teachers who retired after last year and those who have moved here from elsewhere are welcome to attend the luncheon and meeting and join the association if they are interested. The association now has between 50 and 60 members.

Parent-teacher meetings are set by city schools

The second parent-teacher conference of this school year will be Thursday afternoon in the city's five elementary schools and the junior and senior high schools.

Supt. Edwin Nestor said conferences will follow the same pattern as those in October, which, he said, were successful.

Nestor explained that the conferences are designed to give the parents and teachers an opportunity to get together if they have any common problems to discuss.

He pointed out that parents are welcome to visit the schools any time, but conferences such as these provide time for teachers and administrators to talk with them.

He suggested that parents make appointments to meet with the teachers. The appointments may be made at the principals' offices of any of the schools. Nestor emphasized, however, that appointments are not necessary.

The students will be dismissed after the regular morning session and will not return for afternoon classes.

Ohio tax assistance available

Assistance in completing the Ohio personal income tax return is available at the Fayette County Courthouse each day during regular courthouse hours. An agent of the Ohio Department of Taxation is located on the second floor.

Governor John J. Gilligan said agents will be at various locations in all of Ohio's 88 counties on designated dates up to the April 16 filing deadline.

Tax Commissioner Robert J. Kosydar said taxpayers who have not received or have misplaced their Ohio personal income tax return can obtain additional forms by writing the Ohio Department of Taxation, P. O. Box 2679, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

Kosydar said forms are also available at any of the department's district offices located in Akron, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Youngstown and Zanesville or from agents participating in the taxpayer information program.

Old devices set to tame Lake Erie

BAY VILLAGE, Ohio (AP)— A 7,000-year-old answer to shore erosion will be put into practice along a section of Lake Erie this spring in hopes it will tame the lake's high water levels and wave action.

The erosion control devices, called "gabions," are rectangular steel mesh baskets that are filled with stones and sunk offshore. They will be used to build a 180-foot seawall along the Bay Village shoreline just west of Cleveland.

The cost of $25,000 will be shared by the city and the affected homeowners.

The gabions, from the Latin word which means "cage," are manufactured in Italy, but their use began in about 5,000 B.C. when ancient Egyptian engineers used them to in the construction of dikes along the Nile.

Record rainfalls have raised Lake Erie water levels, and residents of shoreline areas in northern Ohio have been worried for several months about the possibility of increased erosion this spring.

The gabions were recommended for the area by a state Department of Natural Resources study, according to Bay Village officials, who said the stone-filled baskets disperse the force of the waves.

Because the water can actually flow through the gabions, however, the stone-filled baskets are sturdier than other types of erosion control, according to Peter J. Gray, president of Great Lakes Permagroin, Inc., which distributes the gabions.

Barge explosion suits increase

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — More than $7 million in claims have been filed as a result of a January 1972 barge explosion on the Ohio River here.

Two men were killed and tremendous property damage occurred on both the West Virginia and Ohio sides of the river in the massive blast.

The owner of the barges, Meljoy Transportation Co. of Blue Island, Ill., has petitioned U. S. District Court to limit its liability in the incident to $192,400.

The firm claims it was not at fault in the explosion but requested limited liability if it is held responsible.

Fight state lottery

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Council of Churches plans to meet in suburban Worthington Monday to plan its two-month battle against a state lottery.

Say documents disclose plot against hero

NEW YORK (AP) — A Senate committee has been given classified documents that Lt. Col. Anthony B. Herbert says support his contention that the Army wanted to oust him for speaking out about alleged war crimes in Vietnam, the New York Times reported today.

The Times said that it had obtained copies of the documents which were mailed to the Senate Armed Services Committee last week in care of one of its members, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

One document addressed to then Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland and signed by Gen. Walter T. Kersin, deputy chief of staff for personnel, suggested a way to dismiss Herbert, the Times said.

According to the Times, the document said that in the opinion of the Judge Advocate General's office statements critical of the Army attributed to Herbert in a Life magazine article "form sufficient basis to take adverse administrative action against him."

Buddhist leader dies

SAIGON (AP) — Thich Tinh Khiet, the supreme patriarch of South Vietnam's Buddhists, died Sunday in Hue.

Pair on trial in tot's death

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP)— A former Ohio school teacher and the unemployed carpetner-musician she lived with in a tent on a wooded ridge overlooking the Pacific Ocean are on trial here in the death of her battered 15-month-old daughter.

Susan Dager Young, 27, and Roland P. Dion, 24, the defendants, say little Rainbow Dawn Young died in Santa Cruz Dominican Hospital last Oct. 28 of injuries received accidentally.

But Chris Cottle, a deputy district attorney, has told a jury of nine women and three men: "We will ask that you find both of these defendants guilty of torturing this little baby to death."

Senate faces close deadline on foreign aid, HEW funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is facing a Wednesday deadline for extending stopgap funding for foreign aid and the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Spending authority expires at midnight Wednesday. A vote was scheduled today.

The House has voted a continuing resolution to extend both appropriations until June 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved the four-month extension for Labor HEW, but only two months for foreign aid.

President Nixon vetoed the annual Labor-HEW appropriation bill twice last year, saying it was too big.

The foreign aid appropriation for the current fiscal year was abandoned in Congress last year because of a House-Senate deadlock on a new authorization for military aid programs.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee scheduled a voting session today on a new military aid authorization.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright asked for only a one-month extension of foreign aid funding pending action on the new authorization bill.

In raising it two months, Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said the Appropriations Committee concluded that one month was not enough time to get both an authorization and an appropriation through both branches of Congress.

Foreign aid bills have been encumbered for years with tnd-the-war and other extraneous amendments and bogged down last year over an amendment to require that all executive agreements for U.S. military bases on foreign soil be submitted for Senate ratification as treaties.

The continuing resolution would extend appropriations for Labor-HEW at an annual rate of $29.9 billion, $1.8 billion more than Nixon's budget, and for foreign aid at a $3.6-billion annual rate, $1.5 billion less than budget requests.

Mrs. Meir sets talks with Nixon

TEL AVIV (AP) — Premier Golda Meir said as she left for the United States today that she thought the downing of a Libyan airliner last week by Israeli fighters would have no effect on her talks with President Nixon.

The 74-year-old premier looked drawn and admitted to newsmen she was "very tired." But she dodged other questions, saying: "I will tell you everything when I get back."

Foreign Minister Abba Eban told newsmen that Mrs. Meir would give top priority in Washington to the possibility of "proximity" peace talks with the Arabs. Under this formula, the Israelis and Arabs would meet separately and alternately with a neutral negotiator who would act as a go-between. The procedure was tried by Gunnar Jarring, the U.N. mediator for the Middle East, but was not successful.

On Sunday, the Israeli government reported that the French captain of the Libyan jetliner was not licensed to fly that type of plane. The government said it had found Capt. Jacques Bourges' flying permit and that it did not list the trijet Boeing 727, the plane downed last Wednesday on the Israeli side of the Suez Canal. Bourges was licensed only as a copilot for the French Caravelle jetliner and several propeller planes, the Israelis said.

Air France, the French government airline, disputed the Israeli statement. It said Bourges had completed the training course for 727 pilots on Nov. 6, 1971, and this had been entered on his license five days later.

The government also announced that it was ready to make payments to the families of the 106 persons killed in the crash, including Bourges, and to the other seven aboard the plane, who were injured. But it refused to use the word "compensation" because that would imply guilt for the downing of the plane.

Instead, a cabinet communique announcing the offer used the term "ex gratia," meaning "out of kindness."

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has said the Israelis misinterpreted the situation but errors by the pilot and the Cairo air control center also were to blame in the downing of the airliner.

Officials hopeful of last-minute change

North Viets delay prisoner release

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese spokesman said today that no American prisoners of war will be released on Tuesday, but U.S. officials were hopeful of last-minute word from Hanoi announcing about 140 more POWs would be handed over.

"There will definitely not be any POW releases Tuesday, "the chief North Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon, Bui Tin, told newsmen. He added that the list of the next prisoners to be turned over also would not be delivered today. He said word was expected soon from Hanoi, but he did not know when it would come.

Tin said the senior members of the Joint Military Commission would take up the POW issue at their next regular meeting Wednesday, indicating he expected no transfer of POWs before Thursday.

But a U.S. official told newsmen there was still a "distinct possibility" of about 140 Americans being released on Tuesday, "the last day of the second increment."

"That's what happened the first time," he said. "We're ready to go into action within short notice as soon as we get the specifics of when and where."

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong handed over 143 American prisoners on Feb. 12, 15 days after the signing of the cease-fire agreement in Paris, and the United States expected the release of another group of the same size on Tuesday, 15 days after the first transfer. Twenty more U.S. POWs were handed over in Hanoi on Feb. 18, but this was billed as a gesture of appreciation for the visit of U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The Communists still hold 407 servicemen and 15 civilians in North and South Vietnam and Laos, according to Hanoi.

Tin tied the release of the Americans to the issue of Vietnamese civilians held by the Saigon government, saying, "we would like very much to see the U.S. POWs return to their families, but there are also 100,000 Vietnamese families who do not know about their missing members."

The United States maintains that the cease-fire agreement spells out that the repatriation of American prisoners is contingent on only one thing, the rate of the American troop withdrawal from Vietnam. The U.S. Command announced today that the withdrawal is slightly more than 50 per cent complete. U.S. officials pointed out that only 28 per cent of the American prisoners had been released.

Meanwhile, South Vietnam charged that the North Vietnamese had established three surface-to-air missile sites just below the demilitarized zone in violation of the cease-fire, and informed sources said the sites had been photographed by U.S. reconnaissance planes.

This was the first word that American reconnaissance flights are continuing over South Vietnam. U.S. sources said that while the cease-fire agreement specifically prohibits such flights over North Vietnam, there is no ban on such activity in South Vietnam.

Canada complains to peace meet

PARIS (AP) — Canada told the nations involved in war and peace in Vietnam today that it will quit the international commission supervising the ceasefire by April 30 unless an international authority is set up to deal with violations of the peace agreement.

Foreign Minister Mitchell Sharp told the opening session of an international conference on Vietnam that Canada cannot accept a peacekeeping role where violations can only be reported back to those accused of committing them.

Sharp proposed that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who is attending the conference, be empowered to receive reports of cease-fire violations and reconvene the conference if he thought this necessary.

He stressed that the individual members of the International Commission of Control and Supervision—Indonesia, Poland and Hungary are the others—should be allowed to report violations, and not just the commission as a whole, where unanimity would be required.

Sharp added that Canada may pull out of the commission if it is unable to function effectively.

"My government is well aware of the problems that a vacancy in the commission could create, and would, in practice, do whatever it could to avoid that situation arising," Sharp told the other 11 foreign ministers and Waldheim.

"But we should not be asked to watch in silence a resumption of hostilities, nor to accept direct responsibility for all the consequences that could ensue if we felt duty-bound to report to the world that the agreement had been seriously breached."

Despite Sharp's efforts to put teeth in the agreement signed in Paris Jan. 27, the conference was expected to settle for a big power pledge to let the Vietnamese people settle their problems without outside interference.

The Viet Cong foreign minister, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Bing, apparently spoke for the Communist delegations Friday when she said the conference should merely take note of the agreement, pledge its participants to observe it and call on other countries to help keep the peace.

British officials said some such formula may be the best the conference can hope to achieve because the tasks assigned to it under Article 19 of the cease-fire agreement are practically impossible to fulfill.

Article 19 says the conference should "acknowledge the signed agreements; to guarantee the ending of the war, the maintenance of peace in Vietnam, the respect of the Vietnamese people's fundamental national rights and the South Vietnamese people's right to self-determination; and to contribute to and guarantee peace in Indochina."

One high ranking British source said the conference would take a "poetic view" of these instructions and settle for a declaration of broad principle.

Party leaders push rights amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — With approval of 10 more states needed, President Nixon and the chairmen of the two major political parties have called for ratification of the equal rights amendment to elevate the status of women.

Nixon's appeal was made last week in an economic message to Congress. Democratic Chairman Robert Strauss and his Republican counterpart, George Bush, have been writing state legislators to urge approval.

Backers of the constitutional amendment had hoped it might win ratification before Aug. 26, the 50th anniversary of women's suffrage. But in the past month the amendment has run into opposition from some conservatives, and there are predictions it might take another year or more to push it through.

Twenty-eight of the necessary 38 states have ratified the amendment, which would bar the abridgement of civil rights on the basis of sex.

Opponents contend ratification of the amendment would play havoc with the nation's laws, destroy the family system and require that women register for the military draft.

Bush intervened unsuccessfully when the amendment was up for a vote in the North Dakota House of Representatives last Thursday. The House killed the proposal for the year. The GOP chairman also sent telegrams to Republican officials in Maine, whose legislature votes on the amendment Tuesday.

Anne Armstrong, former co-chairman of the Republican National Committee and now a counselor to Nixon, has written letters and occasionally spoken on behalf of the amendment since it cleared Congress nearly a year ago.

Strauss last week wrote Democratic governors and legislators in each of the 32 states that have not ratified the amendment, saying "it would be a dangerous move to step away from our commitment to the women of America at this point in our party's and our nation's history."

Fair weather covers wide area of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gale warnings were posted on the north and central Pacific coast early today as wind velocity reached more than 40 miles per hour at places.

The Northwest girded itself for another onslaught of wet weather as a new frontal system approached.

Fair weather prevailed in southern California and from the Rockies and Plateau to the lower Mississippi Valley generally.

Dense fog covered south central Nebraska and light fog reduced visibility in Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri. Light snow whitened Grand Island, Neb.

A light snow dusted the Lower Great Lakes region. One inch was added today to the nine dumped on Flint, Mich., Sunday.

Scattered showers and thundershowers touched the upper Ohio Valley, the south Atlantic coastal states and West Palm Beach, Fla.

Temperatures ranged from 5 at Marquette, Mich., to 72 at Miami, Fla.

Six persons injured in weekend crashes

Five persons were injured, two seriously, when a car and pickup truck collided at the intersection of U.S. 22 and Ohio 753 Saturday night.

The crash was one of eight investigated locally by police and sheriff's deputies over the weekend which resulted in six injuries and moderate property damage. Four drivers were cited for traffic law violations as the result of accidents.

Reported in fair condition at Children's Hospital, Columbus, is Vivian Young, 9, of Coalton. She was a passenger in a pickup truck driven by her father, Warren Young, 49. Young and his wife, Ruth, were both treated at Memorial Hospital for bumps and bruises and released.

Donald L. Frazier, 30, Lancaster, driver of the car, and Tammy J. Frazier, 22, a passenger, were also injured. Tammy Frazier was later admitted to Memorial Hospital with rib injuries.

Investigating officers said the Frazier car was westbound on U.S. 22 when the Young truck pulled from a stop sign on Ohio 753 into Frazier's path.

Young was cited for failure to yield the right of way in the 7:25 p.m. collision.

Both vehicles were heavily damaged.

ONE WOMAN was injured and damage was listed as heavy in a two-car crash at the Fayette - Elm Street intersection at 4:10 p.m. Sunday.

Betty L. Fine, Lorain, a passenger in a car driven by Bernice E. Johnson, 64, Amherst, was treated in the emergency room for a leg injury and released. Mrs. Johnson also complained of minor injuries but was not treated at the time.

City police said the Johnson car was southbound on Fayette Street and apparently ran a red light, crashing into the side of a westbound car driven by Jess W. Matson, 17, of 511 E. Temple St. Matson was driving from Elm Street into an alley at the time, officers said.

Mrs. Johnson was cited for a traffic light violation.

Other accidents investigated were:

Cronkite blasts antipress policy

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Television newscaster Walter Cronkite says the Nixon administration is trying to raise its credibility "by dragging down that of the press."

The administration is manipulating public opinion in a way that "to stand up and defend freedom of speech and press is to appear anti-Nixon," he said, adding that the Supreme Court had stripped the press of "the privilege to protect its sources, and without such protection, a free press cannot survive."

The longtime anchorman for CBS' evening news made the charges in a speech Sunday night before the 105th annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators here.

Kissinger says North Viets will probe MIA mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger says North Vietnam has promised "a full investigation" into the fates of some 1,300 Americans who are still unaccounted for in Vietnam.

"Now, I must say that I cannot really believe that the North Vietnamese would hide prisoners on us," Kissinger said in an interview broadcast Sunday night by the National Broadcasting Co.

Kissinger said that while he was in Hanoi, he presented a U.S. analysis of the missing in action, "particularly where we had some evidence that a flier had parachuted ... or where we had collateral evidence that a person might have been taken prisoner.

Kissinger, President Nixon's chief adviser on national security, told NBC correspondent Barbara Walters, "North Vietnam will never relinquish its desire to take over South Vietnam." But that is not the issue, he added.

"The issue is will they want to unify Vietnam by force or are they willing to rely on an evolutionary process," Kissinger said. He said he thought the North Vietnamese were considering a "peaceful revolution ... for the first time in their history and in their lives."

He said the United States was not opposed to unification through peaceful, political means. "If the performance on one part or the other is so clearly superior to that of the other that it tends to achieve moral superiority over the other, that is not an American concern," he said.

The wide ranging interview also touched on Kissinger's working relationship with the President. First, he said reports of a strain in their relationship during the last stages of the peace negotiations were unfounded. Then he provided a glimpse of how he and Nixon work together.

"The President, before I go out on a diplomatic mission, doesn't write down specific points that I am supposed to achieve ... What the President does is to write down for himself, on a yellow sheet, four or five or six major issues, and the pros and cons of each issue.

"Then he will call me in, go over them and over them and if I have any ideas I will present them to him. But he talks much more in general terms of where we want to go, so that I clearly understand what he has in mind."

Youth treated at hospital after setting fire in jail

An 18-year-old escapee from the Zanesville Youth Camp was treated at Memorial Hospital for smoke inhalation after he set fire to his jacket and a blanket while incarcerated in the city jail Saturday night.

Police said Ricardo Ribas, of Toledo, later said he "wanted to burn down the building."

Ribas, along with Charles E. Dillon, 18, Cincinnati, and Michael D. Oakes, 19, of Dayton, all runaways from the Zanesville camp, were apprehended by Patrolman Larry Walker Saturday afternoon at the intersection of Dayton and Van Deman avenues. The trio were brought to police headquarters where a computer check showed that they were runaways.

Officers initially placed all three in the downstairs cell but later moved Ribas to the upstairs cell where he set the fire.

Officers said he had overturned the metal bunk in the cell and put it against the door then braced himself against the wall and the bunk so the door could not be opened.

Capt. Charles Foster discovered the blaze about 7:45 p.m., when he checked the cells after smelling smoke. Foster and patrolman William Cales were unable to force the door and called for assistance from firemen.

Ribas finally passed out from the heavy smoke in the cell and firemen finally were able to force open the door and extinquish the blaze, burning beside the commode.

Ribas was taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation and later returned to the city lockup. The three were returned to the Zanesville camp Sunday.

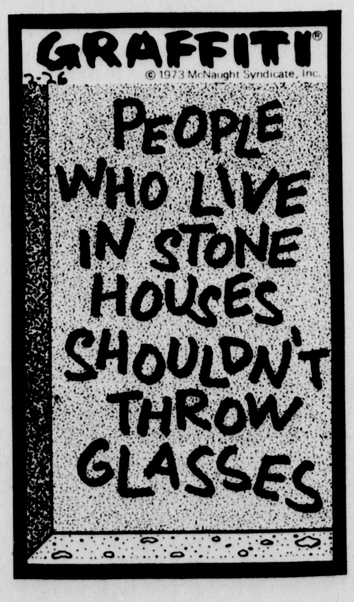

Police said toilet fixtures and the wall in the cell were moderately damaged by the flames.

Nude females 'integrate' pool

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Six young women, at least three of them nude, briefly integrated a pool Sunday at the University of Wisconsin which has traditionally been reserved for male—only nude swimming.

University police said that by the time they got to the scene, the women were already out of the water and toweling themselves dry. The women were asked to leave and did.

The reaction of the 50 men in the water wasn't recorded.

Can't get away

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Bill Madill of Cincinnati spent a career of 27 years in the service station business, first working for Pure, then Union 76.

Now he's out of the gasoline business, working in a plant on Boron Street.

Ohio Assembly takes up Gilligan's budget

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House Finance Committee begins its scrutiny of Gov. John Gilligan's proposed $9.7 billion biennial budget this week.

The Gilligan administration's election reform package is also expected to be introduced during the week, according to Rep. Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89, New Boston, House speaker pro tem.

Review of the proposed budget will begin Tuesday morning. Finance Committee Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, said his committee will be divided into subcommittees to review the budget.

The budget covers state spending for the two years beginning July 1.

Acting Finance Director Robert Baker has been scheduled to explain education appropriation requests.

A hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday evening to hear spending requests from the state architect's office, Ohio Exposition Commission, Interstate Cooperation Committee and the Ohio Water Development Authority.

Both legislative houses convene at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday for what is expected to be a light week of floor action. Fifty-eight committee hearings have been scheduled, however, 21 in the Senate and 37 in the House.

The election reform package is expected to be introduced in parts by several legislators, according to Riffe.

The package calls for longer voting hours, an extended period for filing absentee ballots and door-to-door voter registration.

The administration reportedly may also present the legislature a bill providing an estimated $36 million in pay hikes for state employes over the next two years. The raises are expected to average 4.5 per cent for the state's payroll of 50,000.

Funds for the pay hike are included in the governor's budget request.

This week, too, the House will consider Senate amendments to a House-passed, $300 million Vietnam veterans' bonus.

The issue will not be on the May primary ballot because Democrats and Republicans disagreed over methods of financing.

GOP members wanted the bonus paid for from the general revenue fund while Democrats generally supported an increase in the property tax.

Legislative leaders hope to work out a compromise in time for the proposal to be put on the November ballot.

The state would pay an Ohioan who served during the Vietnam conflict a maximum of $500 and survivors of the 2,996 Ohioans who died in the fighting $1,000 if the measure is approved.

Seymour Stevens

CLARKSBURG — Services for Seymour Stevens, 64, of Rt. 1, Clarksburg, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland.

Mr. Stevens, a lifelong resident of the Clarksburg community and a retired farmer, was dead on arrival at Chillicothe Hospital at 9 a.m. Saturday, half an hour after suffering a heart attack at his home. He had been ill the past year.

He is survived by his wife, the former Alice Sowers; two sons, Russell, of Hartford, Ill., and Robert, at home; two daughters, Miss Virginia Stevens, of Chillicothe, and Mrs. William (Evelyn) Mahorney, of New Holland; seven grandchildren and a brother, Ira, of Clarksburg.

The Rev. Aldon Jones will conduct the services, and burial will be in Brown's Chapel Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p.m. Monday.

Donald G. Woodruff

Donald G. Woodruff, 52, of Tulsa, Okla., died Feb. 17. Burial was made Feb. 22 in Duschore, Pa., according to word received here.

A native of Fayette County, he is survived by his wife, Helen; two daughters, Miss Barbara Woodruff, Pontiac, Mich., and Beverly, Michael and Patrick, all at home; his mother, Mrs. Nellie Woodruff, of Washington C. H.; four brothers, Elza, of Washington C. H., Dean, San Antonio, Tex., David, of Columbus, and Clair, Kokomo, Ind., and two sisters, Mrs. Rachel Rockwell, Lima, and Mrs. Phyllis Charles, Troy.

MRS. HELEN FARRIS — Services for Mrs. Helen M. Farris, of 640 S. Champion Ave., Columbus, were held at 3 p.m. Saturday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home, with the Rev. Ray Troute, of Columbus, officiating. Mrs. Farris, a native of Washington C.H., died Thursday.

The choir of the Columbus Apostolic Church sang two hymns and Mrs. Joel Bailey read the obituary. Pallbearers for the burial in Washington Cemetery were Garry Scott, Paul McCoy, Danny Willis, Joel Bailey, Leonard Johnson and Jeff Willis.

EARL C. WELCH — Services for Earl C. Welch, 48, of 419 Peddicord Ave., were held at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Gerstner - Kinzer Funeral Home, with the Rev. Robert Barker, of the Apostolic Church, Hickory Lane, officiating. Mr. Welch, a World War II Army veteran, died Wednesday of a heart attack suffered at the Apostolic Church.

Mrs. Gladys Short and Mrs. Carole Aills sang two hymns, and the falg that draped the casket was folded by C.P. Hackett and Vora Brown Jr., of Paul H. Hughey Post, American Legion, and was presented to a brother, Walter Welch. Pallbearers for the burial in Washington Cemetery were Oliver Flowers, Charles McKnight, Harry Brown, Russell Hawkins Jr., Kenneth Riley and Charles Humphrey.

Wage curbs to become flexible

WASHINGTON (AP) — A flexible standard for wage increases in new labor contracts will replace the government's 5.5-per-cent guideline left over from Phase 2 controls, sources say.

The move to a flexible standard, described as "very carefully worded," was expected to be confirmed by the White House today.

It is seen as a Nixon administration concession to labor since several major labor contracts will be negotiated this year.

AFL-CIO President George Meany has said he favors a new wage-increase standard of about 7.5 per cent, or even as high as 8 per cent. The flexible standard will not aim for fixed increases.

However, sources said the 5.5-per-cent guideline is not being forgotten altogether and indicated it could be restored later if conditions permit.

A major factor behind the change now is the big rise in food prices in recent months.

A high administration source said Sunday the new flexibility for wage increases will make it possible for workers to regain the purchasing power lost because of the increase in food costs.

The 5.5-per-cent wage standard has been in effect since November 1971 when it was adopted as part of the Phase 2 wage-price-control program. An additional 0.7-per-cent increase was allowable annually for fringe benefits.

Court to review CIA money suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government, attempting to block a judicial examination of secrecy surrounding money spent by the Central Intelligence Agency, today was granted a hearing in the Supreme Court.

The high court agreed without comment or dissent to hear the government's plea that William B. Richardson of Greensburg, Pa., has no standing to sue in federal courts for exposure of CIA's appropriations.

The U.S. Circuit Court at Philadelphia ruled against the government last year, holding that Richardson could sue to determine if the 1949 law which exempts the CIA from disclosure violated the constitutional provision calling for publication of "expenditures of all public money..."

Wilmington area girl dies in auto crackup

WILMINGTON — A Wilmington area girl was killed in a single-car accident which left the driver in serious condition here early Sunday.

Sandra Williamson, 18, Rt. 5, Wilmington, was thrown from a car driven by Roth C. Hieatt, 17, Rt. 4, Wilmington. According to Wilmington police officers, Hieatt was apparently driving at a high rate of speed on East Main Street and failed to negotiate a curve, hitting a pole owned by the Dayton Power and Light Co. at the Grant Street intersection.

Hiett, who suffered head and lower back injuries, was listed in serious condition at Clinton Memorial Hospital.

Miss Williamson, who made her home with her mother, Mrs. Anna Louise Morrison, at Sligo, west of Wilmington, was pronounced dead on arrival at Clinton Memorial Hospital at 3:30 a.m. Sunday.

A native of Sabina, she was a senior at Clinton Massie High School and was employed under the school's OWE program at the Litt Department Store in Wilmington.

Besides her mother, she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Linda Hill and Mrs. Janet Florea, both of Wilmington, and Mrs. Donna Bogan, of New Vienna; a grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Hargett, of Hamilton; and a grandfather, Noel Cummings, of Oklahoma.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Sulcer Funeral Home, Wilmington, with the Rev. Cecil Fox, pastor of the Church of God, officiating. Burial will be in Sugar Grove Cemetery.

Friends may call from 5 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the funeral home.

State Patrol officer dies in accident

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — A 21-year-old Ohio Highway patrolman, who had been on the force only eight months, was killed in an auto accident Sunday while chasing a speeder.

David L. Sterner, a native of Beach City, was pursuing a suspect on Ohio 15, southeast of Findlay. When he came to the intersection of Ohio 37 a car came out in front of him, according to a patrol spokesman.

Sterner swerved attempting to avoid the car, driven by a 75-year-old woman, but was not successful.

His patrol car slammed into the front of the other vehicle, hit two concrete culverts, turned over and went up in flames.

The speeder escaped. Hannah Feller, driver of the other car, of Mt. Blanchard, was taken to Blanchard Valley Hospital and treated for shock and fractured ribs and released.

The patrol is still seeking the speeder and investigating the accident. No summons has been issued.

Sterner graduated in the 95th class of the Patrol Academy on July 23 and was assigned to the Findlay Patrol Post.

He lived with his wife, the former Linda L. Parnacott, in Findlay. He also leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sterner of Beach City.

Cambodian leaders shrug off corruption charges

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)— Opposition leader In Tam reports that President Lon Nol laughed off American concern with corruption in the Cambodian army and abuse of aid funds, saying U.S. officials even encourage it.

The issue was raised in December by Information Minister Kheam Reth, who told a news conference the army had been paying senior officers as much as $2 million a month for 100,000 soldiers who existed only on paper.

U.S. congressmen have been demanding an investigation.

In Tam, 50, resigned Saturday as Lon Nol's special counselor for national reunification after 16 days on the job, saying he had not been given enough authority.

He said in an interview that he approached the president and demanded he do something about corruption within the civilian administration and military establishment. Lon Nol laughed and said there was nothing to worry about, In Tam continued.

"He told me the Americans weren't going to do anything about it. He said even the U.S. senators who visited Cambodia recently said the corruption was no more unusual than anywhere else and that they said the Americans were even encouraging it."

The four senators came Feb. 16 as an investigative panel of the Senate Appropriations Committee. They stayed less than 24 hours and met only with government and U.S. Embassy officials.

Before leaving, the leader of the team, Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, told reporters: "We Americans have a tendency to look too much for corruption in foreign countries when we should look into our own backyard. Much of it they probably learned from us."

Pornography in trash

DETROIT (AP) — Tightened security precautions at Detroit Metropolitan Airport seem to be making the airport's garbage sexier.

Authorities say indulging passengers are apparently discarding their pornography rather than face the inquisitive glances of antiskyjack officials.

"I suppose people don't want the security guards to discover they have dirty books or magazines," an airport spokesman said.

The Federal Aviation Administration would have no reason to detain anyone carrying pornography, a spokesman said.

"We're looking for weapons or other law violations," he said. "Pornography is petty stuff."

Columbus youth dies of stab wounds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nicholas Kent, 18, of Columbus was stabbed to death Sunday at an east Columbus residence during what police said was an argument with another man over money.

Police are holding Alfonso Meadows, 19, of Columbus on a second-degree murder charge in connection with the stabbing.

Industrial commission chief under fire by newspaper

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Chairman M. Holland Krise of the Industrial Commission of Ohio has served 10 years on the commission despite complaints that his policies have helped industry at the expense of the working-man by allowing poor safety standards in Ohio, The Plain Dealer said today.

Krise, a Republican, denies the charges.

The newspaper said in a dispatch from Columbus that Krise's personal dealings also have come under attack.

It said the commission keeps no public minutes of its meetings and that commission orders for payment on Workmen's Compensation claims are often unsigned.

The commission under Krise's direction approves expenditures of about $40,000 a year for safety campaigns around Ohio, The Plain Dealer said. It added that according to records the commission has paid for many unitemized bills with public funds.

The newspaper said Krise has accepted executive discounts from General Motors Corp. on the purchase of appliances and cars. General Motors is the largest private employer in Ohio and the commission rules on hundreds of Workmen's Compensation cases involving GM, it continued.

Krise, who worked for General Motors until he was appointed to the commission in 1963, denies any wrongdoing in using the executive discounts. He noted he receives a GM pension and said he provides no special treatment to GM.

Among Krise's severest critics is Gov. John J. Gilligan, who recently ordered an investigation into possible influence peddling in the administration of the state's Workmen's Compensation law, The Plain Dealer said.

Man leaves law practice to be Vinton prosecutor

By H.J. CZERNIEJEWSKI
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The former chief of the Division of Criminal Activities in Ohio is leaving a successful law practice here to become prosecutor of the county with the smallest population in the state.

David Kessler has become the Vinton County prosecutor. He does not consider this a step down because it will give him a chance to do what he has always wanted—to practice law on his own.

"I think to practice law by yourself is going to be virtually impossible in the near future," Kessler said. An attorney in a large city has too many commitments and is forced into having law partners or associates," he said.

So he is slowly phasing out his law practice here and setting one up in McArthur. "I'll keep some of my clients here," he said.

Kessler is also drawn to the job in Vinton County because he likes the area. Camping trips and business have taken him there many times.

"I'm not unfamiliar with the area. I have clients there, too," he said.

Kessler first acted as attorney in Vinton County two years ago when he defended Oliver Mills, who was convicted of killing a sheriff. It was one of the most publicized trials in the county's history.

But most of Kessler's reputation is that of a prosecutor. While head of the criminal activities division under then Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, Kessler struck a heavy blow against organized crime in Ohio.

He served as an assistant prosecutor for Columbus and Franklin County before his post in the attorney general's office.

Kessler is not sure when he will move to Vinton County. He has been commuting there several days each week to work on the job.

His family is not unhappy with his eventual plans to move out of Columbus, he said.

"I wouldn't be doing it if they didn't want me to."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

A weak cold front, moving south past Ohio today will bring cool weather to the state through mid week.

Cloudy skies will accompany the cooler weather, bringing occasional light snow to the north and light snow mixed with rain briefly in the south. Highs this afternoon were forecast to range from the upper 20s to low 40s.

A weak high will move east through the Buckeye State Tuesday, bringing fair to partly-cloudy skies.

Temperatures Tuesday morning are forecast to dip to the upper teens and 20s. Highs in the afternoon will range from 30 to 40. Readings Wednesday afternoon will range from 35 to 45, near normal for late February.

Fair Wednesday. A chance of rain and warmer Thursday and Friday. Highs Wednesday from the mid 30s to mid 40s, warming to upper 40s and 50s Friday. Overnight lows 15 to 25 early Wednesday, moderating.

Small boy killed by land mine; IRA is blamed

BELFAST (AP) — Guerrillas ambushed a British army patrol in Belfast early today and wounded two soldiers. But an attempted ambush with a land mine in Londonderry killed a 10-year-old Roman Catholic boy instead.

The child, Gordon Gallagher, was the 732nd confirmed death in 3½ years of Ulster's communal warfare. The mine went off while he was playing with friends near his home and blew off both the child's legs.

Neighbors said the child either stepped on the mine or tripped a trigger wire leading to it. An Army spokesman said the device was intended for a military patrol.

The Irish Republican Army admitted planting the mine in the garden of the child's home but claimed its men were scared off before they activated it. The IRA said the British army was believed to have activated the mine. The army denied this, saying: "The terrorists cannot shift the blame."

Youths harass Cincy firemen

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police were called to assist firemen Sunday night when a crowd of youths began cursing and throwing rocks at firemen answering a call in suburban Avondale.

Fire Chief BertLugannani said the call was one of about 10 false alarms turned in during the night in the Avondale area.

He said no arrests were made during the incident. One fireman was struck by a rock but not seriously injured, he said.

Stock prices open lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices opened lower today as investors worried about rising interest rates and the prospect of a credit crunch.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down almost a point and declining issues took a broad lead over declines in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said Wall Street was concerned about the implications of the Federal Reserve's approval of a hike in the bank discount rate and boost in the bank prime rate over the weekend.

The government moves are viewed as attempts to combat inflation. But brokers said investors fear higher interest rates may lead to a tight money situation that could dampen the present business expansion.

On Friday, the Dow plunged 11.89 to 959.89, its lowest level since last Oct. 31, and declining issues on the Big Board outnumbered advances by more than 3-to-1.

Analysts attributed the decline to the battering the dollar took in foreign exchange markets as well as persistent investor uncertainty over domestic economic developments.

Active issues on the NYSE today included Digital Equipment, off 1 to 92, AT&T, up ⅛ to 51, and American General Insurance, up ⅛ to 17⅝.

Slate price hikes for Volkswagens

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. (AP) — Devaluation of the U.S. dollar is prompting a $140 increase in the price of Volkswagen Beetles sold in the United States, Volkswagen of America has announced.

The list price for a Beetle, which had been $2,059, will go up to $2,199, the firm said Sunday. Price increases throughout the VW line will average 7.2 per cent, it said. All models in the company's Porsche and Audi lines also will be affected, the announcement said.

The increase will apply to vehicles unloaded at U.S. ports beginning Sunday, with those currently in stock remaining at the old list price.

Irish election set Wednesday

DUBLIN (AP) — If Jack Lynch, a mild-mannered and retiring lawyer, loses Wednesday's general election, his job as prime minister of the Irish Republic will go to Liam Cosgrave, another mild-mannered and retiring lawyer.

Flamboyance counts for nothing in modern Irish politics. The Irish these days like to see themselves as sober, industrious and sensible people. And sobriety, industry and sensibility are the qualities they look for in their political leaders.

Cosgrave is 52 and the leader of Fine Gael, which literally means Tribe of Gaels and generally is translated as Irish Party. His party first took power after the partition of Ireland in 1922. But in the past 40 years it has held office for only six years, and then only at the head of coalition governments.

Cosgrave now is bidding for power again in coalition with Laborites led by Brendan Corish. Irish elections are hard to predict, but the professionals give the coalition a real chance of ousting Lynch's Fianna Fail, or Soldiers of Destiny.

Cosgrave, the son of a former prime minister, has all the right credentials for an Irish political leader.

His biggest personal interest, and that of his wife, is horses. They live at Naas in County Kildare, the heartland of the Irish bloodstock industry. They met on the rails at the races and are most often pictured at the hunt.

1st Skylab booster readied

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Saturn 1B rocket, which will orbit the first Skylab astronauts, was transported toward the launch pad today for lengthy tests leading to a May liftoff.

The 224-foot booster rode slowly to the pad upright on a large-tracked transporter called a crawler. The trip of 3½ miles from the assembly building was expected to take about six hours.

Perched atop the rocket is a modified Apollo spacecraft which is to carry astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Paul J. Weitz, and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin into space to link up with the huge Skylab, American's first space station.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans to launch the unmanned Skylab on May 14 and the astronauts on the following day. However, officials said these dates might change after results of a flight readiness test are known in late March.

NASA plans to move the Skylab and its Saturn 5 rocket to a launch pad in April.

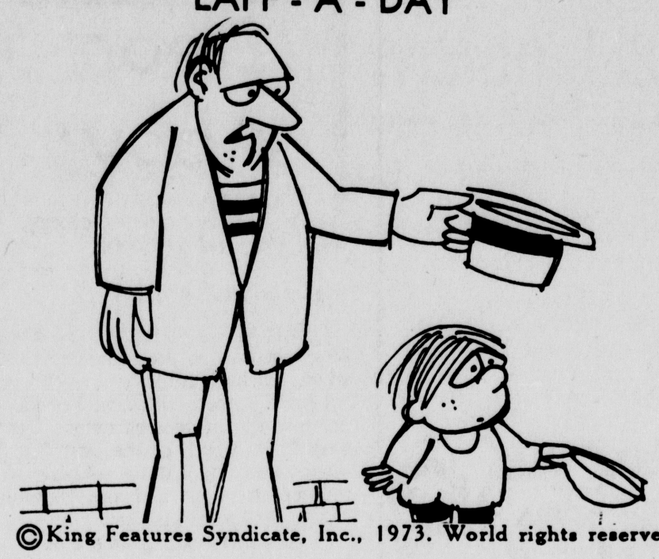

Conrad, Weitz and Kerwin are to remain in the orbiting lab for 28 days to conduct medical, scientific, earth resources and engineering experiments. Later in the year, two more three-man crews are to rocket up to the same Skylab. Each will remain aboard 56 days.

15 persons become victims of Ohio highway crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 21-year-old Ohio Highway Patrolman was among the 15 traffic deaths reported by the Highway Patrol during the weekend just ended.

Patrolman David L. Sterner was killed Sunday while pursuing a speeder on Ohio 15 southeast of Findlay. The speeder escaped.

The 15 deaths were more than have died on Ohio highways any weekend in the past month. A week ago 10 died.

The toll this weekend also included two double-death accidents, one near Millersburg Saturday and one near Sandusky Sunday.

The dead:

SATURDAY

HILLSBORO — Charles Waits, 26, rural Lynchburg, when his car ran off Ohio 134 in southwestern Highland County.

COLUMBUS — David L. Smith, 20, Columbus, when his car went out of control at a downtown intersection.

EVENDALE — Count B. Renders, 32, Evendale, in Hamilton County, when a truck in which he was a passenger failed to make a turn in the Cincinnati suburb.

MILLERSBURG — Mrs. Homer Bitikofer, 75, and Della Conkle, 4, both of Sugar Creek, in a car-truck accident at a Holmes County intersection south of Walnut Creek.

CINCINNATI — Daniel R. Hatfield, 17, when he lost control of his car and it turned over on Hamilton Avenue in suburban Hamilton County.

CLEVELAND — Joel Hendricks, 51, of Cleveland, hit by a car on Wade Park Avenue on the city's east side.

SUNDAY

SANDUSKY — David Kuhn, 24, of Tiffin, and James Wagstaff, 22, Sandusky, when their car ran off Ohio 4 and hit a tree near Sandusky.

CINCINNATI — John Nortman, 22, Cincinnati, in an accident in which three persons were injured when their car crashed in Cincinnati.

WILMINGTON — Sandra Williamson, 18, of rural Wilmington, when her car missed a curve in Wilmington and hit a utility pole.

BELLEFONTAINE — Julia Fry, 17, of Belle Center, when the car she was driving was struck by a train at a crossing on Ohio 274 northwest of Bellefontaine.

FINDLAY — Patrolman David L. Sterner, 21, of Beach City assigned at the Findlay Post of the Ohio Highway Patrol, in a two-car collision while in pursuit of another vehicle.

MOUNT VERNON—John Arnold, 25, of Danville, when his car crashed north of U. S. 36 on a Knox County road.

DAYTON — Gary F. Dorsten, 21, of Dayton, when the car in which he was riding and two others collided at a rural intersection in Montgomery County.

Cycle crash fatal

Man and wife slain in Union County

RICHWOOD, Ohio (AP) — Richwood police are continuing their investigation into the deaths of Donavon Laird, 68, and his wife, Sabra, 65, who were found stabbed to death in their home Saturday.

The Union County sheriff's office said the couple was killed sometime Thursday night or early Friday morning.

The Cuban possibility

Only a double-dyed optimist would extrapolate a resumption of normal U.S.-Cuban relations from the anti-hijacking agreement just reached by the two countries. Only a pessimist would assume that this agreement has done nothing to move Washington and Havana a bit closer together.

The salient factor at work here is that governments for the most part do not maintain relations with one another out of mutual love, or even on the basis of common ideological grounds. Diplomatic relations are a practical matter rooted in mutual interest.

The outstanding example of this in modern times is the relationship between the United States and the Soviet Union. This relationship has persisted since the 1930s despite the most profound ideological differences between the two governments, differences much exacerbated by the Cold War following World War II. Moscow and Washington have found it to be in their separate national interests to maintain ties of a sort through thick and thin.

It also is significant that our government is clearly bent on working out improved relations with Peking. There seems little doubt that in due time this dialogue will result in formal diplomatic representation.

In some ways Cuba is a special case. For one thing, it is a close neighbor, and Havana's efforts to infect other Latin American countries with its brand of revolution make it particularly offensive to Washington. One might argue, however, that both its nearness and its revolutionary tendencies are reasons not for remaining aloof but for developing relations. That would help us to keep a closer eye on events in Cuba.

Cuba cannot expect the entire initiative to come from the United States, but must show some inclination to change its attitudes. There is some reason to think the anti-hijacking pact may be a first move in that direction.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Kennedy mystique is no more

The most notable Washington phenomenon of the moment is a negative: Sen. Teddy Kennedy isn't offering to lead the congressional group that is trying to pin the label of dictator on President Nixon. His friend Sen. John Tunney has been far more voluble about the White House usurpation of power over spending.

Nor is Teddy Kennedy reacting in a churlish manner to the Vietnamese peace which, however shaky it may prove to be, is at least bringing the prisoners of war home at a faster clip than George McGovern promised. It is even a good bet that, out of deference to the anti-inflationists, Teddy will not try in this session of Congress to force the passage of his very expensive "total" health insurance scheme.

Whatever may be said about such controversial matters as Chap- political savvy. He knows that the legend of Camlot has come upon dark days. Books praising his martyred brother John F. Kennedy ("Johnny, We Hardly Knew Ye") still make the best-seller lists, by they have been encountering criticism even from liberal reviewers and columnists. (When a chronic Nixon-hater such as Garry Wills can turn up as a non-idolator of JFK it is quite a switch.)

AS FOR the newest Kennedy books, they are utterly disrespectful of the Kennedy image. A Bristish Washington journalist, Henry Fairlie, in a book bearing the two-edged title of "The Kennedy Promise," has criticized JFK for bringing wind without rain. Walt Rostow, who served John F. Kennedy loyally enough, has (see his "The Diffusion of Power") publicly questioned the Kennedy handling of the Laos "peace" negotiations in 1961, the implication being that it was stupidity about Laos that led to 45,000 U.S. casualties in Vietnam. And Nancy Gager Clinch, who has her own feminist bias, has had a thousnad tongues wagging over her "The Kennedy Neurosis," which portrays the Kennedy family (on the male side, at least) as power-driven to the point of obsession.

So the Kennedy mystique dies, or at least loses its potency for the moment. Teddy would have to be blind and deaf not to know it. The pendulum has swung way over, and there isn't much to do except to wait for it to swing back. To be available for 1976, Teddy must make a reputation in the Senate on his own, and this means that he can't afford to take the leadership of rapidly fading causes.

As for the new anti-Kennedy books, they make telling points in the middle of all their exaggerations. But they are not as "pioneering" as their authors obviously think. Timing is everything with books of this type.

If you really want to praise a man for pioneering the view that John F. Kennedy was more glitter than substance as a President, why not go back to Malcolm Smith Jr., whose eye-opening "Kennedy's 13 Great Mistakes in the White House" came out in 1968 and sank without a trace.

MR. SMITH, a one-time chairman of the Mutual Broadcasting System, said nothing mean about Jack Kennedy's personality, which he regarded as fresh, vigorous, charming, and witty. But, without indulging in personal criticism, Mr. Smith made it plain that such things as our complicity in the Diem ousting in Vietnam, the vacillation at the Bay of Pigs, the failure to stop the building of the Berlin Wall, the bogging down of the Alliance for Progress, the inability to keep de Gaulle from undermining NATO, and the slow-freight response to the mounting fury over civil rights, could hardly be regarded as constituting a great record of presidential achievement.

Poor Mr. Smith. I don't recall that his book got a single review. Today Henry Fairlie, Ms. (that's the way she wants it) Nancy Gager Clinch, and yes, David Halberstam (whose reporting from Vietnam played its own part in the Diem fiasco), are getting great kudos for devaluing the legend of "the best and the brightest" who dwelt in Camelot's towers.

The new iconoclasts have not really said anything new, so let me bring some belated justice to Malcolm Smith, who had the nerve to say things when it was not popular to say them.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Reagan's fabulous domain

SACRAMENTO — Sitting pretty describes the posture of the governor of this most-populous state in the Union. Ronald Reagan's evolution from those "B" pictures of long ago to a position in the Republican hierarchy at least third or fourth from the top is as miraculous as the evolution of Richard Nixon from the California loser of 1962 to his landslide re-election to the presidency.

Reagan takes a lordly view of his future. He will not run for re-election to a third term next year, although if conditions remain roughly as they are today he could almost certainly count on winning. The option of a challenge to Sen. Alan Cranston is open, but he is unlikely to take it.

Ronnie, as one of his friends puts it, doesn't think much of living in Washington as just another senator. A true Californian, the sun, the beaches, the relaxed life — they are the attractions along with all the "perks" of the governor's office and the largesse of his very rich friends.

LIVING in the White House in Washington, however, would be a different matter. And the option for 1976 is far from closed. After 1974, with imposing ambassador-at-large assignments from Nixon and speaking engagements around the country as the biggest draw at fund-raising dinners, he will have no difficulty keeping in the public eye.

Reagan currently is traveling around the state propagandizing a tax-reduction plan that will supposedly return a state surplus of $850 million. One of the governor's proposals is for a 10 per cent cut in state income tax. To forestall any opposition in the state legislature Reagan would incorporate the tax cut in the state's constitution, leading an initiative drive to put it on the ballot at the next election.

Needless to say, this glitters like gold for hard-pressed taxpayers. It reflects the tone of the Nixon Administration, with the President's slashing economies and his promise of no new taxes.

But those economies are already beginning to put a strain on the cities. With the cuts in health, welfare, child care, the whole gamut of social services, the cry is that the state and the localities must make up the deficit. With the Reagan economy drive that is obviously impossible.

THERE IS a kind of whiplash effect between Washington and Sacramento. A report circulates here that all the state mental hospitals would be closed and eventually over a period of years all the institutions for severely retarded children. Although the report may not reflect present official intention, it indicates the direction in which the state is moving.

The reason the mental hospitals can be closed not only here but around the country is the creation of community health centers with the aid of federal matching grants. They have provided care that permits the patient to live a more or less normal life outside an overcrowded and understaffed institution. This has meant that the snake pits of the past have been largely eliminated.

Now, however, if the community hospitals are to lose federal help at the same time that mental hospitals are all shut down, the result can be widespread human suffering and a severe strain on other local services. Matching federal and state economies can undermine a structure that has worked beneficially to ease the burdens of mental illness.

POLITICAL appeals tailored for the haves with the glitter of tax reduction may work in the short run. The haves and not merely the upper haves but the middle and even lower-middle haves are in revolt against the turn of the tax screw at the local, state and federal levels. The promise of relief, with the consequences conveniently obscured, has an undeniable appeal.

But what of the have-nots? The one-fourth to one-third who live near or below the poverty line? Are they to be condemned for the limitless future to live in an America with little or no relation to the affluence of sleek motorcars, luxury resorts, the charms of mountain and shore with which this state abounds?

The answers are not to be found either here or in Washington. With inflation the gap between the poor and the affluent is widening. What this may mean in social stability — in the curse of crime and violence — only a bold prophet would predict.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

His friend wants spirits-ual send-off

DEAR ABBY: Is there a law against what you can put in a person's casket when you bury him?

I have a good friend who made me promise that if he died before I did, I would get a fifth of the best bourbon money can buy, take a real big swig, replace the cap, and put the bottle beside him in the casket.

I told him I would gladly do this, but I need to know if there is a law against it in Michigan.

DETROIT NEEDS READER

DEAR READER: Any undertaker can tell you. And so can a Michigan lawyer. (I wonder what your friend has in mind? Spirits for the spirts, maybe?)

DEAR ABBY: Please do the country a big service by saying something about women who invite their friends to their homes and then try to sell them everything from jewelry to kitchenware to clothing. I attended four such parties in the last two weeks, all of which I tried to decline, but, my friends would not take no for an answer. They all said, "You don't have to BUY anything. Just come!" Once there, I am bombarded with the worst kind of high-pressure salesmanship, and I always end up buying something so as to not look cheap.

I hate to say I will come and then not show up. Will you please tell women how some of their friends feel about being taken advantage of in this manner?

ALL PARTIED OUT

DEAR PARTIED: Your problem is your inability to say NO. Some women appreciate being introduced to new products, this way, and they enjoy, the parties, too. If you don't, simply decline.

DEAR ABBY: Two girls I consider my closest friends have steady boy friends. (I don't have anyone special right now.)

Both of these girls have told me that they have had dreams about me in which I am the central character. They also say their boy friends are in these dreams, but they won't tell me how the dreams come out. I have asked them whether I am the hero or the villain, and they both reply, "It depends on how you look at it."

Do you think they consider me a friend or an enemy?

DREAMED ABOUT

DEAR DREAMED: That depends on how the dreams came out. You can be certain of one thing. They consider you a threat!

DEAR ABBY: I am so tired of hearing husbands and wives complain that their marriages fell apart because one or the other got fat. How ridiculous can some people get?

Louie and I have been married 13 years. I went from 110 to 186, and Louie went from 165 to 230, and it didn't harm our love life one bit. In fact, it's better than ever. One thing it did was to get rid of all the jealousy. Our marriege will last forever. Who'd want either one of us?

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Feb. 26, the 57th day of 1973. There are 308 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1561, an earthquake in Portugal killed tens of thousands of people and flattened much of Lisbon and other cities.

On this date:

In 1521, the Spanish governor of Puerto Rico, Ponce de Leon, sailed from San Juan on his second expedition to Florida.

In 1623, the Dutch massacred a group of English colonists in what is now Indonesia.

In 1802, one of the great figures in French literature, Victor Hugo, was born.

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte escaped from the island of Elba, his first place of exile.

In 1918, in World War I, German planes bombed Venice, Italy.

In 1952, it was announced that Britain had produced its own atomic bomb.

Ten years ago: U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche was assigned the task of trying to end fighting in the Middle Eastern country of Yemen.

Five years ago: North Vietnamese troops mauled a U.S. patrol outside the Khe Sanh base in South Vietnam.

One year ago: At least 116 persons were killed in a flood when a dam made of coal slag burst in West Virginia's Buffalo Creek Hollow after three days of heavy rain.

Today's birthdays: Entertainer Jackie Gleason is 57. Ohio Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr., is 56.

Thought for today: Let us never negotiate out of fear, but let us never fear to negotiate — President John F. Kennedy.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — News documentaries by local television stations tend to be the phantoms of broadcast journalism. Despite the work that goes in them, they usually appear just once and vanish for good.

Now, thanks to public television station WNET here, at least 10 award-winning documentaries from commercial television stations around the country are getting a second airing.

They've been compiled into a seven-week series of one-hour shows broadcast on Monday night. The series, called "Replay," unfortunately is seen only in the New York area.

It was completed too late for submission to the Public Broadcasting Service as part of PBS' national program schedule this season, according to WNET officials.

But they hope it may be included in PBS' schedule for next fall and include outstanding network, as well as local, documentaries.

Only two of the documentaries included in "Replay" are from New York stations: WNBC and WABC.

The others are from stations WCCO in Minneapolis, Minn.; WBZ in Boston, Mass.; KUTV in Salt Lake City, Utah; WRC in Washington, D.C.; WZZM in Grand Rapids, Mich.; WTJV in Miami, Fla.; WGN in Chicago and WMC in Memphis, Tenn.

The networks occasionally have broadcast local documentary programs, such as KUTV's memorable "Thou Shalt Not Kill" — a chilling prison interview with two men convicted of killing six persons. That show was broadcast by NBC last July.

But the "Replay" series may be the first time anyone has compiled the better documentaries as part of a regular series, according to Elie Abel, host of "Replay."

The idea for this was recommended two years ago in the annual Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University survey of broadcast journalism, said Abel, dean of Columbia's graduate journalism school and an NBC correspondent for nine years.

He said a panel on which he served noted in the survey that "a great many worthwhile documentaries were being made and shown throughout the country and not getting any kind of New York or national circulation.

"The panel recommended that public television ought to recycle some of these documentaries and show them here."

He said he'd like to see them broadcast nationally by PBS "because I think they would be of national interest."

The subject range in "Replay" is wide. The first show, aired last Monday, featured a KUTV essay on the quiet anger of a Goshute Indian tribal leader trying to better the life of his people.

The show's second segment, "Grunt's Little War," was filmed by a WCCO team in Vietnam in October 1969. It was a close-up look at the way eight Minnesota Marines and GIs — all in rifle companies — viewed what they and their nation were doing in Vietnam.

Subsequent shows deal with violence in America, sickle cell anemia, drug rehabilitation for middle-class white youths, to list a few.

Energy management meeting scheduled

"Energy Management" will be the theme of the Dayton Power and Light Co. special program to be held at the Terrace Lounge Wednesday, Feb. 28, at noon. Architects, engineers, contractors, and commercial and industrial users are invited to attend.

The 15-minute presentation will discuss ways of getting the most out of the heat energy dollar including methods of heat and energy conservation, discussion of values and benefits of insulation and all aspects of a well designed electric heating system.

Pentagon Papers prosecution rests

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The government called a defense allegation bunk and a defense attorney labeled the government case sloppy as the defense sought acquittal of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo in the Pentagon papers trial.

After six hours of arguments Friday, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Matt Byrne took the motion for acquittal under advisement and said he would rule on it late Monday or early Tuesday, before the defense case begins.

Russo's attorney, Leonard Weinglass, is set to deliver his opening statement to jurors on Tuesday after the government attempts to submit fingerprint evidence. The government rested with this provision on Thursday after testimony from only 10 witnesses.

The last time he called long distance he was sitting on the edge of his chair.

We know that calling long distance can make you a little nervous.

Because you worry about keeping the call short. Because you're worried about the cost.

Well, by following a few simple rules, you can keep long distance costs down. Down so low that a 10-minute long distance call to anywhere in the United States (except Alaska and Hawaii) won't cost more than $2.60, plus tax.

Just dial long distance calls yourself, without operator assistance. And make your calls between 5 and 11 P.M., Sunday through Friday. (Rates are even lower after 11 P.M. and on weekends.)

That's all it takes to have inexpensive long distance calls. And if you know the cost is low, you'll stay more relaxed when you call.

Instead of sitting on the edge of your chair.

Some typical costs for 10-minute self-dialed station calls, placed between 5 and 11 P.M., Sunday through Friday, are: Seattle, $2.60; Los Angeles, $2.60; Dallas, $2.10; Atlanta, $2.00; Boston, $2.05; New York, $2.00; St. Louis, $2.00; Las Vegas, $2.50; Louisville, $1.60; and Denver, $2.10.

All rates plus tax.

Couple wed in Mount Sterling

Miss Kathy Jo Lunsford became the bride of J. B. Detty in her parents' home Feb. 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Lunsford, of Mount Sterling, are parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Vern Detty, Rt. 5, are parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Kenny Bogard performed the wedding ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Lunsford wore a formal length gown with floral trim. Her veil was held by a crown of pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of roses and babies' breath.

Miss Lynette Anderson was the bridesmaid and Delmar Lowe the best man.

Mrs. Lunsford wore a navy dress with a corsage of rosebuds and carnations. The groom's mother wore a blue suit with corsage of roses and carnations.

The couple went to Nashville, Tenn., for a wedding trip. They will reside at Plumwood Trailer Park, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling.

The new bride attended Miami Trace and Madison Plains high schools. Her husband was graduated from MTHS.

Square dance attracts many

Cal Golden "called" for the square dance held in Eastside School gymnasium Friday evening for 111 dancers. The Jud-I-Ques were host to the event.

Square dancer groups present were the local Shooting Stars; Tomato Town Promenaders, of Reynoldsburg; Wheelers 969, of Columbus; Cross Trailers, of Chillicothe; Wagon Wheelers, of Jackson; Washington Squares, of Bellbrook; Bloomin' Buckeyes, of Newark; Belles and Beaus, of Chillicothe; Pike Promenaders, of Piketon; Do-Si-Dos, of Columbus; Square Wheelers, of Whitehall; Circle 8ers, of Columbus; and a group from Wakefield.

Many guests came to observe during the evening.

Couple honored on anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Josef Louis were pleasantly surprised Sunday when their daughter, Miss Lisa Louis, gave a surprise dinner in observance of their 33rd wedding anniversary. Assisting her were the Misses Linda Sheaffer and Miss Brenda Allman.

The table was beautifully decorated for the occasion and a cake was the center of attraction.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Bonecutter, of Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Strayer, of Ironton; Dr. and Mrs. John Louis and son, David, Mrs. Mabel Louis and Mrs. Annabel Ater.

World Day of Prayer planned for Friday

Fayette County Church Women United will observe World Day of Prayer at 1:30 p.m. Friday in First Baptist Church.

The World Day of Prayer is considered the most important ecumenical occasion during the year. Women in 168 countries will offer prayers on theme "Alert in our Times."

Mrs. Elmer Burrall is general chairman and Mrs. Charles Hurtt is president of CWU. Miss Jerri Bomgarner, pastor of the Church of God, will be guest speaker for the afternoon.

A double trio of Cecilians will sing "When Children Sing" and "I Heard a Forest Praying." Members of the group are Mrs. Lloyd Fenning, Mrs. Edwin Thompson, Mrs. Maurice Hopkins, Mrs. Gerald Wheat, Mrs. Milbourne Flee and Miss Verna Williams. Mrs. Don Schwaigert will be the accompanist.

Baptist women will be the ushers. All women of Fayette County, Washington C.H. and area churches are cordially invited to attend the service.

The theme of the 1973 prayer observance "Alert in Our Time" expresses the intention of women to be aware of the crucial needs in the world and to be agents of God's reconciling love in those areas. The CWU in the United States will translate the prayers into action through three areas of concern: health services, seeking ways of cooperating with professionals to deliver adequate health care to all persons; creating new life lines for inter-action with the rapidly growing community of Asian Americans in this country; and becoming alert to world trade problems.

Class committees named for dinner

A dinner honoring members of the Golden Rule and Good Cheer classes was planned at the meeting of the Young Adult Class of the New Holland United Methodist Church. The dinner will be served at 5 p.m. March 29 in the church basement.

Committees appointed for the event by Mrs. Rodney Miller, president, are Mrs. Gary Kirkpatrick, invitations and reservations; Mrs. Don Conrad, Mrs. Herbert Coil, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Richard Sommers and Mrs. Harold Thompson, kitchen; Mrs. Larry Elliott, Mrs. Robert Bishop and Mrs. Eddie Conrad, dining room; Harold Thompson, Miller and Elliott, entertainment. The dishwashing committee chairman is Coil and Somers heads the transportation.

A report of the weekend retreat at the Lancaster campground by class members noted that much knowledge was gained from Mrs. Arlene Crumbley and Carl Pyle, guest speakers.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Don Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Coil, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. Somers.

The class voted to continue paying $20 per month for church utilities and to purchase a new table for the nursery classroom. The class is also investigating what repair is needed on the stained glass windows of the church.

Following a potluck supper, Larry Russell, respiratory therapist at Fayette Memorial Hospital, discussed the respiratory diseases and told what may be done by early detection and proper treatment.

The committee for the affair was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Frantz and Mr. and Mrs. Errol Black.

The March committee will include Mrs. Walter Helsel, nursery and Mr. and Mrs. Don Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Elliott, program.

Mrs. Miller read the poem "Something to Think About" and the meeting was closed by all forming the Friendship Circle and singing "Blest Be the Tie."

Amaryllis show planned in Mansfield

The Kingwood Center greenhouses, at Mansfield, Ohio, will be featuring the finest display of amaryllis in the midwest during the next few weeks. Amaryllis breeding is an important part of the research work currently in progress at Kingwood. The work has greatly improved the plant over the varieties commonly imported from Holland, inasmuch as the special objectives have been to develop better colors, especially in the pink and white range. A number of improved red and orange varieties have also been developed. Other improvements include a better proportioned flower stalk and more attractive foliage.

The amaryllis, a native of South Africa, has been popular for many years with experienced gardeners as a flowering houseplant. The huge, exotic, lily-like flowers, borne on 24-inch stalks, in shades of pink, salmon, red, orange, and white, are an excellent example of dedicated work by plant breeders in various parts of the world.

In addition to the amaryllis, there are fine displays of many interesting and beautiful plant materials in the Kingwood greenhouses. While at Kingwood, the visitor should take the opportunity to see the Indoor Light Garden, which demonstrates methods and materials used for growing plants indoors, entirely under artificial light. In recent years, Indoor Light Gardening has become the fastest growing phase of the garden hobby in America.

The Kingwood Greenhouses and Indoor Light Garden are open from 8 a.m. to sunset. Kingwood is located in the western part of the city of Mansfield, Ohio. It is easily reached by I-71, U.S. 30, and Ohio Route 13.

BETH CROSBY

BRAD KING

Seniors of week

By ROBIN BRIGGS

Our first featured senior this week is Beth Crosby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crosby, 8 Hali Drive. She has a brother, Brad.

Beth's subjects include American Government, home economics for non-majors, art, English composition and English 12. She is a member of AFS, Senior Y-Teens and the Sunburst staff. She also serves as treasurer of Future Teachers of America and is a track statistician.

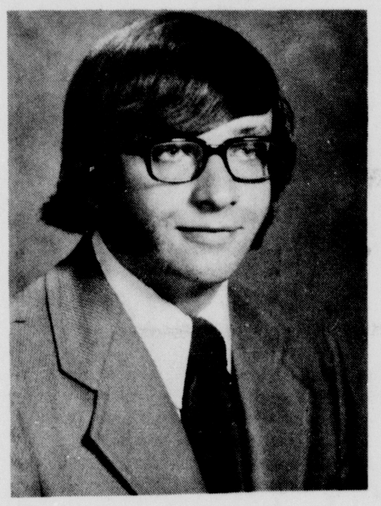

Some of Beth's hobbies are swimming, horseback riding, riding around and sports.

HER COMMENT on being a senior is, "I've enjoyed my years at WSHS, but I'm anxiously awaiting graduation."

Brad King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertrem King, 1013 Golfview Drive, is the second featured senior this week.

This year Brad is taking American Government, English 12, Typing I, ROTC III, English Composition, Geometry and physical education. His hobbies include reading and having a good time.

His comment on being a senior was, "I've had some real weird and wild times. I think that I will miss high school a little, but I'm sure I'll get into something in the near future."

JOHN MORRIS

DE student of week

By ROBIN BRIGGS

The featured Distributive Education student this week is John Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morris, 718 McArthur Way. John has a sister, Janet.

In school, John is taking American Government, Business Law and DE. He works at Ohio Bell Telephone Co. under the DE program.

John's activities include Hi-Y, DECA II, AFS and Student Council. In his spare time, John likes to mess around and work with cars.

His comment on WSHS was, "My years at WSHS have really been great. I've enjoyed it and I'm going to hate to go, but I would like to wish the best of luck to the underclassmen."

Opinion poll

How do you feel about the end of the war and the return of the POWs?

Tonda Harperree — "I don't like it because I wanted to fight, but I guess it's for the best."

Doug Rudduck — "It won't work."

Jill Williams — "It's about time and I just hope it works."

Jeff Willis — "I'm glad it's over with and I think it should have been over a long time ago and the POWs should have had an immediate return instead of a delay."

David Ellis — "I'm glad the POW's are coming back. I think the cease-fire could have been more complete."

Jim Vess — "It's about time."

Jim Yahn — "I think it's great and I hope they all get back."

Bundit Kanyavongha — "I am very glad about the end of the war. I think the people in both North and South Vietnam and the families of the POW's will be happy too."

Debbie Osborne — "I think it's great because it might be someone's only son and the won't have a chance of being killed.

Joyce Bollender — "I am glad that it's over and the boys are coming home."

Becki Cannon — "I think it's great. It has taken a lot of hard work, and I hope we can make it last."

An editorial

By ROBIN BRIGGS

Recently I had the pleasure along with other editors from Logan Elm, Teays Valley and Circleville high schools to attend the press conference of Rear Admiral Emeett H. Tidd at the Center for Tomorrow on the Ohio State University campus.

Admiral Tidd is commander of the U.S. Navy Recruiting Command. We were escorted by Dave Glaser, the area recruiter.

At the conference, Admiral Tidd talked about the recent signing of Vietnam peace treaty and how it affected the Navy. He also stressed "Zero Draft" or an all-volunteer force that the Navy is now operating on. This gives many more career opportunities. After his speech, questions were asked by those in attendance.

SOME QUESTIONS were about the problem of racial flareups. He said there was no great problem. Of the 600,000 enlisted in the Navy, less than 200 have had racial problems and the causes are always corrected.

When asked how the Navy would stay in Vietnam, he commented that the 7th Fleet would be stationed near the coast.

Admiral Tidd said is no major problem with drugs in the Navy and what problem exists is now being corrected and officials are pleased with the declining rate.

He also stressed the opportunity for women in the Navy. There are only 5,000 recruits and 31,000 jobs to offer women.

Some people do fine without the Payroll Savings Plan.

It depends on your dreams. If all they need to come true is a dime here and a quarter there, you'll do fine with a sturdy piggy bank.

But if you've got some bigger plans, like a vacation, college tuition for the kids, or a new car, you need something more.

You need a savings program that delivers steady growth and healthy interest.

You need the Payroll Savings Plan. Just sign up for it at work. Then an amount you specify is automatically set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

You can use your take-home pay for daily expenses. And at the same time you'll be building funds for the future.

U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. For people with big dreams.

Mastics plans bill against big utility rate boosts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. George E. Mastics, R-3 Cleveland planned to introduce a bill this week that would make it more difficult for the state's public utilities to get approval of rate increases.

Mastics contended that the bill would save Ohioans millions of dollars a year on phone, gas and electric bills, if it is passed.

According to Mastics the measure would do away with the Public Utilities Commission's so-called RCN (reconstruction cost new) formula. That formula would be replaced with a rate base calculated on the original cost of a utility's property.

Under the RCN formula, a utility is permitted to base its cost of doing business in part on the amount it would cost today to replace its capital plant.

The RCN formula always gives a much higher replacement figure, because it would cost a lot more to build a new plant today than when it was constructed, according to Mastics.

He said practically every state has shifted to the original cost rate base formula. So have the Federal Communications and Federal Power commissions.

Mastics has been involved as an opponent in recent rate cases of Ohio Bell Telephone Co., Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., and East Ohio Gas Co. He claimed to have been successful in eliminating $40 million from their demands in the PUCO, but said fighting the utilities is a tough business.

"The most powerful lobby in Columbus is the utility lobby, and they will undoubtedly use all of their resources to defeat my bill," he said. "However, because of the recent rate applications by many utilities throughout Ohio, I have been assured of help from political leaders throughout the state."

The Cleveland Republican also expressed concern over what he called "recent public statements" by Henry W. Eckhart, chairman of the PUCO.

Mastic said those statements indicated Eckhart's "apparent concern over the welfare of the utilities and little regard for the interest of the consuming public."

He quoted Eckhart as having said in a speech Nov. 9 in New York that Ohio utilities "have enjoyed considerable financial success in the past, and I assure you that you that I share your concern that they continue to enjoy this success in the future."

3 children are drowned in icy lake

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — An 11-year-old girl was rescued, but three of her companions, aged 6 to 10, drowned at Schoonover Lake in northeast Lima Sunday afternoon.

The girl, Donna Hill, was pulled from the lake by firemen as she held on to ice. She was treated at a local hospital for shock.

The dead children were identified as the girl's brother, Christopher, 6, Kathereen Williams, 10, and Timothy Monroe, 6.

Donna told police later that she and the other children were hiking in the woods on the east side of the lake and decided to take a short cut across the lake.

She said that they came within 20 feet of the opposite bank when Timothy fell through the ice. Christopher tried to help the boy but fell through also, she said.

The girl said she and Kathereen fell through the ice when they tried to go to the aid of the two boys.

A witness to the incident, Mrs. Delpha McDonald, said she was standing on a nearby bridge when the children fell. She said she could not find a stick long enough to help them, so she ran for help.

She succeeded in finding a man who called for help. A policeman, who arrived on the scene first, said he threw a rope to Donna but it was not long enough.

Firemen arrived and threw a rope to the girl, then one fireman went out on a ladder to rescue her.

The bodies of the three death children were located in about eight feet of water a short time later.

Fewer wildcat strikes seen in nation's coal industry

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The new rank-and-file administration of the United Mine Workers union is working toward a stabilization of the coal industry's labor climate that could give both industry and union an economic boost.

The industry, during the troubled UMW administration of W. A. "Tony" Boyle, was plagued with wildcat strikes that cut productivity and sent costs soaring. In 1969, for instance, wildcat strikes cut production by an estimated 20 million tons.

Miners walked out in defiance of their union over local grievances supposedly covered in contract grievance procedures. The strikers often complained more about the lack of backing from their union in grievances than they did about the grievance itself.

Now, union president Arnold Miller is urging his men to stay on the job and work out their differences.

"I want to state that the International union is going to do everything in its power to back you up on grievances," Miller says in a statement in the Feb. 15 UMW Journal. "In the past, district and International officers clearly did not back men up on some occasions."

"Some of the wildcat strikes could be prevented if we know about the problem before action is taken."

Industry officials and stock market analysts earlier this year were cautiously hinting that Miller could stabilize the industry and improve the industry's economic picture.

"If Miller turns out to be a strong union leader," one market analyst said, "it will probably mean a rise in productivity if for no other reason than that there will be less factions in the union and less scattered walkouts."

An end to the sporadic shutdowns would also benefit the union. The UMW Welfare and Retirement Fund is bankrolled with royalties paid by the coal companies for each ton of coal mined; when no coal is mined there is no money going into the fund.

Widen recall of packed mushrooms

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Canning Corp. has expanded the recall of its canned mushrooms because a botulism toxin was found in one lot.

The Food and Drug Administration Sunday said the recall now includes all large institutional-size cans—which are not ordinarily sold for home use—produced by the company at its East Palestine, Ohio, plant since Sept. 4, 1972.

Botulism is a food poisoning. The toxin involved is relatively low in potency and identified easily by a strong smell, the FDA said. The products involved in the recall have not been implicated in any known injury to consumers, the agency said.

Two previous recalls were announced after a Type B botulism toxin was found in two lots. The products

Street, road crews schedule projects

Street patching, crack-sealing and brush cutting are on the agenda this week for street, road and highway crews in Fayette County.

Gene Fitzpatric, Fayette County superintendent of the Ohio Department of Highways, said crews will be sealing cracks on U.S. 35-N and on Ohio 729.

State crews also will be cutting trees throughout the county. Other work includes picking up trash in parks, chipping stumps and brush, and repairing the berm on Ohio 734.

Fitzpatric said a patching crew will be working today on the Creek Road bridge.

County Engineer Charles P. Wagner said county crews will be working on drainage projects on the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road and on the Eyman Road. Tree-cutting is planned in Paint and Jefferson townships, and berms are to be cleaned throughout the county. Machinery repair at the county garage is also on this week's schedule.

City street crews, under Acting Superintendent Bill Duncan, will be cleaning and sweeping the streets and patching streets and alleys.

Polygamists stress 'heavenly marriages'

By WAYNE SALTER
Associated Press Writer

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The unconventional religious sects of rural Appalachia include a loosly-knit band of Christian polygamists who praise Jesus and decry the corruptive nature of man-made law on the spirit of marriage.

The practice, involving only a small number of the region's Holiness church people, is rooted in the belief that God's law and man's law are immutably separate.

"There was marriage when God made man and woman," said one believer who lives with a Holiness family which includes himself and at least two "wives."

"They were there to love one another, but then came man's corruption. Man set up laws that you can't be decent without a license. He set it all up for the almighty dollar.

"It's nothing more than a bondage law to keep you under bondage, but God arrived to set me free."

Unlike the "carnal minded" who take sexual partners outside the church, holy polygamists see themselves involved in a highly spiritual activity.

They view blood tests and marriage licenses as secular infringements by businessmen who "covet the greenback dollar." Blackrobed judges can oversee traffic violations and robbery cases, they say, but only God can make the rules of marriage.

"Moses questioned God about marriages," a polygamist explained. "God said in the beginning it was not so and in the kingdom it is not so...and in the coming of the Son of Man there will be no more marriages and given in marriages."

One researcher was told by an ex-polygamist of one form in which members make "much of the distinction between marriages made in the world and marriages made in heaven. If a married man talks to a married woman who is not his wife, and both feel the power of the Holy Ghost, they will leave their spouses and start a new 'marriage' which they believe has been made in heaven.

"After the heavenly bliss has worn off, they will return to their spouses to resume what they call their 'marriages made in the world'."

Because there may be no more than two or three dozen widely scattered polygamous bands of Holiness people within West Virginia, they attend workship services in the living rooms or church buildings of more conventional Christians.

Polygamy among poor Appalachian Holiness people is a curious twist in the area of religious hedonism.

The wildly uninhibited ceremonies of the Holiness church give members an arm-slinging afternoon which is a release from problems and frustrations.

It is a form that originated in Europe religious dissent and developed in the great Kentucky Revival of 1800 to 1803 as a way of briefly escaping the problems of illness and death, economic insecurity and loss of pride.

Just as snake handlers have added a death-defying element to their worship, polygamists use religion to assuage guilt and sanctify a previously forbidden act of reckless hedonism, sociologists explain.

Participants say they enter into their relationship with a "spiritual" and not a "carnal" mind. This way of thinking, which produces "babies made in heaven" rather than babies made on earth, is all important to the sect.

A particularly zealous believer, often the "father" of a polygamous family, may extoll the virtues of he practice to others in a church congregation and urge them to break the chains of "man's corruptible laws."

"I know this may sound strange," said the believer, glancing at his wives, "but lots of things have been made for man's use and benefit and he's been taught it's not Christian to use them. Well, I know how. God's showed me how."

Man dies in jail

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 22-year-old Columbus man, Robert Haynes, died of an apparent heart attack in the Franklin County jail Saturday.

Carcass show Wednesday at Producers

The Fayette County Pork Producers Association will sponsor the winter carcass show Wednesday, according to Ron Rockhold, show chairman.

The on-foot evaluation will take place at Producers Livestock Yards at 7 p.m.

The show is open to any Fayette County pork producer 10 years of age or older. Entries are restricted to one barrow per exhibitor. All barrows must weigh between 200 and 230 pounds.

Rockhold said that all barrows will be slaughtered at Eckert Packing Co., Troy. Final placings will be based on percentage of ham, loin and should weight of chilled carcass.

The directors, meeting recently in the Chamber of Commerce office, discussed the membership drive for the Ohio Pork Producer's Council. It was decided that directors in each township will make a concentrated effort to sign up pork producers who did not join in 1972.

The 1973 standing committees were appointed. Committee chairmen are : Buckeye Barrow Show, Clark Coe; pork promotion, Wayne Hidy; research and education, Bob Taylor; Legislation, Mell Wickensimer; health, Dr. R.D. Little; youth promotion, Roger Donohoe and Ron Warner; County Market Hog Show, Charles Wehner and Jerry Hoppes; banquet, Hugh Wilson; pork concession stand, Richard Wood and Martin Smith; Winter Carcass Show, David Owens, and tour, Marvin Waddle and Harry Craig.

John Gruber, county Extension agent, agriculture, asked the directors to give ideas for future swine educational meetings.

The next meeting will be held after the pork carcass results dinner at the Terrace Lounge on March 7.

While billions of auto trips are made every year, surveys indicate that 54 per cent are less than five miles and nearly three-quarters are less than 10 miles.

Move to halt immigration to Oregon fails; laws eyed

By ED GROSSWILER
Associated Press Writer

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Gov. Tom McCall admits his efforts to halt immigration into Oregon have failed. That being so, the governor is now trying to make sure the inevitable population growth is controlled.

His weapons: laws dealing with land use, and appeals to would-be visitors to skip Oregon for other places.

"Growth is inevitable," McCall said. "We must make sure it is responsible growth."

Oregon now has 2.2 million people, a gain of 92,000 since the 1970 census. Almost two-thirds of the growth in this decade came in the form of immigration from other states.

"It's just a matter of time before we're swamped," the governor said, pointing to the rate of 125 new residents per day.

That doesn't match the 1,000 residents per day that went to California in the 1960s, but California's population is almost 10 times that of Oregon.

"Oregon's leadership in fighting pollution with the emphasis on livability has made the state an appealing place to settle," McCall said.

"The better job we do the more people want to come — that's the irony of it."

The governor says a comprehensive land-use planning bill is one of his top legislative priorities this year.

"We're trying to change the pattern of growth to ease the burden on the central coast, the Willamette Valley and the metropolitan Portland area," McCall said.

The proposed legislation has had several public hearings and is meeting stiff resistance from persons opposed to state planning and zoning guidelines.

McCall has been the leading official spokesman in recent years for principles of the James G. Blaine Society, a largely mythical organization devoted to keeping Oregon for Oregonians.

The governor attracted national attention with his standard welcome for out-of-state visitors to Oregon:

"Please come and visit us in Oregon again and again, but for heaven's sake don't come to live here."

'Diet steaks' developed by Aussies

BOSTON (AP) — People on low fat, low cholesterol diets may be putting juicy steaks, butter and whole milk products back onto their plates now that Australian researchers have figured out how to lower the saturated fat content of these foods.

Researchers at Australian National University say they have shown that the fat and cholesterol levels in the blood of humans can be lowered by feeding them meat and dairy products from specially fed cattle and sheep.

Reporting in this week's New England Journal of Medicine, the researchers said they can prevent the transformation of the polyunsaturated vegetable fats of seed oil into animal fats by coating the feed grain with formaldehyde-treated casein, a milk and cheese protein.

Eating the special feed increases the ratio of polyunsaturated to saturated fat in the animals ten times over that of cattle fed regular, untreated grass and oats, they said.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Your innate aggressiveness will prove an advantage in conducting day's negotiations. Don't go overboard and alienate associates, however.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Your career, ambitions and standing with business associates are highlighted now, and your feeling of optimism will be justified by events.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

A day in which to get your house in order. Check your files, correspondence, agreements. Keep your ultimate aims and goals in mind, and refuse to be rushed by anyone.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Mixed influences. Avoid overoptimism. Too rosy an outlook could cause you to overlook small but vital details. The p.m. brings news from afar.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Let certain situations ride now. Forcing issues will do more harm than good. By demonstration, you can let others know that your ideas are practical.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Ups and downs in mood now. You'll be pessimistic about getting certain information; delighted when you do . . . low in spirit over unexpected changes; happy when their ultimate benefits are revealed.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Creative interests stimulated. Your ideas are not only inspirational but highly feasible. Also favored: Romance and family concerns.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You may be concerned about the "whys and wherefores" of certain events. Insights ARE available, but you'll need the help and knowledge of a close associate to attain them.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

A brand new financial start indicated — accompanied by high hopes, which CAN be realized. You MUST take the initiative, however — and confidently.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Follow up a potentially good tip you once brushed aside — but not impulsively or unprepared. For best results, you MUST have a definite plan.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

You may be attracted to an individual who seems aloof, indifferent. Making a gesture of friendship could prove to be an important move in changing the situation.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Permit others to "be themselves." The Piscean rarely tries to dominate, but such inclinations prevail now. Be especially receptive to ideas from your mate or business associates.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a high order of intelligence and a great love of beauty. You make friends easily, and usually keep them for life. You are extremely versatile but this very fact could make you vacillate when it comes to choosing a career. Once having found your niche, however, and properly training for it, there is no plateau of attainment which you cannot reach — especially in the fields of music, writing, the theater or education. Like many other Pisceans, you may be attracted to the law and politics but it would be well to eschew these fields since you are too emotional and have too many prejudices. Traits to curb: Self-indulgence and too great a craving for luxuries.

Hobart Co. reports record sales, earnings

TROY, Ohio (AP) — Record sales and earnings for 1972 were reported by the Hobart Manufacturing Co. Friday.

The company said it had net sales of $267 million, an 11 per cent increase over 1971, and net earnings of $17.9 million, or $1.59 a share, compared with 1971 figures of $14.6 million and $1.30 per share.

Ohio Perspective

PUCO chief losing energy battle

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — His 62-year-old mother sets the thermostat on her gas furnace too high, and his wife and children don't turn off lights in their home.

For Henry W. Eckhart, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, his family points up the problem of convincing consumers that an energy crisis exists in Ohio.

"My mother sets the thermostat at 78 degrees," says Eckhart, whose agency oversees the operation of gas and electricity utility companies in the state. "It's not good for her health, and it's a waste of natural resources.

"My family sees me on television telling people to save energy by turning out lights, and they sit at home watching with practically every light on in the house."

The commission chairman lamented, "I can't even educate my mother and my family."

He added, "Some people say nobody is going to understand this energy crisis until we have a blackout. But I hope that it doesn't have to happen."

Marvin E. White, vice president for Columbia Gas Co. in Columbus is one of those people. He said it may take a "minor crisis" to get the message of an energy shortage to the consumer.

"In the so-called land of plenty," White said, "the consumer won't try to conserve energy.

"It's difficult to get the average consumer interested in saving gas. It may take a minor disaster to get him interested."

As an example of a minor crisis, White said, "A very severe cutback in natural gas to industrial users could cause unemployment. When that time comes, the employe out of work might go home and start patching up his home against the cold.

Lions, MT gain sectional finals

DOMENICO SCORES — Washington C. H. forward Mike Domenico (55) muscles his way inside to score a bucket in fourth quarter action of the Washington C. H.-Marysville game in the Class AA sectional tournament Saturday at Westland. The 6-foot-1 senior came off the bench in the fourth quarter and scored four points in less than a minute and a half to insure the 57-53 win.

Highly-touted Ready next on WCH's chart

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Ohio's fifth-ranked Class AA basketball power now appears on Washington C.H.'s sectional tournament worksheet.

The rascally Blue Lions earned a shot at Columbus Bishop Ready, ranked fifth in the final Associated Press high school basketball poll by ushering Marysville to the sidelines with a 57-53 win Saturday afternoon in the Central District Class AA sectional basketball tournament at Westland High School.

Head coach Gary Shaffer's Lions will struggle with Ready (16-3) at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Westland gym with the survivor winning a ticket to the district tournament which will be held at the Fairgrounds Coliseum. Ready, the defending Class AA state champion, topped Grandview 62-54 Friday.

WASHINGTON C.H., suffering a chilly shooting hand, erased a five-point third period deficit by outscoring Marysville 18-9 in the final frame to grab the slender victory margin. It was Marysville's ninth loss on the road.

The Lions, who pumped their all-games record to 10-8 and snapped a two-game nosedive, were caught flat-footed in the third quarter when Marysville surged back from a 31-26 halftime deficit, but Washington C.H. turned in some late heroics to notch the win.

Coach John Haschak's Monarchs, who completed the season with a 10-9 record, scored four straight buckets in the opening minutes of the third period to capture their first lead of the game 32-31 with 5:13 left.

Marysville held the upper hand and the game was close until junior pivotman Jeff Wallace hit a short jump shot for Washington C.H. to make the score 49-48 with 2:15 left to play.

Then some late fireworks by husky senior Mike Domenico foiled Marysville's win bid. The 6-foot-1 forward came off the bench to score four points in less than a minute and a half as the Lions spurted to a pair of three-point margins. Smooth-shooting senior Chuck Bath added a pair of free throws with three seconds left to ice the win as the Lions withstood a spirited Monarch surge.

ACTUALLY IT was Washington C.H.'s free throw shooting which provided the victory margin as Marysville held the upper hand in the field goal ledgers, 22-21. The Lions canned 15 of 23 charity attempts, while Marysville connected on nine of 15.

Otherwise, the statistics were nearly even. Washington C.H. hit 33 per cent from the field on 21 of 64 shots while the Monarchs made good on only 21 of 78 chances from the floor. The Union Countians held a slight rebounding edge (43-42), while the Lions turned the ball over nine times, once more than their foes.

Kenny Knisley, a 6-foot-3 junior who fit nicely into Shaffer's scheme of things lately, popped in 14 points to spark Washington C.H.'s scoring punch and Wallace contributed 13 points. Versatile Dick Witherspoon, an effective outside gunman, was the only other Lion in double digits with 10 points.

Allen Whiteside, a hard-working 6-foot-3 senior pivotman, hooped 23 points for Marysville and forward Calvin Low added 14.

Marysville opened with a man-to-man defense, but after Wallace had canned most of his seven first quarter points, Haschak switched to a zone. Wallace and Witherspoon combined for 11 points as the Lions grabbed a 15-11 first period lead.

The Lions sprinted to a 10-point cushion early in the second quarter and were never really threatened as Bath dropped in four free throws and Knisley hit a pair of goals and two foul shots to guide the Fayette Countians to a 31-26 lead at half.

Suddenly the lead evaporated as the Monarchs bucketed eight straight points while the Lions even misfired on five consecutive chances at the free throw stripe. Washington C.H.'s initial bucket of the third period came after more than four minutes had elapsed when Knisley canned a short jumper. Knisley scored six of the Lions' eight third period points and Marysville grabbed a 44-39 lead to set the stage for the fourth quarter thrills.

Jones sparks Panther victory

By ED SUMMERS
Record-Herald Staff Writer

A 26-point performance by Pete Jones led Miami Trace to a hard-fought 53-46 sectional tournament victory over Athens at Rio Grande College Saturday night.

The Panthers parlayed a fine 1-2-2 zone defense with a 20-point fourth quarter outburst to post their eighth consecutive win and earn the righ to face Meigs Friday for a trip to the district tourney.

A fine crowd of Panther fans who made the long journey to spacious Lyne Center squirmed and fretted through the first three quarters of play as the Panthers, apparently suffering from the tournament jitters, were unable to get their offense in gear. However, the Fayette Countians came to life in the fourth quarter and finally opened a six-point bulge midway through the last period, led by a hustling effort from junior guard Dave Steinhauser.

A FINE individual effort by Pete Jones kept Miami Trace in the thick of things during the first half. Pete tossed in 17 of the Panthers' 23 points in the half and also turned in a fine defensive performance.

Forward Mark Mace led the well-balanced Athens' attack with 13 markers, most coming on shots from either corner, followed by high-jumping Ted Essex and Steve Inbody both with nine points.

Coach Charlie McAfee's Bulldogs jumped to a quick 6-0 lead in the opening quarter before Pete Jones finally connected on a driving layup for the initial Panther score. Athens, boxing out well under the boards, allowed Miami Trace only one shot at the basket and its pressuring man-to-man defense forced the Panther offense outside.

Miami Trace opened the game in a man-to-man defense, but switched to the zone midway through the quarter. The Panthers closed the Bulldog lead to two points, 8-6, with 2:51 remaining but were four points short, 14-10 at the buzzer.

A TIPIN by Dave Persinger and two buckets by Pete Jones gave the Panthers their first lead of the game, 16-14 with three minutes gone in the second quarter. However, the Bulldogs, disciplined offense took advantage of three Miami Trace turnovers and outscored the Panthers 10-4 to take a 26-20 lead with 51 seconds showing. A three-point play by Jones with 40 seconds remaining closed the gap to three points, 26-23 at the half.

Neither team looked impressive in the third quarter, both throwing away numerous opportunities to open a big lead. The Panthers held a shortlived one point margin, 31-30, with 3:21 remaining but allowed the Bulldogs five points in the last two minutes and were down 35-33 as the final quarter got underway.

With Athens leading 39-37 and 4:36 left in the contest, Miami Trace finally became untracked and outscored the Bulldogs 10-2 in the next three minutes to open a six point 47-41 lead. Two baskets within 10 seconds by Steinhauser, one a driving layup, the other a result of a stolen Athens pass, opened a quick four-point lead for the Panthers at 43-39, from which they were never headed.

A half-court press by Athens in the last three minutes failed to disconcert Panther ballhandlers as they opened a 50-45 lead with 10 seconds remaining. Pete Jones sank the first shot of a bonus situation with one second left and Rick Cottrill tipped in the missed second shot to give the Panthers a 53-45 wing.

Junior center Dave Persinger came off the bench in the second quarter and turned in a fine performance, pumping in 10 points and grabbing seven rebounds for Miami Trace. Muff Jones, off his normal scoring pace, led the Panthers in rebounds with eight and also hit for eight points.

Pete Jones, in addition to his 26 points, stole the ball five times from Bulldog ballhandlers. The quick-handed Panthers had a total of 13 steals in the contest.

Free throws again played an important part in the Panther victory as they hit on 11 of 15 charity tosses. They also hit on 21 of 62 shots from the field for a 34 per cent clip.

The Panthers defense limited Athens to only 43 shots in the game, however the sharp-shooting Bulldogs made 20 of the fielders for 47 per cent. Their average at the free throw line suffered as they could connect on only five of 15 tosses.

The Jan Stauffer-coached Panthers committed only six turnovers in the contest while Athens made 24 miscues, many forced by the Panther zone.

Hillsboro sidelines McClain in tourney

Hillsboro got a 21-point scoring performance from Don Jewett and turned back a late comeback to continue its mastery over Highland County arch-rival Greenfield McClain 64-58 in the Waverly Class AA sectional basketball tournament Saturday night.

It was Hillsboro's third straight win over Greenfield this season and the second straight year the Indians have beaten McClain in first round of tourney play.

Jewett, the All-South Central Ohio League ace, popped in 10 field goals and a free throw, but got plenty of help from Mark Coffman who canned 16 points and Dave Larimer who contributed 12 markers as Hillsboro registered its fourth consecutive victory of the season.

IT WAS Greenfield's seventh straight loss of the campaign and sidelines head coach Sam Snyder's defending SCOL champs with a 4-15 all-games record.

Head coach Robert Ream's Indians, now 11-8 on the year, advance to the finals of the Waverly sectional. Hillsboro will meet the winner of the Albany Alexander (16-2) vs. Oak Hill (3-16) game at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Albany Alexander and Oak Hill will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

In the Groveport Class AA sectional tourney, Teays Valley earned a shot at Pickaway County rival Circleville by whacking a weak Hamilton Township team 85-53 Saturday. Teays Valley, now 13-6 will clash with Circleville, 15-4, at 8 p.m. Saturday.

In the Class AAA sectional at Rio Grande College Saturday night, Portsmouth posted a 66-59 win over Marietta to gain a berth in the lower bracket finals. Portsmouth, 12-7, will meet the winner of the Chillicothe-Jackson game which will be played Wednesday night.

Trevino wins Gleason tilt as Forrest Fezler falters

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Lee Trevino had a word of warning for Forrest Fezler, the heart-broken young man whose collapse let Trevino take the title and the $52,000 first prize in the Jackie Gleason Inverrary-National Airlines Golf Classic.

"He'll be nervous again," a sober and subdued Trevino said.

"I know. I've been there a lot more times than he has.

"There was a tremendous amount of pressure on him," Trevino continued. "But there was a lot of pressure on me, too.

"You know, you go for a while and you don't win—you're supposed to be one of the best players out here and you haven't won for a while and everybody starts wondering 'what's wrong with him?' Well, that puts pressure on you, too."

Trevino, the current British Open champion but a non-winner since last September, benefitted from Fezler's shakey putting on the last two holes Sunday and won the tournament while in the clubhouse.

"It's the first time I've ever won like that," Trevino said.

Circleville wins MT frosh cage tourney

Miami Trace's freshman basketball dropped a 44-34 decision to Circleville in the finals of the annual Miami Trace South Central Ohio League tournament Saturday.

The Panther frosh, who finished as tourney runnerups, got a 12-point scoring performance from Rodney Garringer.

Coach Terry Richard's Miami Trace bunch completed the season with a 7-10 all-games record.

IN OTHER tournament action Saturday, Washington C.H.'s seventh graders dropped a 34-29 decision to Wilmington in the finals of the Washington C.H. seventh grade tourney at the junior high gym.

John Denen and Doug Stewart scored 12 and 11 points respectively, but Jeff Elliott turned in a fine floor game for Coach Carl Anders' Lion Cubs who finished the season with a 9-4 record. The Lions had defeated Wilmington twice in the regular season.

300 persons attend annual awards banquet

McKinley Kirk honored by county horsemen

COUNTY AWARD WINNERS — These persons captured awards at the annual Fayette County Harness Horsemen's Association banquet held Saturday night at the Mahan Building. Owners of outstanding local horses and the top county driver were presented awards at the banquet. (Frank Henry Photo)

McKinley Kirk, a prominent businessman, bank director, horseman and farmer in the Washington C. H. and New Holland areas for the past 40 years who has owned, bred, trained and driven harness horses with outstanding success, was honored at the annual Fayette County Harness Horseman's Association banquet Saturday night at the Mahan Building. Three-hundred persons attended the banquet.

During the meeting, awards were presented to owners of outstanding local horses and the top Fayette County driver during the past year.

Kirk, widely-known in the nation's harness racing circles, has won countless awards and trophies. His red and white colors are on display at the Harness Racing Hall of Fame, Goshen, N. Y. He is the nation's leading amateur driver with 12 two-minute drives.

HE HAS bred, raised, trained and raced four world champions and has also trained and raced four horses which have been named Ohio Horse of the Year. Kirk has been a director of the United States Trotting Association for over 23 years and was recently re-elected to that position by an overwhelming majority. He is also a director of the Little Brown Jug Society.

Dudley Moon, 904 Leesburg Ave., was named the top Fayette County driver for the second year in a row. Moon posted a .417 winning percentage. In 68 starts he had 13 firsts, 21 seconds and 11 thirds. Ronnie Noel was second and Francis Rowe was third.

Awards were donated to Ima Jerry Way and Speeding Tara by Jack's Harness Equipment Co. and M&M Turf Supply Co.

THREE NEW Fayette County Harness Horsemen's Association directors were elected at the banquet. They were Dr. James A. McCoy, Ronnie Cornwell and Rick Kelley.

Films of the Hambletonian and Little Brown Jug racing classics were shown and the guest speaker was Paul Walker, head basketball coach at Middletown High School. Walker, the winningest high school coach in Ohio, is also a member of the Ohio State Racing Commission.

Music was provided by Jack Bartley and his Four Kings, of Circleville, and a smorgasbord type dinner was served.

NAIA tournament playoffs scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tournament playoffs for Ohio colleges is set to begin on March 5.

Paul Dowler all-events pin champ

Paul Dowler captured the all-events segment of the 23rd annual Washington C. H. Bowling Association's city tournament Sunday afternoon at Bowland Lanes.

Dowler, a low handicap bowler who is a member of Bell's Shell team in the Tuesday Night Commercial League, topped a 102-man field to win the all-events championship, but also turned in a fine performance in the doubles competition.

He combined with Ron Dowler to notch fourth place in the doubles action which attracted 63 teams and was won by Rick Kelley and Mike Wilson.

A TOTAL of 126 keglers participated in the singles competition and John Ackley Jr. nabbed the singles crown with a 707 three-game series with handicap.

Sunday's action completed the 1973 city bowling tournament. Brownie's Sohio, of the Monday Night Fraternal League, topped a 33-team field a week ago to win the team events title.

Tom Vrettos, secretary of the Washington C. H. Bowling Association, said the association's annual banquet will be held March 17 at Washington Country Club.

Here are the results. All are handicap totals:

DOUBLES

Rick Kelley and Mike Wilson 1286; Ed Helt and Mike Gaylord and Joe Jordan and Lester Jordan 1270; Joe McFarland and Jim Polk 1263; Ron Dowler and Paul Dowler 1257; Randy Fitzpatrick and Bob Bishop 1256; and Harley Evans and Jim Greene 1252.

SINGLES

Miami grabs MAC cage title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It was "esprit de corps," said Miami Coach Darrell Hedric, that enabled his Redskins to capture the Mid-American Conference basketball championship and a berth in the NCAA Mideast Regionals.

"I told the players this is what hard work and total dedication will do," Hedric said after Miami defeated Kent State 75-66 Saturday.

That victory, plus Bowling Green's 102-57 loss to Ohio University clinched the title for Miami with a 8-2 league record. Bowling Green fell to a game and a half back in the standings at 7-4 with one contest remaining.

Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley couldn't believe the beating his team took from Ohio University.

"I'm speechless for once in my life," the normally talkative Haley declared. "We played double bad today. . .I don't think it was Ohio pressure as much as the telling mistakes we made."

The Bobcats hit 53 per cent of their shots from the field. Bill Brown and Walter Luckett pumped in 23 and 20 points, respectively.

Ohio jumped off to a 24-6 lead and just kept widening the gap.

"We got a good jump and BG had a bad day," Ohio Coach Jim Snyder said. "Everything we did was good. Everything we put up went in."

In another conference game, Central Michigan edged Western Michigan 81-79 on a pair of free throws by Matt Means with 45 seconds left on the clock.

Meanwhile, Toledo, playing outside the league, surprised 16th-ranked Virginia Tech 89-74. The Rockets hit a hot 54 per cent of their shots and senior center Tom Kozelko chipped in 30 points.

"We just out-rebounded, outfree throwed, out-played 'em," Toledo Coach Bob Nichols said. "They're a good team," he added, "but you can't beat a buzz saw."

Cincinnati Swords top Rhode Island, 3-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The high road, the low road, any old road. It's all the same to the mighty Cincinnati Swords of the American Hockey League.

The Swords, running away with the Western Division title, set a league record of 21 road victories Sunday night in rallying for a 3-1 decision over the Rhode Island Reds.

In other games, Nova Scotia, the Eastern leader, whipped the Richmond Robins 5-2, Jacksonville blanked the Virginia Red Wings 3-0, the New Haven Nighthawks and the Baltimore Clippers tied 2-2, and the Rochester Red Wings defeated the Springfield Kings 5-3.

Fort Wayne, Dayton tied in standings

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)— Fort Wayne and Dayton are tied for the lead in the southern division of the International Hockey League.

The Komets moved into the tie with Sunday's 5-2 victory over the Toledo Hornets.

Agreement reached by owners, players

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball's training camps prepared today to sweep out the off-season cobwebs and finally make way for the bats ... and balls and players and, believe it or not, spring training.

The go-ahead to open shutdown camps from Florida to Arizona to California was given in New York Sunday following a three-year agreement reached at another in a series of meetings between representatives of the Major League Baseball Players Association and club owners.

Among those teams which announced plans to begin workouts today were the Chicago Cubs, New York Yankees, Kansas City Royals and Philadelphia Phillies.

In a joint statement, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, and John Gaherin, representing the 24 club owners, said they had "reached complete agreement for a three-year term subject to ratification by the clubs and players." However, ratification appeared to be a mere formality.

The settlement covers the so-called Basic Agreement, which governs active player-owner relations and the pension-benefit plan. It reportedly permits arbitration of salary disputes for players who have been in the major leagues for at least two consecutive seasons or a total of three years.

John Holland, vice president and general manager of the Cubs, termed the arbitration clause "a milestone in baseball." He called the accord "a very good settlement with give and take on both sides."

Holland said he didn't think the arbitration clause would lead to management problems. "Hockey has had arbitration for several years and it's worked very well for them," he said.

Chub Feeney, president of the National League, said players may "report to camp as soon as they can." He and his American League counterpart, Joe Cronin, then notified the 24 clubs that they could open their camps.

The owners had refused to open the training camps pending a settlement. They were fearful of a player strike similar to last year's two-week April walkout over the pension-benefit package which first delayed and then shortened the 1972 season.

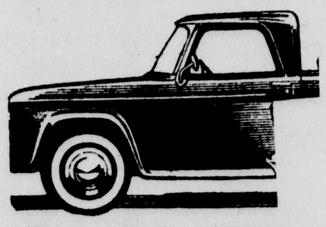

The reaction from management and players alike was one of relief that they finally could get down to the business at hand ... namely, preparing for the 1973 pennant races. Both sides realized that fans were getting tired of talk and ready for runs, hits and errors.

"The publicity surrounding it (the negotiations) turns fans off, and judging by phone calls and letters I received during the negotiation period that very definitely happened this year," said Frank Cashen, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

"I think all the ballplayers, including myself, are very happy they have reached the settlement," said Jim Palmer, a Baltimore pitcher.

Students take chance in gambling classes

By WILLIAM G. WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

CHESTER, PA. (AP) — It's a sure bet that 40 students at little Widener College felt the odds were stacked against them in Jill Masterson's class.

But they were game for something different, and so was the petite Miss Masterson, a 32-year-old professor with a doctorate in psychology.

The course was entitled Gambling 729. What else?

Two crap tables and a roulette wheel built by a student, plus some card tables, were set up in a long, narrow, carpeted room in the basement of the campus library.

Dr. Masterson even had loaded dice and marked cards for one class session.

GAMBLING 729 was her idea for a one-month, one-credit course which the college features each year. But she didn't think she'd get approval of the program committee, which has final say on all courses.

"I thought there would be adverse reaction," she said. "But there was none. They just approved it and said they were happy to see something jazzy."

Widener has 1,500 fulltime day students, but there was room for only 40 in Gabling 729. Dozens were turned away.

"This was a fun and games type of course, a non-academic experience but one in which the student learns something," said Dr. Masterson. "There has never been a course this far out at Widener. It's a learning experience like a trip to an art museum, but something in which there is less testing and less anxiety.

"I devised the idea because I wanted to study gambling," she admits. "It's a research idea and I intend to publish the data that I gather by watching people bet."

SHE BEGAN by giving a questionnaire to those who were signed for the course and those who couldn't be accepted. This spring, she plans to test both groups again to see if her students picked up any compulsive gambling habits.

"The students just love it," said the Enterprise, Ore., native. "This type of course is becoming more popular because college experience should be relevant to the student's needs and desires, and more oriented to the contemporary problems of society.

"Psychologists are interested in people's conception of chance as a research problem, just to see how the human psyche functions.

"It would bother me very much if I see that I'm sending out a new generation of gamblers. Still, I think it's more honest to study gambling than to sweep it under the table."

She says she'll know more after the follow-up questionnaire results are tabulated on types of bets, odds at winning and the frequency of gambling.

The course is not a first on American campuses. Last year, a similar program was conducted at the University of Delaware by Dr. Michael Kuhlman, a psychologist also studying compulsive gambling.

Brush Teeth After Meals

I seem to accumulate a great deal of placque on my teeth. Is there any special diet that can prevent this buildup?

It has caused me dental cavities all my life.

Miss H. G., Calif.

Dear Miss G.:

Preventive dentistry, a distinct part of preventive medicine, is the ultimate goal of dental scientists and educators. It is pathetic to see so many young adults wearing upper and lowers dentures because of poor hygiene and the ready sacrifice of teeth that might have been saved.

Dental placque is a complicated substance composed of bacteria, food, and sugars which adhere to the base of the teeth, and prevent saliva from exerting its protective buffering action.

When one looks at the teeth it is very difficult to see the early formation of placque. For this reason, a number of safe vegetable dyes are being used to discolor the placque and show the areas that should be more diligently cleansed.

These "disclosing" solutions, formerly used by dentists only, can be used in the home, even by children.

Thorough brushing can remove the red disclosing solution and the placque to which it has adhered. Perhaps the most effective message to convey to adults as well as to children.

When we consider the amount of time spent traveling to the dentist and in the dental chair trying to repair teeth that have been neglected we realize that a few moments of after-eating brushing are well worth the effort. Once the habit is developed it becomes simple and pleasant. Some people actually carry an infant's-size tooth bruth for this purpose.

Some schools of dental thought are enthusiastic about waxed dental floss and water spray machines, but many dentists feel that the water sprays themselves may be injurious to the gums, especially if the force is too strong.

My nephew developed blood poisoning from an infection of the foot, and almost died.

I thought these infections don't happen any more. What might have caused it?

Mrs. O. E., Mo.

Dear Mrs. E.:

Your confusion lies in the fact that you believe that blood poisoning, or septicemia, no longer exists. It most certainly does. When wounds are neglected and become infected, bacteria can enter the blood stream, multiply, and be responsible for an over-whelmingly serious condition.

The reason that septicemia is not heard of as often today is due to the fact that injuries are brought to the attention of a doctor earlier, and the infection is controlled by the concentrated use of antibiotics. Another important factor is the modern, more rapid ability for doctors to culture the blood find the exact type of invading bacteria, and use a specific antibiotic which is known to rapidly kill that particular germ.

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 4 ♥ | Pass | 5 ♥ | Pass |
| 6 ♥ | Pass | Pass | Dble |

Opening lead - ace of spades.

This deal occurred in the 1932 national pair championship. The hand itself was not extraordinary, but the atmosphere in which it was played lends considerable spice to the story.

East-West had already played half the afternoon session when they encountered this deal. During that time they had accomplished the unenviable feat of losing no fewer than seven aces during the play (mostly on defense).

They were naturally very disconsolate by the time they came to play this hand. North-South got to six hearts in jig style, mostly due to North's optimistic five heart bid. (It was back in the days before Blackwood came into vogue.)

Trying desperately to recover some points for his side, East doubled. His two aces looked simply colossal.

West, on lead, promptly plunked down the ace of spades, announcing jubilantly: "Well, here's one ace we won't lose."

West was mistaken. South trumped the ace and proceeded to make the slam. He led a heart to the eight, discarded a club on the king of spades, then led the king of clubs and ruffed East's ace.

Warming to his task, declarer crossed to dummy with another trump, cashed all five of dummy's remaining clubs — which were luckily divided 3-3 — and discarded all five of his diamonds on them. As a result, he wound up making the doubled contract with an overtrick!

Of course, had West led any suit but a spade, South would have gone down one and West's words would not have achieved immortality.

As it was though. East-West, who had started the deal having had seven of their aces put to sleep, finished the hand with three more aces to add to their collection.

Wine-tasting rules issued to curb California hustling

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The host of the perfect wine tasting affair might want to serve some bread, crackers, cheese or nuts "to clear the taste buds of the participants."

That's all right under new regulations adopted by the State of California governing wine tastings.

But outright hustling of orders for the wines being served is forbidden.

And "no student organization, college fraternity or sorority shall sponsor a winetasting," under the four pages of wine tasting rules distributed Friday by the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Department. They go into effect March 26.

Traditionally, California is known for its winery tours that end with a stop at the wine tasting room.

There, mom and dad savor some of the wines — dad trying to appear as knowledgeable a connoisseur as possible — while the children pass the time in a nearby playground or scramble around the picnic tables.

With the increasing popularity of wine-tasting parties came problems.

"It's becoming very popular," said Kermit Greene, chief of business practices for the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board (ABC).

"People were using it not just to promote knowledge of wine or to help charity, but — for instance — to open a new ski shop and getting someone to donate wine for it," he said.

Basically, the rules allow charities and other nonprofit groups to hold wine tastings if they buy a one-day license for $5.50, if there is no admission charge and if other conditions are met.

Selling of wines is prohibited and any brochures promoting wines must not contain order blanks.

Additionally, no leftovers — except possibly the cheese or nuts — can be taken home.

Find children playing with high explosive

Hunt dynamite near Mt. Sterling

MOUNT STERLING — Air Force bombsquad divers were still searching a section of Mud Run Creek, near the Bragg Road bridge, today for more dynamite after 21 sticks were found in the water there Sunday.

Madison County sheriff's deputies said the search started Saturday when a passing motorist noticed several children playing with what appeared to be sticks of dynamite wrapped in bread wrappers. The motorist notified Mount Sterling police who began an investigation.

The area is about three miles west of Mount Sterling.

Officers said the dynamite was manufactured about 1970 and was very unstable in water.

Bomb experts, called from Lockbourne Air Force Base found part of the dynamite used by the children, their idenity still unknown, and a diver recovered 21 sticks in the water Sunday.

Sheriff's deputies said the youngsters were apparently fishing when their lines snagged the box. They said the dynamite appeared to have been placed in the creek for disposal and not for criminal purposes.

In the meantime the search for what is believed to be a half of a box of the high explosive is continuing.

Pair on trial in tot's death

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP)— A former Ohio school teacher and the unemployed carpetner-musician she lived with in a tent on a wooded ridge overlooking the Pacific Ocean are on trial here in the death of her battered 15-month-old daughter.

Susan Dager Young, 27, and Roland P. Dion, 24, the defendants, say little Rainbow Dawn Young died in Santa Cruz Dominican Hospital last Oct. 28 of injuries received accidentally.

But Chris Cottle, a deputy district attorney, has told a jury of nine women and three men: "We will ask that you find both of these defendants guilty of torturing this little baby to death."

Boys' Choir concert is well received

There were few seats left in the First Christian Church sanctuary Sunday evening when the Fayette County Boys' Choir presented its annual concert of sacred music.

The audience, which gave the 20-member choir a warm reception, also expressed its appreciation by contributions to the fund to help finance the choir's annual educational trip. The trip this year will take the 21 choir members and chaprones to historic Charlottesville, Va., the weekend after Easter Sunday.

The choir sang seven numbers. It was accompanied by John Huffman the regular pianist. Mrs. Mary Sue Spangler, the church organist, also accompanied several songs.

Mrs. Robert E. Willis, who organized the choir 17 years ago, directed the concert.

The program included a bass solo, "The Lord's Prayer, by Jeff Fannin. Tim Dunlap sang the solo part of the closing number, "Where in the World."

The message was given by the Rev. Don Baker, the church pastor. Don Eyre, of the choir, gave the invocation and Jeff Overly, also a choir member, read the Scripture.

Mrs. Willis said anyone interested in becoming a patron of the Choral group may send a contribution to her at her home, 11 Willis Court. The Rotary Club and Washington Savings Bank are the principal sponsors.

Thefts, vandalism incidents checked

Police and sheriff's deputies investigated a variety of thefts and vandalism incidents over the weekend, including the burglary of a local tax service officer.

Police said someone forced entry into the Fennig Tax Service, 324 W. Court St., sometime overnight Friday and made off with items and cash worth $139.

The burglar had pried a hasp lock of the cellar door on the north side of the building and entered the offices from the basement. Desk drawers in the office were ransacked, and $25 and cash was removed from one. Also taken was a man's coat, two transistor radios and 50 postage stamps.

Police said the burglar had used a screwdriver to pry open the lock.

Bert Free, New Holland, reported that someone had removed a box of tools, and other items from his truck, which was parked at his residence. Loss was set at $82.

An outhouse and an old refrigerator at the Raymond Rinehart residence in Milledgeville were overturned sometime Friday night. Rinehart said the refrigerator was stored in his back yard at the time.

Alfred Dixon, 112 W. Paint St., reported to police that vandals cut the coaxial cable to his radio antenna sometime Friday.

County to assist Jeffersonville in repairing street

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners has authorized the county engineer to assist Jeffersonville Village in repairing Railroad St. in the village.

The commissioners agreed to assist the village in hauling and grading stone. The material is to be furnished by the village.

Commissioner J. Herbert Perrill was authorized to attend the County Commissioners Association meeting Thursday and Friday in Columbus.

The dog warden reported 33 calls were made during the preceding week.

The commissioners accepted a bid of $2,665 for the purchase of a three-quarter ton truck from Ralph Hickman, Inc. A bid of $2,692.33 was submitted by Billie Wilson Chevrolet. Both bids were net bids and included the trade-in of an old truck. The Hickman bid was for a GMC truck and the Wilson bid was for a Chevrolet.

Author to appear on 'Today' program

PRINCETON, N. H. — Prof. William A. Owens of Columbia University, who is a member of a National Humanities Series program on the "American Frontier," will be featured as a guest on the NBC-TV network program "Today" Tuesday between 7 and 9 a.m. Owens' appearance is in conjunction with the publication by Scribner of "A Season of Weathering," the second volume of his autobiography.

The book tells the story of a Texas country boy striving for a livelihood and the education to make him a teacher. Owens, who grew up in Pin Hook, Tex., in the hard times of the Twenties, tells what it was like to be a boy in those times and in the process celebrates mankind.

A former dean of the Summer Session at Columbia University, Owens remains on the faculty as a professor of English and teacher of creative writing. He is an expert on folk music and folk materials and the author of eight previous books, novels and nonfiction.

CAB CHIEF? — Congressional sources in Washington said that Robert D. Timm, above, is to be named chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board. A Republican from Harrington, Wash., he has been on the CAB since December, 1970.

Courts

DIVORCES ASKED

Two new divorce suits have been filed in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Lula B. Penwell, 734 John St., has filed suit for a divorce against Robert E. Penwell Sr., 734 John St., on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married Apirl 11, 1955, in Washington C.H. and have five children, according to the petition. The plaintiff seeks custody of and support for the minor children and a restraining order.

Donald E. Palmer Sr., Rt. 2, Washington C.H., has filed suit for a divorce against Vera J. Palmer, Rt. 4, Washington C.H. on grounds of neglect. The couple were married Feb. 19, 1949, in Maysville, Ky., and have one child, according to the petition. The plaintiff seeks custody of the child.

TRAFFIC CASES

Three traffic cases involving speeding were heard Friday by Juvenile Court Judge Rollo M. Marchant. All three youths were found to be juvenile traffic offenders.

Richard E. Moore, 17, son of Mrs. John Mick, Rt. 5, Washington C.H. appeared on an Ohio Highway Patrol charge. His operator's license was conditionally suspended for 30 days. He was arrested Jan. 22 in Clinton County and the case was certified to the Fayette County court.

The operator's license of Gregory M. Detty, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Detty, Jeffersonville, was suspended for 30 days on a charge filed by the Ohio Highway Patrol. He was arrested Feb. 10.

The court also conditionally suspended the operator's license of Stephen E. Rich, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Rich, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., for 30 days. He was arrested Feb. 11 by the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Huntington Shares announces dividend

COLUMBUS — Huntington Bancshares Inc. has announced a dividend of 44 cents per share payable April 2 to shareholders of record March 9.

The corporation reported total assets in excess of $1.23 billion as of Dec. 31, 1972, an increase of 11.8 per cent from a year ago. Also reported were consolidated net operating earnings before securities gains of $4.02 per share, an increase of 5.9 per cent over the preceding year. Fourth quarter 1972 net operating earnings were $1.15 per share, an increase of 18.2 per cent over the same quarter last year.

Huntington Bancshares is a registered bank holding company based in Columbus, Ohio. During 1972 The First National Bank of Wadsworth and The First National Bank of Kenton became affiliated with the corporation, bringing the total to 12 affiliated banks operating 74 banking offices. The Washington Savings Bank is an affiliate.

Retired Teachers to hear Dr. Rhoad

Dr. C. Elton Rhoad, a retired teacher, who spent several years as a government representative in India, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Fayette County Retired Teachers Association following luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Thursday in the Terrace Lounge.

Association President Kenneth Craig said teachers who retired after last year and those who have moved here from elsewhere are welcome to attend the luncheon and meeting and join the association if they are interested. The association now has between 50 and 60 members.

Parent-teacher meetings are set by city schools

The second parent-teacher conference of this school year will be Thursday afternoon in the city's five elementary schools and the junior and senior high schools.

Supt. Edwin Nestor said conferences will follow the same pattern as those in October, which, he said, were successful.

Nestor explained that the conferences are designed to give the parents and teachers an opportunity to get together if they have any common problems to discuss.

He pointed out that parents are welcome to visit the schools any time, but conferences such as these provide time for teachers and administrators to talk with them.

He suggested that parents make appointments to meet with the teachers. The appointments may be made at the principals' offices of any of the schools. Nestor emphasized, however, that appointments are not necessary.

The students will be dismissed after the regular morning session and will not return for afternoon classes.

Ohio tax assistance available

Assistance in completing the Ohio personal income tax return is available at the Fayette County Courthouse each day during regular courthouse hours. An agent of the Ohio Department of Taxation is located on the second floor.

Governor John J. Gilligan said agents will be at various locations in all of Ohio's 88 counties on designated dates up to the April 16 filing deadline.

Tax Commissioner Robert J. Kosydar said taxpayers who have not received or have misplaced their Ohio personal income tax return can obtain additional forms by writing the Ohio Department of Taxation, P. O. Box 2679, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

Kosydar said forms are also available at any of the department's district offices located in Akron, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Youngstown and Zanesville or from agents participating in the taxpayer information program.

Old devices set to tame Lake Erie

BAY VILLAGE, Ohio (AP)— A 7,000-year-old answer to shore erosion will be put into practice along a section of Lake Erie this spring in hopes it will tame the lake's high water levels and wave action.

The erosion control devices, called "gabions," are rectangular steel mesh baskets that are filled with stones and sunk offshore. They will be used to build a 180-foot seawall along the Bay Village shoreline just west of Cleveland.

The cost of $25,000 will be shared by the city and the affected homeowners.

The gabions, from the Latin word which means "cage," are manufactured in Italy, but their use began in about 5,000 B.C. when ancient Egyptian engineers used them to in the construction of dikes along the Nile.

Record rainfalls have raised Lake Erie water levels, and residents of shoreline areas in northern Ohio have been worried for several months about the possibility of increased erosion this spring.

The gabions were recommended for the area by a state Department of Natural Resources study, according to Bay Village officials, who said the stone-filled baskets disperse the force of the waves.

Because the water can actually flow through the gabions, however, the stone-filled baskets are sturdier than other types of erosion control, according to Peter J. Gray, president of Great Lakes Permagroin, Inc., which distributes the gabions.

Barge explosion suits increase

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — More than $7 million in claims have been filed as a result of a January 1972 barge explosion on the Ohio River here.

Two men were killed and tremendous property damage occurred on both the West Virginia and Ohio sides of the river in the massive blast.

The owner of the barges, Meljoy Transportation Co. of Blue Island, Ill., has petitioned U. S. District Court to limit its liability in the incident to $192,400.

The firm claims it was not at fault in the explosion but requested limited liability if it is held responsible.

Say documents disclose plot against hero

NEW YORK (AP) — A Senate committee has been given classified documents that Lt. Col. Anthony B. Herbert says support his contention that the Army wanted to oust him for speaking out about alleged war crimes in Vietnam, the New York Times reported today.

The Times said that it had obtained copies of the documents which were mailed to the Senate Armed Services Committee last week in care of one of its members, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

One document addressed to then Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland and signed by Gen. Walter T. Kersin, deputy chief of staff for personnel, suggested a way to dismiss Herbert, the Times said.

According to the Times, the document said that in the opinion of the Judge Advocate General's office statements critical of the Army attributed to Herbert in a Life magazine article "form sufficient basis to take adverse administrative action against him."

Senate faces close deadline on foreign aid, HEW funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is facing a Wednesday deadline for extending stopgap funding for foreign aid and the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Spending authority expires at midnight Wednesday. A vote was scheduled today.

The House has voted a continuing resolution to extend both appropriations until June 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved the four-month extension for Labor HEW, but only two months for foreign aid.

President Nixon vetoed the annual Labor-HEW appropriation bill twice last year, saying it was too big.

The foreign aid appropriation for the current fiscal year was abandoned in Congress last year because of a House-Senate deadlock on a new authorization for military aid programs.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee scheduled a voting session today on a new military aid authorization.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright asked for only a one-month extension of foreign aid funding pending action on the new authorization bill.

In raising it two months, Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said the Appropriations Committee concluded that one month was not enough time to get both an authorization and an appropriation through both branches of Congress.

Foreign aid bills have been encumbered for years with tnd-the-war and other extraneous amendments and bogged down last year over an amendment to require that all executive agreements for U.S. military bases on foreign soil be submitted for Senate ratification as treaties.

The continuing resolution would extend appropriations for Labor-HEW at an annual rate of $29.9 billion, $1.8 billion more than Nixon's budget, and for foreign aid at a $3.6-billion annual rate, $1.5 billion less than budget requests.
